PROF. CASTERLINE'S BOOK.

Second Edition of "Forty Years at Cast Steel."

Professor W. S. Casterline, of Pittston, was in this city yesterday supervising the work of getting ready for the public the second edition of his book "Forty Years at Cast Steel and Tool Making." It has just been issued from the Tribune press. Professor Casterine is an author-ity on cast steel and until his health broke down several years ago was the boss tool dresser in some of the largest manufacturing plants in the country. The first edition of his book was sold from one end of the continent to the other as well as in Europe. You can get more general information out of it in one-half day about blacksmithing, tool-dressing, tool-making and the art of working and tempering cast steel than you can in the average shop in a life-time. This work was not written by a college graduate, who has no knowledge of cast steel, except what he reads and others tell him, but was written by a blacksmith and tool-maker that has blacksmith and tool-maker that has stood over the anvil for forty years with hammer in hand, and whose tools have been in use for years in all civilized countries on the globe. He has written nothing except what is truthful, useful and to the point. This book is the fruits of a lifetime experience. When you buy it you get, in a few minutes what the author has been a whole lifetime collecting, and in some instances paying fabulous prices for recipes and other information contained in it. The work is the brains and gen-The work is the brains and gen in it. The work is the brains and gen-ius of more than a thousand smiths that the author has come in contact with Professor Casterline exhibits a case of tools all of which he has manufactured by hand and some of which he has patented. They are marvels as showing what sonius can accomplish with that genius can accomplish with a hammer and anvil.

Norman & Moore ORGANIZING THE GRAND COUNCIL

in Session in This City.

IMPORTANT BUSINESS BEFORE IT

Constitution and By-Laws for the Government of the Atlantic Jurisdiction Are to Be Prepared and Adopted -- Entertainment for the Delegates Last Night.

Delegates from the local councils of the Young Men's Institute in the terri-tory embraced in the Pennsylvania jurisdiction met in this city yesterday to organize the grand council of this to organize the grand council of this jurisdiction and adopt laws for its gov-jurisdiction and adopt laws for its government.

Until last February there were but two jurisdictions of the institute, the Atlantic and Pacific. In February the supreme council of the order met in Denver, Col., and in consequence of the Institute's great growth decided to divide the country into a number of jurisdictions. The New England and Middle states constitute what is known as the Pennsylvania jurisdiction and yesterday it began its official existence.

The delegates assembled in College hall and at 9 o'clock attended mass in St. Peter's cathedral. Rev. J. A. Mc-Hugh was celebrant. Rev. J. A. Mc-Hugh was celebrant. Rev. J. E. McAndrew, sub-deacon. The sermon was preached by Rev. J. J. B. Feeley, spiritual director of John Boyle O'Rellly council of this city. He took for his text the words found in St. Peter's first epistle, "For so is the will of God. that by doing well you may put to silence the ignorance of foolish men. As free and not making liberty a cloak for malice, but as the servant of God. Honor all reen, love the brotherhood, fear God." After mass the delegates returned to College hall where C. B. Adams, of Altoona, organizing deputy, called the delegates to order and in doing so made a short address. A temporary organization was affected by electing P. H. Gilleran, of this city, president, and W. J. COMMITTEES NAMED. Committees were appointed on cre-dentials, finances and law and super-vision. The latter is a very important one as it will present to the grand council a draft of the constitution and by-laws for the government of the ju-risdiction which will be acted upon to-day by the delegates. It is probable that the greater part of the day will be devoted to the consideration of the various sections presented. The con-stitution must follow the lines laid down by the supreme council but the by-laws, or working rules of the jurisdiction will be prepared by this committee. On Thursday officers will be elected which will probably close the work of the grand council.

After the committees were named a letter was read from Bishop M. J. Ho-ban who expressed his regrets at not being able to attend the sessions of the grand council. Telegrams of congratu-lation were sent to John J. McDade, of San Francisco, supreme president to the Kentucky jurisdiction, now in ses-sion at Louisville. At 3 o'clock the grand council adourned until this morning to give the members of the committees on law and supervision an opportunity to prepare their report. After the adjournment of the council the visitors were shown about the city and were much im-pressed by its size and progressive

EVENING ENTERTAINMENT. In the evening a semi-public entertainment and reception was held in Music hall. The delegates occupied positions of honor in the first rows of seats. On the platform were Rev. J. J.
B. Feeley, speaker of the evening, M.
J. McAndrew, chairman; C. B. Adams, of Altoona, and E. P. Mitchell, of this city. The hall was crowded, members of all of the councils of this vicinity with their friends being present.

The evening's programme opened with an address by the chairman, Mr. McAndrew, who welcomed the visitors to the city in a happy way. Miss kate Saltry and Edward O'Malley gave a plano duett, "The Detroit Journal March," which was followed by a vocal solo, "Yes," by Miss Annie Brown, of Olyphant, the possessor of a sweet, sympathetic voice.

Rev. J. J. R. Feeley was then intro-duced and delivered a short but elo-quent address on the aims and objects of the Young Men's Institute. Its pri-mary object was to teach its members to be good citizens and good Christians. In closing he referred to the necessity for more commodious rooms for the central city council of the Young Men's Institute, which has quite outgrown its present meeting place. Father Feeley's address was earnest and patriotic throughout and was frequently interrupted by applause.

OTHER NUMBERS. Miss Kathryn I. Donahoe and Miss Anna L. Fitzhenry, of the South Side, were warmly applauded for their fine rendition of "How Do You Know." Thomas Larkin, of the West Side, re-

PREPARING FOR KNIGHTS.

Work of Decorating the Buildings Has Already Begun-Details All Well in Hand.

Scranton on several similar occasions in past years has never contained the flag and bunting decorations that will be displayed next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, the days of the conclave of the grand commandery, Knights Templar.

The Hotel Jermyn, Wyoming house Valley house, Traders' National bank, Coal Exchange, new board of trade building, and, in fact, all the large building, and, in fact, all the large structures in the business section and the houses along the proposed line of Tuesday's parade will be a mass of col-ors. A large number of store proprie-tors have arranged to decorate their places of business independent of the places or business independent of the general display of bunting on the buildings in which the stores are located. Several of these individual decorations will include electric displays at night. The work of decorating the massive Hotel Jermyn and other buildings has already been started and the same is Hotel Jermyn and other buildings has already been started and the same is true of other large structures.

As the interval preceding the time for the conclave shortens it becomes apparent that the executive committee having in charge the general arrangements for the gathering has performed its work well. The thousand and one details involved in such a great undertaking have all been attended to and from now until Monday the executive committee and large number of sub-committees will be busily occupied only in seeing that their plans and orders are carried out. Thus far no unforseen contingency has presented itself without being overcome.

What with Barnum, base bail and the Knights Templar, Scranton will have its fill of entertainment. It all will require a great deal of care and foresight Upon the announcement of the in handling what may be the largest crowds in the city's history.

SCRANTON BROADBENT DEAD.

Passed Away at 11 O'clock Monday Night Rather Suddenly.

Colonel Scranton Broadbent, super-intendent of the Dickson Manufacturing company's pattern shop, died Mon-day evening at 11 o'clock at his home, corner of Jefferson and Electric avenues. He had been in failing health for the past nine years, but was out driving Monday morning. At 6 o'clock that evening he was stricken with a severe stomach trouble, and gradually grew worse until his death.

The deceased was 35 years of age, and is survived by a wife and three children. He was a son of Sidney Broadbent, ex-superintendent of the Dickson works. The funeral arrangements will be announced later.

FUNERAL OF A. LEE.

RATTLE MR. GRIER

APPEALS FROM HIS DECISIONS

They Were Not Effective, for a Majority of the Members Present Were in Favor of the Chairman's Action. Paving Muddle is Still Muddled.

The special meeting of common coun-cil called by the outwitted Barber as-phalt adherents last night was one of the liveliest on record. The effort to annul council's action in reconsidering the awarding of the contract for paving Monroe avenue, by which it was taken from the Barber company and given to Dunn Bros., after five of the Barber men had left the meeting, falled, first, because one of the men who voted with because one of the men who voted with them last time, Gilroy, of the Seventh, was absent, and second, because Chair-man Grier was in the chair.

The fight was made on the minutes.
When Clerk Hatton had finished their reading Mr. Nealis attacked the por-tion relating to the reconsideration as being irregular and moved to strike them out. Messrs. Oliver and Keller armed that they were a correct record them out. Messrs. Oliver and Keller argued that they were a correct record of the proceedings and until they were proved otherwise no part of them could be expunged. Mr. Oliver embodied his contention in a point of order and the chair ruled that as the minutes were a correct record of the proceedings, the point of order was well taken. Mr. Nealis then appealed from the decision of the chair. Messrs. Sweeney decision of the chair, Messrs, Sweeney and Regan seconding the appeal. Mr. Grier sat back in his chair and paid no heed to the appeal when Mr. Nealis placed it before him on the desk. After a wait of a few moments Clerk Hatton picked up the appeal and said he want-ed instructions as to whether or not he should put the motion, it being evident that the chair was not disposed to do it. "Isn't the appeal regular?" Mr. Nealis asked.

"It is not my place," replied Mr. Grier, "to instruct you as to the proper method of taking an appeal from my decision. If I was going to take an ap-peal I would first find out how to prop-erly proceed."

Ayes—Loftus, Simon Thomas, R. E. Thomas, Flanaghan, Moir, Seamans, Oliver, Zeidier, Keller, Grier—10, Nays—Gordon, Regan, Wenzel, Wirth, Seweney, Nealis, Noone, McGrall, Norton—8

Mr. Wirth asked to change his vote from nay to aye, but evidently the clerk did not hear him, for he was recorded with the nays. Mr. Gordon voted aye under a misapprehension. Select Councilman J. J. Manley, who was sitting near by, called his attention to the mistake, and Mr. Scamans called the attention of the chair to Mr. Manley's interference, whereupon the chair called Mr. Manley down. A howl went up from the Barber men because they feared the chair would not hear to Mr. Gordon's request, but after repeated interruptions and calls to order, the chair announced that the gentleman's vote had been chall the gentleman's chair announced that the gentleman's vote had been changed in accordance ement of the result of the voting on the appeal Mr. Grier deciared the reports of committees in order but Mr. Nealis objected to going out of the second order, the reading of out of the second order, the reading of minutes as they had not been approved. Chairman Grier decided that the minthat the min-utes had been approved by the action of council in sustaining his decision, and that he had decided that they had been approved before Mr. Nealis raised any objection.

MR. NEALIS' DENIAL.

Mr. Nealis denied this, arguing that that house had merely decided to sus-tain Mr. Oliver's point of order and not o approve the minutes. He called upon to approve the minutes. He called upon Clerk Hatton for any minute he might have of the minutes having been approved but Mr. Hatton could not find any motion to that affect.

Mr. Nenlis appealed to the chair's sense of fairness and justice, warned him against doing something that would brand him as a bulldozer, overriding all the rules of councils and threatened him with all kinds of dire calamities in the future, but Mr. Grier heeeded him not, further than to tell nim he was out of order and to direct him to take his seat. By way of diversion Mr. Sweeney called the chair "an old bulldozer" and the chair told him to either comport himself as a gentleman or leave the room. Mr. Sweeney only laughed at

This kind of thing went on for quite & time, Messrs Nealis and Sweeney ob-jecting to everything and contending that council was still in the second or der of business, consideration of the minutes, the chair proceeding amidst all the turmoil with his calls for reports of committees in their regular order and the subsequent orders of

MR. NEALIS APPEALS.

Mr. Nealis started out in pacific tones to appeal for a calm consideration of the very much muddled affair, but before he had proceeded far his ind tion got the better of him and he made the insinuation that Mr. Keller, Mr. Flannigan, Mr. Moir, Mr. Seamans and the othersknew they were in the wrong and stood by the chair because it was and stood by the chair because it was of some interest to themselves.

Mr. Flaunighan fairly exploded with indignation at the accusations and in replying to it said that the man who would give a contract to a firm that was the highest bidder should not stand up to question the actions of men who were heeding the voice of their conscience and the voice of the people. He could not do as they had done, he said, and thus bring disgrace upon himself and thus bring disgrace upon himself and his family. There was no reply to Mr. Flannighan's remarks. When the sixth order of business, the introduction of new measures was an-nounced, Messrs. Nealis and Sweeney gave up their efforts to convince the chair that they were still in the second order and recognized the order of busi-ness, as declared by the chair, by introness, as declared by the chair, by intro-ducing a resolution declaring as null and void the action of council at the last meeting in reconsidering the awarding of the paving contract by a motion made by a member who voted in the minority, and directing the president to certify to select council the resolution awarding the contract to the Barber Asphalt com-pany.

Mr. Grier promptly ruled the resolution out of order, alleging that it was in the same category as the other measures he had refused to entertain. Mr. Keller also contended that the resolution was out of order as it was virginial to the Barber Asphalt company.

tually a reconsideration of a reconsideration and negatived the minutes. Mr. Nealis made another appeal from the decision of the chair, but the chair refused to entertain the appeal, and proceeded to call for the regular order until the tenth order, adjournment, was reached. A motion to adjourn was made by Mr. Seamans, but it was lost by the same vote as in the preceding case, ten to nine. Mr. Noone moved to go back to the sixth order, but Chairman Crier declared him out of order ruling that the only busines before the house was adjournment and saying that he would entertain no motion except a motion to adjourn.

Then by a viva vore vote, the chair declared the house adjourned, despite Mr. Nealis' call for the ayes and nays and his protest that the motion to adjourn was out of order because the last preceding motion was on adjournment.

There were some lively exchanges between the members as they were leaving the chamber and warnings that the night's doings would not be forgotten.

SOME WONDERFUL FEATS.

Being Performed by the Sages, Mesmerists, at the Academy.

Sages continued their feats of mesmerism and hypnotism last night at the Academy of Music. If possible, the performance created more wonder than did the one on the epening night when the more pronounced feats were practiced upon the Sages' agents. Last night the act of piercing the arm with a hat-pin was performed on a man named Martin, of Carbondale. It was done with his consent, and he walked among the audience with the pin stuck beneath about an inch of the skin on his forearm.

A son of Prof. F. E. Wood was placed in a state of catilepsey and his rigid form placed on the backs of two chairs located several feet from each other. Mr. Sage then stood on the young man's

ody. When the entertainment began, 35 when the entertainment began, as subjects responded to the invitation to go upon the stage, and 27 were soon found to be susceptible. During the feats which followed one of the subjects, a lad about 16 years old, was caught "faking" and was requested to leave the stage.

"Maybe there ain't enough signers, but I can get more," said Mr. Nealis, and taking the appeal from the desk he got Messrs, Gordon, Wenzel and Noone to attach their signatures. When he brought it back Mr. Grier smiled a wicked smile and directing the clerk to read the appeal, put it before the house, without any explanation of his previous refusal to do so. By a vote of ten to nine the decision of the chair was sustained, the members voting as follows:

Ayes—Loftus, Simon Thomas, R. E. Thomas, Flanaghan, Moir, Seamans, Several subjects in an imaginary balloon sending them into the clouds. All of yesterday hundreds of curious persons peered into the display win-dow of Dunn's furnishing goods store where Milton Balaniger lay sleeping. He OBBY OVELTIES.

IN EASTER JEWELRY WILL BE FOUND IN ENDLESS ASSORTMENT AT THE NEW JEWELRY STORE

215 Lackawanna Avenus. We sell Diamonds. Watches, Jewelry, etc., at intrinsic value prices, and as there is not one cent's worth of our large and attractive stock that has not come direct to our new store from manufacturers, importers and jobbers, we think a look through it might instant our news.

Will Open About April 1. TURNQUEST & CO.
