HE MET A CAT.

Willis Barnard, who lives in Great Bend township, met a wild cat on Sun-day night. When returning home from the house of a neighbor, his path led across a large field. While coagitating upon the uncertainty of all things earthly he was startled by a wild howl directly in front of him. An instant later a big, snarling animal sprang at him, but miscalculating the distance, landed ten feet beyond the startled Turning about, Barnard ran to man. the fence which he mounted, and sprang into the limbs of a small tree.

The animal, a large wild cat, followed him and made several attempts to opting into the tree, but failed. Mean-while Barnard climbed to the top of the tree and yelled for help. Several heard his cries and came to his Upon their approach the animal made off across the newly ploughed field into a gully, where it disappeared. Search was made for the cat yester-

EXIT THE FELINE.

EXIT THE FELINE. Ararat has a buil dog that should oc-cupy a prominent place in some dime museum. The other night a half-grown kitten in its play made a dash past his dogship, who made a sudden lunge at it. The frightened feline sprang squarely into his mouth, and he swallowed it at a gulp. The bull dog gave a comical, surprised look, then slunk out of sight to ruminate over his strange dinner. And the cat never came back.

NEWS AND NOT NEWS. Susquehanna on Saturday bedecked with flags and flowers and tears the graves of its patriot dead. The beauti-ful service was impressively performed. The school children formed a prominent part of the procession. Rev. W. M. Hil-ler delivered an able and very appro-priate address priate address. Those who believed that Robert Em-met Hall, the eccentric Great Bend poet, had exchanged worlds, via the wate route, didn't know Robert. He will never voluntarily go off to an unknown land, where all are strangers. He likes it here. Headline in the Binghamton Herald on Friday, "Memorial Day-The Ball Game will be the Principal Feature." Comment is unnecessary. To what base uses have we come at last? The Susquehanna band, formerly one of the finest musical aggregations in northeastern Pennsylvania, is to be re-organized and transmogrified generally.

PARAGRAPHIC POINTS. Artist Ralph Lyons' excellent work on the Scranton Tribune during Knight Templar week was a source of pride to his very numerous friends in Susquehanna county. He is a "Susquehanna boy," and our people are glad to see his rapid progress in his chosen field of labor. The Tribune issues during of labor. The Tribune issues during that memorable week were a credit to Pennsylvania journalism. Congratulations all around.

Over in Montrose the foreman of a printing office has a box full of pigeonholes back of his desk. One day he pulled off his cuffs, rolled them up, pulled off ins curs, rolled them up, and stuck them in one of the pigeon-holes aforesaid. Soon a little wren flew through the window of the then de-serted office, and decided that inside the rolled cuffs would be a fine resting place. She was not disturbed, and is new sitting on her little across the win-

"Go west, young man"—and get into a cellar! A Susquehanna county man followed the late lamented H. G.'s ad-vice and exodusted. He held down a growing fields of grain. One day he saw the wind standing up on its hind legs and howling. Taking his family he ran into one of those outside cellars, and waited for the mild, little zephyr to pass over. When it had passed the farmer came up out of his hole. His land was there. Everything else had been scattered hither and yon. Gone were buildings stock, grain-every-

TERSELY TOLD TALES.

A Scotch minister announced from the pulpit: "Weel, friends, the kirk is urgently in need of siller, and as I have failed to get money honesti;" I will have to see what a bazaar can do for me."

One of Mark Twain's cleverest afterdinner speeches was on the subject of "Milk." He arose and in the most sol-emn manner began: "I don't know very much about milk. The best thing I ever saw on milk was-cream," etc. It's a Black, Brocaded India, 24 inches wide, an excellent quality, the regular price of which

The present German emperor when a small boy attended the wedding of the prince and princess of Wales. He was under the charge of his two uncles, the Duke of Edinburgh and the Duke of Connaught. As may be expected, young William fldgeted sadly, and consequent-by received on consequentin the shoulder. But how did he re-venge himself? His uncles were in Highland drezs, and the future em-peror slyly knelt down and bit into their bare legs with great carnestness.

Justice Field, the veteran of the supreme court, sometimes shows a slight failure of memory. Recently a lawyer in arguing a case read from various authorities, and in the midst of one citafile was interrupted by Mr. Justice Field with the remark that what he had just read was nonsense from the legal point of view. 'Don't be disagreeable, Marian. You don't see et all. I'll tell you about it, and then you'll understand that there isn't any moral to the story at all. George is the dearest fellow in the world."

"Oh, that-of course!"

"It's this way. After George and I discovered that we were necessary to each other's happiness, he soon found out that I am not much of a candy enter. Unfortunately he is; so that it suited him better to bring me candy which he could enjoy, too, than flowers which were all for me. But to balance that, 'those two fellows down east,' as which he could enjoy, too, than flowers which were all for me. But to balance that, 'those two fellows down east,' us you call them, not having heard of my engagement, kept on sending me sweets with commendable regularity. And George as regularly devoured them. I wanted to tell them that they were wasting their ammunition, but George wouldn't hear of it. It made me feel rather mean, though." "Well, rather!" expressively. Bout time, I should think."

"Bout time, I should think." "Well. I must say Harry was awfully nice about it. But the unfortunate part of it is that George has gotten into the habit of bringing me flowers in-stead of candy; and as he expects to find candy standing around for him to mibble at, I actually have to buy it for him!" him!'

him?" And as the girl with the red hair mournfully paid 80 cents for a pound of chocolates she added: "So you see I was right. There isn't any moral at all to the tale."

And she of the fur cape answered with sinister emphasis: "I shouldn't think there was!"

No Use of Trying.

"There is no use in trying. "There is no use in trying to please ev-erybody," remarked the congressman. "You seem pessimistic." "No: I'm merely resigned. I don't ex-pect any applause and so I won't be dis-uppointed when I don't get it.
