GUARD AGAINST HARRISON BOOM

Distribution of the Honors at the Coming Convention -- Organization Committee of McKinley League Will Look After the Colored Delegates.

St. Louis, June 9.-This city tonight is the camping grounds of a great army on the eve of battle.

The McKinley hosts, overpowering in numbers and confident of victory, await the issue complacently. The outlying camps dedicated to "favorite sons" have but the shadowy hope that something unforeseen may happen to turn the tide of battle in their favor.

The Reed men, the Allison men, and in fact all other than McKinley men refuse to give a roster of their pledged delegates and refer vaguely to breaks on the second ballot. Lieutenants of the Ohio man answer this by saying there will be no second ballot. Ther was some nebulous gossip, late this evening, touching combinations to prolong the contest, but all efforts to resolve this into certainty met with the reply: "Wait until after Manley comes."

One unpleasant feature that promised to embarrass the local committee of entertainment is hapily arranged to the satisfaction of all. The negro delegates on Monday, June 8th, upon their arrical will find good quarters provided for them and prompt and civil atention at a first-class hotel. Sale, not of last year's man Hill, of Mississippi, received these assurances tonight and expressed themgoods or of undesirable selves satisfied. These gentlemen came in advance of their delegations and discovered that through some misundiscovered that the second se derstanding their colored delegates selling, but of the Newest, were not provided for, but are now satisfied that the local committees will carry out every promise. Gear, of Iowa; Senator Hansbrough, of North Dakota; Senator Shoup, of Idaho: Chairman Thomas Carter, of Montana; J. S. Hammer, National com-Texas; J. R. Lynch, delegate-at-large from Mississippi; T. D. Riordan, of California; Powell Clayton, National committeeman from Arkansas; W. B. Scott, West Virginia; Isaac M. Potter, Rhode Island, and W. R. Hearst, of California. Chairman Manley was visited tonight by score of politicians all eager to press claims of various sorts, but Mr. Manley pleaded fatigue from his long surprise, as neither had been prominently mentioned during the canvas for the positions. It had been understood that the selections would be either Merriam, of Minnesota, who refused the honor a month ago: Bulkeley, of Con-Sale Price, 69c necticut; Alger, of Michigan; Evans, of Pennessee: Warner Miller, of New York, or Hastings, of Pennsylvania with General Charles E. Grosvenor, of Ohlo, as a possibilty. These men were all exrefully considered as to their peculiar fitness for the positions by Mc. Kinley's managers, and for one reason or another were rejected. During the heat of the campaign John M. Thurston had been one of McKinley's most active supporters. At one time he was mentioned as the man to make the comination speech for McKinley, and when Foraker was given that honor a dea! was made whereby Thurston was to receive an equally high honor. When Hon, C. W. Fairbanks was in Cleveland three weeks ago, he was considered as the proper man to preside over the convention during its first arduous deliberations. His keenness and sagacity as one of the first lawyers of the Hoosier state and a leader of the state Republican forces peculiarly fitted him for the task. Another strong argument in his favor was that by thus honoring Indiana, McKinley would be assured of its unanimous support and effectually kill- any attempt to boom

St. Louis, June 9.-Hon. Richard C. Kerens and ex-Congressman Nathan Frank returned from Canton, Ohio, this morning, where they went in response to an invitation from Major McKinley for a conference. Both gentlemen say they had a pleasant visit, but declined to state what was discussed at the con-

HANNA'S CONTINGENT. Cleveland, June 9 .- Wearing the air of a conquering host, the advance guard of the McKinley boom, with Manager M. A. Hanna in the lead, marched to the Union Depot at 1 p. m. today, where they embarked for the St. Louis convention on the Big Four flyer at 1.40 p. m. No demonstration was made when the train pulled out of the depot, which was in accord with Mr. Hanna's wishes.

Nominated the Tenth Time for Con-

Pittsburg, Pa., June 9:- The Twenty second district congressional Republican convention was held here today. Hon. John Dalzell was honored for the tenth time by a unanimous nomination for congressman. In his address of acceptance, Congressman Dalzell said: "James G. Blaine never was so near the hearts of the people as today the grand presidential reformer, William McKinley, the paptizer of protection."

The speaker urged for a harmonious settlement of all differences at the St. Louis convention, demanding that there be no straddling on the money ques-tion, and said that "all our troubles will vanish like the midsummer mist after break of day, with the new regime."

SENATOR QUAY INTERVIEWED.

He Refuses to Forecast the Events a St. Louis.

Phiadelphia, June 9. Senator Quay arrived here today from Washington on his way to his home in Beaver, whence he will go to the Republican national convention at St. Louis. A reporter asked him whether he thought there would be any trouble over the silver question at St. Louis. The senator re-

"I have heard so much about that for the past three weeks I am tired of it." "Will there be a nomination on the first ballot for president?" was asked. "Yes.

"Will it be McKinley?" "I think so,"

"Will you withdraw as a candidate for the presidential nomination?"

The senator laughed and said: "I had said that I would shoot the first man who asked me that question. But I am harmless; I am without arms.

I am still a candidate."
"Will your name be withdrawn before the first ballot is over?" "Not unless the other candidates do."

MUSICAL SUCCESS.

Many Persons Turned Away from the Pittsburg Sængerfest Concert. Some Friction Developed.

Pittsburg, Pa., June 9.-The occasionally heavy showers today did not dampen the enthusiasm that has characterized the national Saengerfest. The forenoon was occupied in rehearsals, and in the afternoon the first matinee concert was given.

The Cincinnati singing association made a hit in the matinee concert by their rendition of Storch's "Charm of slate made by McKinley's manager. Night," this being the first opportunity Hon. C. W. Fairbanks, of Indianapolis, that was had of realizing the actual purpose of the festival-that of mass horus singing.

Director Louis Ehrgott had his singers under perfect control and their work was precise, well modulated, with as shading as a male chorus can much

The audience at tonight's corcert was a brilliant one and many people were turned away for lack of room. The special feature was the great chorus of 2,-000 voices, made up of visiting societies besides the local organizations

Much interst was taken in the rendition for the first time of the cantata, "The New World," by Heinrich Zoeilner, of New York, the director of the The composition, which is a school of Wagner, was very successful. The soloists were Frau Lohse-Klafsky and Mr. Conrad Behrens.

A new song, "Now Will the Roses Bloom," by Carl Ahl, of Pittsburg, also evoked much applause and favorable comment. Some friction developed at reheasal today, amounting almost to a revolt of many of the singers and the orchestra owing to the apparently arbitrary severity of Director Zoellner, and to a difference between the latter and Assistant Director Ah!. It is possible that the difficulty is not all over yet. However, the clash was kept out of the two concerts today, and at each was the most exquisite harmony. The rush for seats for the concert is unprecedented in the history of the Saengerbund and the treasurer, Adolph Stedding, is confident the receipts will meet all the expenses of the Fest and that from the point of view of the box office, the Pittsburg Fest will be a great success.

CARLISLE TALKS ON BOND ISSUES

Secretary's Statement to the Senate Sub-Committee on Finance.

HISTORY OF THE BOND SALES

Drainage of Gold to Meet the Requirements of Foreign Purchases Are the Cause of the Trouble .- The Indifference of Congress.

Washington, June 9.-The reply of Hon, John G. Carlisle, secretary of the treasury, to the inquiries of the subcommittee on finance of the United States senate, charged with the investigation of the sale of bonds of the United States in the years 1894-5-6, was made public today.

The secretary traced the beginning of the trouble back to the closing year of President Harrison's administration and brings the history down to Mr. Cleveland's first issue of bonds in the following statement:

"Largely on account of ap reheasions in this country and abroad as to the ability of the government of the United to continue the current redemption of its notes in gold coin, and maintain the parity of the two metals, the of gold during the fiscal year 1893, which closed June 30, 1893, reached the unprecedented amount of $108,680,-844, nearly all of which was withdrawn from the public treasury by the pres-entation of notes for redemption. On the 31st day of December, 1892, the free gold in the treasury amounted to $121,-266,662,29, but by January 31, 1893, it had been reduced to $108,181,713.53, and on the 28th of February it had fallen to gold, for the 4 per cent, bonds described $103,284,218,91, or only $3,281,218,91 in excess of the lawful reserve. The reserve fund would have fallen below $100,000,ess before March 1, 1893, If my predecessor in office had not effected arrangements in January and February by which the sum of about $8,250,000 in gold was procured from certain bankers at New York in exchange for United States

notes and otherwise. "Notwithstanding the most strenuous efforts by the department to maintain the $100,000,000 reserve intact, the presentation of notes for redemption to procure gold for shipment abroad continued to such an extent that, on the 22d day of April, 1893, for the first time since the fund was established, it became necessary to use a part of it for redemption purposes, and it was reduced to $95,432,357; but it was after- abread, the secretary, in order to prewards increased by exchanges of other forms of currency for gold, so that on the tenth day of August it had been fully restored, and there was on hand $103.683,290 in free gold; but by Decemfer 30, 1893, it had fallen to $80,861,601.13, and was reduced on the 17th day of January, 1894, to the sum of $69,757.821. The cash balance in the treasury excluding the current liabilities, but including the gold reserve and all subsidiary minor coin, was only $83,961,402. Very little gold was being received on account of dues to the government and it was therefore impossible to increase the reserve without resorting to the issue and sale of bonds, under the authority conferred by the act of January 14. 1875, commonly known as the resumption act. At this date there was no free gold coin in the treasury, all the coin on hand being covered by outstanding certificates. The $69.757,821 then held as free gold was in the form of bullion."

THE FIRST BIDS. Quoting the provisions of law which authorized this course to be taken, Mr. Carlisle proceeds to state than on "Jan bids were invited for fifty millions of 5 per cent. bonds on not to ex-ceed a 3 per cent. basis. The proceeds of this sale amounted to the sum of $58,660,917.63, which was paid into the ploded a mile below Lilly this afternoon treasury in gold coin and gold certifi-The circumstances which led to the next issue are then described and the result of this proposition was that bids were received, amounting to $178.836.050, nearly all of which were at rates which would yield to the investors 3 per cent, or less upon the sums awarded to them. One bid for the whole sum of $50,000,000 'all or none,' upon the basis of 2.878 per cent, being the most advantageous offer for the government that was made, was accepted, and the proceeds of the sale, $58,538,500, were paid into the treasury according to the terms of sale. The payments into the treasury on account of this sale were not entirely completed until the Dec. 1, 1894, and it soon became evident that the transaction had not been effectual to stop withdrawals of gold and by Feb. 8, 1893, the reserve had been reduced to $41,340,181, and several millions more had been demanded. "These large withdrawals were due almost entirely so far as could be ascertained to a feeling of apprehension in the public mind, especially among the holders of our securities abroad. which increased in intensity from day to day until it reached the proportions of a panic in the financial centers, and it was evident to all who were familiar with the situation that unless effectual steps were promptly taken to check the growing distrust, the government would be compelled within a few days to suspend gold payments and drop to a silver and paper standard. The situation was so grave that the attention of congress was called to the subject by a special message from the president of the United States on Jan. 28, 1895."

CONGRESS INDIFFERENT. "Congress," Mr. Carlisle says, "failed to pass any measure for the relief of the treasury, or to take any action calculated to clay the serious apprehensions then existing in the public mind and consequently a contract was entered into by the secretary of the treasury on the eighth day of February, 1895, with August Belmont & Co., of New York, on behalf of themselves, and Messrs. N. M. Rothschids & Son, of London, and J. P. Morgan & Co., of New York, on behalf of themeives, and J. S. Morgan & Co., of London, for the purchase of 3,500,000 unces of standard gold, at the price of $17,804.41 per ounce, to be paid for by the delivery of United States bonds having thirty years to run and bearing four per cent. interest, and the gold to be deposited at the United States sub-treas-whom it was made, stipulated that they would, as far as lies in their power, exert all financial influence and make all legitimate efforts to protect the treasury of the United States against the withdrawals of gold, pending the complete performance of this contract. One ounce of standard gold was worth $18,604.65 and the difference between that sum and the contract price $17 .-804.41) represented the premium received by the government on the bonds. making the price at which the bonds were accepted $104,4946. At this price they would yield to the investor 3.75 per cent. per annum.'

"By the terms of this contract not less than one-half of the gold was to be northerly winds and moderate tempera-procured abroad, and the parties with ture rising slowly.

A bill was introduced in the house of representatives to authorize the substitution of 3 per cent, bonds payable in in the contract, but it failed to pass, and consequently the parties proceeded to complete the transaction of exchange of gold for 4 per cent. 30-year bonds, according to the terms of the contract. The agreement by the parties of the second part that they would, as far as in their power, make all legitimate efforts to protect the treasury of the Sates against withdrawals of gold pending the performance of the contract was faithfully and efficiently carried out, and no gold was taken from the treasury to be used in paying for the bonds. as had been done in the two previous sales, nor was any withdrawn for shipment until after the delivery of gold in exchange for bonds had been completed under the contract. After a large part of the gold had been furnished from vent disturbances in the rate of foreign exchange at a critical period, and create a condition which would force gold exports and consequent withdrawals, acquiesced in a departure from the lineal terms of the contract requiring one-half of the coin to be procured abroad, and accepted deposits of gold then held in this country to complete the delivery. Replying to that part of the senate resolutions which directs the committee to investigate and report "what effect the bond sales had on the credit and business of the people of the United States," the secretary says that in his opinion the sales were necessary for the preservation of the credit of the government and thesecurity of the business interests of the people, and that they, in fact, accomplished those results.

Archbald, Was Foully Dealt With. Men on their way to work at 5 o'clock yesterday morning discovered the mangled corpse of Edward Neary, of Archbald, on the Delaware and Hudson railroad tracks about 100 yards from the home of his father, Anthony Neary. His head was severed from the body and the brains were scattered on the ground; the legs were cut off below the knees, but the remainder of the body had not been touched by the wheels. He was run down by the passenger train which leaves this city for Carbondale at 11.20. The young man was 25 years From the fact that the pockets of his rousers were turned inside out and that Monday was pay day at the mines where he worked, foul play was suspected. Dr. E. M. Pennypacker, deputy coroner, went up in the afternoon and impaneled the following jury: M. J. Swift, James McGlynn, Lewis A. Behle, Edward O'Hara, Edward Lane and Lawrence O'Hara.

The inquest was adjourned until ? o'clock this afternoon at Archbald, to give the trainmen time to get around and also to subpoena some of the companions with whom the deceased was early in the night. CLEARING UP OF Satisfactory Progress in Senate During Last Days of Congress.

CONFERENCE REPORTS AGREED TO

Compromise Made on the Naval Bill. Attempts to Pass a Vetoed Pension Bill -- The House Considers Contested Election Cases.

Washington, June 9 .- Very satisfactory progress in clearing up the odds and ends of the legislative work of the session was made by the senate today. Final conference reports on the naval appropriation and on the Indian appro priation bill were presented and agraed to. In the navat bill a compromise was made, reducing the number of new battleships to three and directing that no contracts shall be made for armor plate until after the secretary of the navy shall have inquired into the cost of manufacture and shall have made a report to congress. The question of contract schools in the Indian bill was compromised on the basis of allowing the:n (where there are no other schools to take their place) during the discal year 1897. A resolution which had been offered yesterday by Mr. Wolcott (Rep., Col.) especting the erction of an equestrian statue to General William T. Sherman. in the city of Washington, was taken up and discussed for nearly two hours. It directed an inquiry by the committee on the library into the facts and circumstances of the contract, and requested the secretary of war to suspend its execution till next session.

The resolution was defeated. The bill in relation to contempts of court reported from the judiciary committeee by Mr. Hill (Dem., N. Y.) was taken up, discussed for some time and then allowed to be set eside informally so that other business might be taken

The bill increasing from $12 to $50 a month the persion of Francis E. Hoov-er, which was vetoed by the president Printed India silks, 24 in. wide, and afterwards passed by the house over the president's veto, was taken up and discussed briefly; but when the senate came to vote upon its passage, it turned out that there was no voting quorum in the chamber, and then, at 5.46, the senate adjourned till 11 a. m.

THE ALDRICH CASE. On the day before that on which congress is confidently expected to finally adjourn for the session, the house spent six and a half hours in the consideration of a contested election case—Truman H. Aldrich (Republican) vs. Oscar W. Underwood (Democrat) from the Ninth Alabama district. It was the unfinished business when the house reassembled at 10 o'clock in further continuance of the legislative day of Saturday, the pending question being the motion by Mr. Daniels (Rep., N. Y.) to lay on the table the motion by Mr. Owens (Dem., Ky.) to reconsider the vote by which or Monday the house decided to consider the case. There being no quorum present at that time it was decided by the Republican leaders to enforce for the first time the Tucker rule incorporated into the code of the Fifty-fourth congress. Before all its features, especial ly that by which the sergeant-at-arms produces absent gentlemen, were brought into play; however, a quorum appeared, and the discussion was begun. It was participated in by Messrs. Danie! (Rep., N. Y.) and Linney (Rep., N. C.) in favor of the contestee. There was considerable Republican opposition to the recommendatio of the cimmittee and the resolution declaring Aldrich entitled to his seat was agreed to by less than
