WIDER STREETS SUGGESTED.

Plan to Secure Them Thought Out by n Well-Known Professional Man.

A well-known professional man,

the following letter on the subject:

Scranton, Pa., June 9, 1896. D. B. Atherton, Secretary Scranton Board of Trade. Dear Sir-The time is approaching when it seems to me that the streams around Court House square will be needed and used for street cars. A look at these four streets will convince any one how inadequate they are for additional uses on account of the narrowness. This would be an extremely unfortunate circumstance if there was no remedy. But fortunately there is one way, and only one by which these streets may be widered. Washington avenue has a moderate width, Adams also, but Spruce and Linden streets seem narrower, although I am not certain that they are not all of the same

The method that I have to suggest is The method that I have to suggest is for the county to remove the flagging on all sides of the square and set it inside of the trees, then set the curb back to the presnt line of the grass, which is three or four feet outside the tree line. A sec-ond line of trees could be set at the in-side edge of the flagging which would soon make pretty and shady walks from point to point. In Philadelphia and other cities the trees and walks are so arranged and are just as well and in my opinion much better than our present arrange-

This would widen the street in front of the board of trade building 15 or 18 feet, and double tracks would not interfere with the traffic on the streets. The same results would be reached on all four sides. As to the right to do this, I am unable to discuss the legal status. And legal ob-structions and restraints may prevent. But one thing can be urged that the people of the county—out of the city as well as in it—will find the strips of ground thus sur-rendered (not sold or leased or loaned) of far more use to them than when enclosed nto a park, beautiful to look at, but with posted notice to keep off the grass. The ground donated to the county to be used for a public building and park will still be used for that purpose, although these four narrow strips will be used for the people of the county to drive over in-stead of being kept simply to look at.. I have never heard this matter spoken of or even suggested, and I was at a loss to know upon whom to urge this proposal, until it occurred to me that the board of trade was the proper body to recommend and push it to completion. If grand turies would recommend it and the news.

papers take up the matter in earnest and the powerful influence of the board of trade, why may we not hope to see soon that great desideration of broad, shady

PROF. WATERMAN ON ROENTGEN RAYS

Instructive and Entertaining Lecture by a Princeton Professor.

HISTORY OF THE SUBTLE DISCOVERY

Lecture Was Given Under the Auspices of the Scranton Engineers' Ciub at Albright Library Hall Last Night -- X-Rays Illustrated Through Stereopticon Photographs, and Origin of Discovery Lucidly Explained.

Prof. F. A. Waterman, of Princeton college, lectured on Roentgen rays at whose name is by request omitted, ad- Albright Library hall lost night under vocates widening Wathington avenue the auspices of the Scranton Englisand the other thoroughfares bordering cers' club. His coldence consisted of on court house square. He has written the members of the club and invited friends, men and women, who were instructed in no small degrece by the masterly style in which the subject was treated.

After Prof. Waterman had given the history of the stages of development of the X-rays, and by means of an electric battery illustrated the rays, he piesented to his audience photographs on a screten from a stereopticon, showing that this new scientific discovery is one of vast possibilities and a wonderful benefit in manifold ways.

The speaker with emphasis took oceasion to correct a fallacy which, he said, many of the newspapers are rasponsible for; they have taught that these rays can be produced by processes of light or heat as well as electricity. This is not true; the only agent by which they are obtained is electricity. That, he wanted to be distinctly borne

GLASS TUBE EXPERIMENTS. In 1853 scientists began experimenting with glass tubes to create a vacuum. They succeeded in freeing the in-side of the tube of all the molecules except the one millionth part. From time to time others experimented and in not many years it was possible to exclude all the molecules but the one twenty-millionth part. The tube was placed between two currents of electricity entering it at each end and the vibrations of the current created a light in the tube, illuminating it brightly.

In 1894, two years ago, the beginning of the discovery of these rays took place, but it was not until December. 1895, that the message flashed across the water that William Conrad Roentgen had achieved tangible success. While working in a darkened room with one of these tubes, he for a moment shaded his eyes from the light produced by the electricity inside the glass, and in looking at a piece of paper on which some of the metal he used in the laboratory had dropped, he noticed that the rays photographed it, and he felt immediately that the rays would photograph foreign substances in other matter as well as it did on the paper. Experiments were made and resulted satisfactorily. Roentgen did not understand the rays and he called them X-rays from the term X used as an unknown quantity in mathematics.

EFFECT IN SURGERY. Prof. Waterman spoke of the effect hat the rays will have in surgery. Bullets imbedded in the flesh may be easily traced and fractures of bones will be presented clearly. To show what the rays have done, he presented photohs from the s Passed Away at a Ripe Old Age Yes- greater the density of the substance radiographed the less penetration is vis-

First was exhibited a razor in its case. The rectangular lines of the case were faintly visible, but the steel blade was seen in full relief. Then he brought out the contents of a letter sealed in an envelope. The writing was plainly legible. To disprove that glasses offer no resistance to the rays an exhibit was given of a pair of spectacles. The glass was not penetrated. Next in order were shown the relief work on coin, skele tons of fishes and other small creatures a hand with a ring encircling one of the fingers, a woman's foot in her shoe, a with a bullet lodged near the thumb joint, the trunk of a person, the hands of persons, showing the position of the bones, the knee joint, and the arm. The speaker was accorded great applause at the end of the lecture, and many accepted his invitation to inspect the photographs as they were taken, from which can be obtained a better view than can be seen from the production of the photographs through a stereopticon. Prof. Waterman is a young man, but the impression he made was that he possesses a great knowledge of physical science. CAPTAIN MAY CHAIRMAN. Captain W. A. May was chairman and introduced the lecturer. The monthly meeting of the club was held coincident with the lecture. As the members passed through the door they balloted for Frederick H. Enton for associate membership. Mr. Eaton was elected. He is president of Jackson & Woodin

Manufacturing company, of Berwick. The following were proposed for active membership: Alfred E. Listed, of Philadelphia: Harry E. Ewens, of the Hillside Coal and Iron company; and these were proposed for associate memberghip: Joseph M. Boies, George P. Griffiths, superintendent of the Earber Asphalt company; and J. G. Hempstend, of the Dickson works,

DEATH OF MRS. F. H. CLEMONS.

Passed Suddenly Away at Asbury Park, N. J.

Mrs. Candace S., wife of Shariff Clemons, died yesterday afternoon at Asoury Park, N. J., whither she had gone with her husband only last Saturday, in hopes that the change of air would help to restore her to better health. She had not been well for some weeks, but had not been at any time obliged to keep within doors.

On Tuesday Dr. Coolidge was telegraphed for by Mr. Clemons, and went down immediately. On Wednesday morning early came the summons to Mrs. Clemens' sisters to come down at once and bring the two children with them-Eleanor, aged seven, and Katherine, two years of age. No particulars of Mrs. Clemons' sudden illness have been received. The funeral will take place Saturday afternoon at 2 30 o'clock, either from the home or the Penn aveto the open air concert by Bauer's band nue Paptist church, of which the deceased was a member. Further announcement will be made tomorrow. BOHEMIAN GIRL WELL SUNG.

Best Music of the Week by the Wilbur

Company. The Wibur Opera company sang the Bohemian Girl at the Frothingham last night, and sang it better than any of the other operas which they have presented so far this week. Messrs. Clark and Conley, and the Misses Mortimer and Richardson sustained the leading roles most acceptably, and the chorus PREPARATIONS FOR of the preceding performances. Th marches and living pictures were, as usual, well received.

Tonight the company will sing "Boc caccio." At the matinee tomorrow pretty souvenirs will be distributed. The closing number will be the "Grand Duchess." A new series of living pictures were shown last night.

PLEASURE AND PROFIT.

Derived from a Social at the Home o

Mr. and Mrs. Archbald. A social which was as successful in the pleasure it brought as in its financial profit took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Archbald on Jefferson avenue last night. It was a birthday sectal, so-called because those who attended were supposed to pay as many pennies as they were years old, and was for the benefit of the Woman's Home Missignary society of the First Preshyterian church. The grounds were lightd by many Chinese lanterns.

Refreshments were served. A delightful musical programme was given by Miss McLeod, planist: Miss Elsbeth Winton, violinist; Mrs. G. duB. Idumick, soprano, and the church choir, led by T. Reeves Jones and accompanied by Plorence Richmond, Mrs. Archbald was assisted at the refreshment tables by Mrs. W. H. Richmond and Mrs. T. M. Cann.
