PROVIDENCE.

A few years ago Washington Camp No. 17, Patriotic Order of Sons of America, presented to school No. 25, a handsome flag. For a long time it handsome flag. For a long time it waved majestically over the building. Situated on a hill it could be seen for miles around, and the pupils pointed with pride to this grand emblem of free America. However, when the new rebad house was built authorisan was free America. However, when the new school house was built, enthusiasm was doomed to destruction. On the cupola of the building, a pole was crected to take the place of the one on which the flag formerly hung. When the flag was hoisted it was evident the pole was too short, but the flag was allowed to remain and during a severe storm was torn to shreds by coming in contact with the sharp corners of the cupola. Noting the regret with which the pupils spoke of the loss, the camp determined to furnish another flag. Accordingly to furnish another flag. Accordingly the officials of this particular camp went to the school Saturday morning and hoisted a flag similar in size and quality to the first one. The flag hangs from a high pole erected, in the school yard, for that purpose.

the police were not on the scene in sufficiently strong numbers at an early hour to handle the crowd. It is a fact that there were only a comparatively few of them present at 6 o'clock in the morning, at which time the disaster occurred. There were then about 1,000 attendants engaged in distributing the gifts of the czar to the mob, and to them the calamity is indirectly at-tributable. When the thousands of ground, where life was soon crushed out of them by the howling, frenzied peasants in their wild excitement.

MOUJIKS BITTER. The feeling of the Moujikis was very bitter against the authorities, whom they held had not taken sufficient pre-cautions to guard against an affair such as occurred. As a matter of fact, how-ever, the authorities were in no wise to blame. It was impossible for them to foresee that such a great multitude would be present at such an early hour, but at any rate the precautionary measures adopted would have been suf-ficient had not the people become so frenzied. After the disaster the large force of military and police had the greatest difficulty in restoring order.

The czar's promise to help the bereaved families, coupled with the public expression of his intense grief and deep sympathy, has allayed the bitter feeling, and the people are warmly grateful to him for his action.

that has lost a member through the catastrophe. In addition, the state will pay the expenses of burying the dead while the physicians at the hospitals and elsewhere have been instructed to spare nothing to alleviate the sufferings of the injured.

NUMBER OF DEAD.

Although the official report places the number of dead at 1,138 it is highly probably that the exact number of victims will never be known. The vice-mayor reckons that 1,336 persons were killed and 286 seriously, perhaps fatally injured. The official accounts however do not include many dead and injured who were removed by friends.
