reader will appreciate the extracts from the able discourse as given below: Proverbs, xiv, 3. True Patriotism. When earth's population began to multi-plose of self-government and self-prote-tion and in becoming subjected to the con-dition of these societies thus established, they were compelled to surrender certain individual liberties which belonged to them in a natural state, and the individual was taught to respect his neighbor's rights in order that his own rights might prop-erly be respected also. The first form of government we have any record of m either sacred or pronfane history was tribal. Men bended themselves to-either sacred or pronfane history was tribal. Men bended themselves to-either sacred or profine history was tribal. Men bended themselves to under some mighty chief. Their tribes frequently matrice with each other and the weaker was compelled to succumb to the stronger, until, as a result of the con-questsof some of the tribes, mighty empires urose. This was government established by might and not by right. Effeminate and havary are enemies to the stability of government, Ancient Syra fell before the mighty armies of the Medes and Per-sians, who finally became weak from their induigances in luxuries. They in turn were struck down by the unconquerable for more worlds to conquer, and then died of adrunken debauch. The early success of Rome was in the days of her sterling mor-ality. Later on, with the world at her feel, she became weak by indulgence in vice and when she was was easily overcome as in times past her own victories had bean achieved. IT HOLDS GOOD TODAY. SWINDLERS ARRESTED.

Among the most stirring Memorial Day sermons delivered yesterday was a discourse upon "True Patriotism," de-livered by Rev. S. C. Simpkins of the Peckville Methodist Episcopal church. The Bogus Firm of B. Blank in the Hand's of Detectives-Many Victims in Pennsylvania.

New York, May 24.—Two detectives today arrested the evident leaders of the bogus firm of B. Blank, No. 29 Mur-ray street, which has been victimizing small manufacturers in nearly every state in the union during the last two months. The man arrested is Henry Seelig, 42 years old, who said he was a merchant and lived at 207 Lenox ave-nue. The other men who were arrested in connection with the same case were remanded until tomorrow when all three will be arraigned. The charge against them i, attempted grand lar-ceny. The police have in their posses-sion 776 letters of the correspondence leading up to the point where the dupe ships the goods to the supposed repu-table firm of H. Blank. These shippers evidently thought that they were doalstate in the union during the last two evidently thought that they were deal-ing with B. Blank, of 344 Greenwich street, who is a reputable and wealthy dealer in the same kind of merchandise that the bogus B. Blank firm swindled its country friends out of. During the two months that the bogus firm has been doing business they must have received thousands of dollars worth of wines, cigars, leather, canned worth of whee, cigars, leather, canned goods and groceries from their victims. Among his victims are J. W. Dien, Gordonville, Pa.; H. G. Mills, Voltair, Pa.; W. J. Runkle, Red Lion, Pa.; D. D. Byersch, Cressman, Pa.; J. C. Neff & Company, Red Lion, Pa.; J. R. BLOOMER WOMAN IN A RUNAWAY.

William Wellman Under Arrest for Alienating Her Affections,

Ansonia, Conn., May 24 .- The people Ansonia, Conn., May 24.—The people of Shelton have been greatly interested this spring in a handsome young wo-man who rode her bleycle about town in bloomers. They wondered who she was, but all they could find out was that her same was Miss Lake and that she had taken the French place at White Hills for the summer. Last night she spent several hours in a cell in the police station trying to comfort her lover, William Wellman, who had her lover, witham weimin, who had been arrested for allenating the affec-tions of Mrs. Walter H. Larkin, wife of a well-known New Haven contrac-tor. Miss Lake and Mrs. Larkin were one.

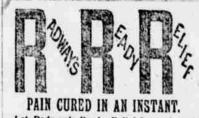

Last fall Wellman met Mrs. Larkin at Branford and fell in love with her. He is good looking, and she posed as The is good how man. The love was returned, and as he rents a farm at White Hills she came there to live. Wellman took his meals at Mrs. Lar-kin's house and spent all his evenings there.

A few days ago a book agent came to her house and made an engagement to sell her a book. On Thursday night to sell her a book. On Thursday high the arrived quite late and was let in. He found Wellman there. Yesterday the book agent, who was Detective McEnerey, of New Haven, returned with the injured husband and Chlef of Police Tomlinson, of Shelton, who achieved. IT HOLDS GOOD TODAY. The same holds good today—no nation can survive sybaritic methods of living. The decologue is the basis of all just laws, and the nation that makes just laws and whose magistrates rule in the interests of the people, with no thought of their own interest, is the nation that will endure. How many nations now existing have within themseives the elements of their dwn ruln. Look at Europe, where the dvine right of kings to rule is held. Rus-sia is ground down under the iron heel of an autocrat, a whisper of criticism uf-fecting the methods of the tyrant and the subject finds himself in the chain-gang marching to the mines of Siberia. This is government by man and that man at the head of the church; wonderful achieve-ments, large passions, and great men do nut marconness, provincialism and vui-garity in some of the braggart shouts over our own national itainments, com-ing from demagogues who had as little knowledge of what humanity had accom-plished in the work which had been made hy the fragment of Europe stranded for a brie century on these remote shores, But when there is a genuine love of coun-pardon some things. As that master mind working the full so fill solver of the play in sor-nardon some things. As that master mind working the methods of the spired of ibertion ardon some things. As that master mind working the fragment of the spiresion, we can pardon some things. As that master mind working the fragment of the spiresion we can ardon some things. As that master mind working the fragment of the spiresion we can ard the faults of the spiresion we can particle indifference that sees no hallowed ground at Bunker Hill, Norristown or valley Forge; who does not feel the parti-dic blood dap in his velow when he walks over the blood-drenched soil of Spotsyl-vand, Chancellorsville and Gettyburg, who sees no greatness to rever he a Wash-ington, Lincoln, a Grant, Sherman or sheridan; who sees no object worthy of entited States Sheridan; who sees no object worthy of Sheridan; who sees no object worthy of deathless love in the Constitution of the United States and in the Union which so many died to save. MISS WILLIAMS FOUND.

The Missing Stonington Heiress Discovered by Chance in Montreal.

Montreal, May 24 .- Maude C. Willlams. Stonington's missing girl heiress, was found in this city at noon today. Her brother who came here two days ago, identified her. The girl is worn out physically and mentally. The cause of her disappearance from the sanitarium in Providence was fear of being shut up in an asylum. When the brother was taken to the Sheltering home of the Young Women's Christian association, where Miss Williams was being cared for, she recognized him and tried to ecaspe.

At her last stopping place she was in a hospital for several days, having been discharged thirty-six hours ago. Previous to that she had been in Ottawa. On arriving in this city last night, J.

J. Dunn, a telegraph operator, recog-nized the girl from the description printed in the papers. The operator followed her, and kept watch of the

 LIBERTY THE INSPIRATION.
 Liberty is the inspiration and source of art, science, poetry, philosophy and herosism. But what is liberty? There are menees the conceive liberty to be merely the absence of restraint, removal of oppression and unguided impulse, and, what is silit worse, to unbriddled passions. What a cry we hear coming from this class for what they call personal liberty. On the Fourth of July each year we celebrate the greatest step even taken by the human race for personal iberty. And the thirtie that day of May is one of the greatest at the sun peops up from behind the eastern hills next Saturday morning, announcing the dawn, Old Glory will be flung to the breeze. Fathers and mothers, young men and maldens will gather; old Moosie Mountains on the right and Scott on the left will vibrate with the beautiful strains of Sherman's March to the Sea as we wend our way up yonder mountain side to the beautiful Prospect cemetery, where delibrate mound of earth, where sleep all that remains of the noble, brave and true. And as we do so our minds will revert to the thousands upon thousands whose bones lay bleeching on the fields of the sum south, where no one but the great hand of nature will decorate their graves and the only choir is the little warbling songster in some nearby tree. This we do not momeoration of the sacrifice made and the noble decds they did years ago to ave our Unio.
 But let us remember, my friends, that this is but the mere symbol of the immoratal fame. The reality is in magnifying, purifying and giorifying the great private which they bought with their blook they bought and bled and which many died or save, always remembering that any and every act or thought that lowers the standard or degrades the character of that nation is a descration of their sacred memory.
