MAGGIE CONWAY IS BEING TRIED

Charge Against Her is Eating Children to Their Ruin.

TESTIMONY OF TWO LITTLE GIRLS

Case is One of the Most Revolting Ever Tried in These Courts—John Weissenfuh's Assault Convicted, Michael Cannon Found Guilty of Robbery—William R. Woolsey Is Free Again—Spicy Dunsmore Case.

Students of humanity would have an interesting field to pursue their observations by spending a week around the court house when criminal court is in session. During the trial of cases in common pleas court, when there is an opportunity to see and hear attorneys contest over matters of law and fact with knowledge and ability, the seats in the auditorium are vacant except when the parties litigant or their witnesses are present. But while criminal trials are on, and the evidence recorded deals with the weaknesses and frailties of human nature, even standing room is hard to be had.

Two prudent cases were on yesterday in the main room before Judge Edwards and the attendance was so large that the atmosphere of the place was anything but invigorating. Mrs. Maggie Conway, of Aswell court, West Side, was called to the bar to be tried on one of the most infamous of crimes, eating children to their ruin. She is also charged with keeping a bawdy house. District Attorney John R. Jones represented the commonwealth and Hon. John P. Kelly and ex-Judge W. H. Stanton are counsel for the defendant.

THEY ARE UNDER THIRTEEN.
Three girls, Gwenne Thomas, Mamie Finley and Maggie Connors, under 15 years of age, are now in the House of the Good Shepherd. Mrs. W. B. Duggan, agent of the Board of Associated Charities, rescued them from Mrs. Conway's den and had them committed to that institution. They gave out evidence enough to have Mrs. Conway and the men who were implicated arrested and held to answer in court.

Gwenne Thomas was put upon the stand and she testified that she will be 15 years old on July 13 next. She has known Mrs. Conway for two years, and she admitted that she had come to her house for the purpose of having a good time. In response to these allegations the witness called upon the woman, and frequented her house quite often. A short time before Christmas she went there one evening and met two young men, Peter Mullaney and Philip Riley. Mrs. Conway had two boxes of beer in the house and all partook of it quite freely. When the liquor had its effect upon the witness Mrs. Conway ordered her to retire with Mullaney and said if she refused she would chase her home. She consented and afterwards obeyed similar commands from Mrs. Conway.

On cross-examination the defendant's counsel tried to prove the girl had been wayward for two years before the meeting with Mullaney in Mrs. Conway's house and succeeded in getting admissions from her partially sustaining the allegation.

MAMIE FINLEY'S STORY.
Mamie Finley was called to the stand. She swore that she will be fourteen years old on July 25 next. Two years ago she told her that Mrs. Conway wanted some one to work for her mindling the children. The witness got this employment. She did not live all the time with Mrs. Conway, but used to go there whenever she was notified that the defendant wanted to absent herself from home. The witness after a time came and visit her, not for the purpose of mindling the children, but to meet some young men who would be present. The witness said she occupied an apartment with Philip Riley on one occasion.

Mrs. Conway is a young woman. She has a pleasant look and no shame apparent in the manner in which she comports herself in court. She is a grass widow with two children, a girl six and a boy four years old. The Williams girl testified that the woman used to dose her offspring with liquor. Michael Cannon, of Old Forge, was returned guilty of robbery and recommended to the mercy of the court. His attorney, John J. Murphy, will file reasons for a new trial on the ground that the verdict was not warranted by the evidence.

A DUNMORE CASE.
Charles Hollow, of Dunmore, was tried for betraying Esther Sheik, of the same place. She is nineteen years old and he is about that age, too. District Attorney Jones conducted the case for the commonwealth and Attorney John T. Martin looked after the interests of Hollow.

The evidence of the girl was that she became acquainted with Hollow about Christmas time in 1894 and on July 7, 1895, the offense was committed. The defendant had a number of young girls go upon the stand and swear that he was in their company on July 7, 1895. He admitted that his relations with her on New Year's day, 1894, were not proper. The jury had not agreed upon a verdict at adjournment.

William Morris, of Taylor, was tried in No. 2 before Judge Archibald on the charge of felonious wounding. Hon. John P. Kelley and Attorney James E. Watkins conducted the case for the commonwealth and Attorney John F. Scragg represented the defendant. The jury found Morris guilty of aggravated assault and battery, which is the second count in the indictment.
Hotelkeeper John Weissenfuh, of Taylor, on April 28 last gave a "grand opening," and among those who called around were Morris and his brother-in-law, David Davis. The latter and the proprietor became involved in a dispute about drinks and it ended in a free fight. Weissenfuh was hit on the head with a beer glass and a "billy" and his skull fractured. For a few days it was uncertain whether he would live or die. The story told by the defendant was that whatever injuries the prosecutor had received were inflicted on self-protection; that he came from behind the bar with a club and made use of it. Davis and Morris left the borough after the affray, but Morris returned a few days later and was arrested.

CHARGE OF EMBEZZLEMENT.
Peter Engle was put upon trial charged with embezzlement. The Prudential Life Insurance company by its superintendent, H. Schubert, is the prosecutor, and is represented by Attorney Hulshander & Yoshida. The defendant represents the defendant. The testimony of the commonwealth's side went to show that Engle as agent retained sums of money from time to time which he failed to account for. The defendant claimed that his contract with the company allowed him to take out his commission from moneys he collected, that there was no embezzlement, that it was simply a dispute between him and the company as to how much he was entitled to. He kept more money than the company thinks he ought to keep, and he thinks he had a right to keep what he did. Mr. Scragg asked the following order with reference to the coming division encampment at Lewistown:

THE ROUTINE OF LIFE IN CAMP
Provided for in Instructions Issued by Major-General Snowden—Division Evolutions on Thursday and Friday, Order with Reference to Discipline Issued by Adjutant-General Stewart—Camp Opens July 18.

Major General Snowden has issued the following order with reference to the coming division encampment at Lewistown:
"On Saturday, July 18, at 9 o'clock a. m., the encampment will be formally opened by the National Guard salute of one gun for each state, after which the flag will be raised at the division headquarters and all orders relating to the discipline and routine of the camp will go into force.
The camp will be known as "Camp John Gibbon" and the position of the several commands will be indicated by the division quartermaster. The camping parties, possibly five from each regiment, will be sent to Lewistown in advance of the troops. They will erect the tents and prepare the camp for the coming day. The quartermaster's department will be on the ground on the early morning of the Thursday preceding the opening of the camp. After the camp has been regularly established the routine will be as follows:
ROUTINE TO BE OBSERVED.
"First call, 4:55 o'clock a. m.; reveille (one gun.) 5 o'clock a. m.; police call, 5:30 o'clock a. m.; mess call (breakfast) 6 o'clock a. m.; sick call, 7 o'clock a. m.; guard mounting, 8 a. m.; drill (company and battalion), 8:30 o'clock a. m.; recall, 10:30 o'clock a. m.; mess call (dinner), 12 o'clock m. Drill for infantry, regimental and brigade, battalion for mounted troops, 4 o'clock p. m.; recall, 5 o'clock p. m.; dress parade, 5:30 o'clock p. m.; mess call (supper), 7 o'clock p. m.; retreat, sunset; tattoo, 9 o'clock p. m.; taps, 10 o'clock p. m.
The batteries of artillery and cavalry troops are ordered detached from their brigades during the period of encampment and will be formed as of previous years into provisional battalions under command of the senior officers. They will draw supplies through these headquarters. The drills will be held on the division drill grounds and an effort will be made to have the brigade maneuvers assimilate as far as possible to actual war. The commanding officers have been notified to give special attention to the duties of the day. It has not been announced as yet on what day Governor Hastings will review the troops, but it will probably be on Thursday. That and Friday will be the important days in camp, for the entire division will be ordered on the field for maneuvers. With reference to the discipline of the camp Adjutant General Stewart has issued this order:
ADJUTANT GENERAL'S ORDER.
"The surgeon-in-chief will examine and report on the daily condition of the food, cooking and the kitchen and sinks of the command, charging and holding the brigade surgeons responsible for the sanitary conditions of the respective camps. The sinks will be covered with fresh earth or slacked lime at least three times within each twenty-four hours.
"Brigade commanders will see that the regimental and company officers give strict attention to the details of the cooking and carry out the suggestions of the medical department in relation thereto and the sanitary arrangements of the kitchen, sinks and the camp generally.
"The utmost attention will be paid by commanders of companies to the cleanliness of their men as to their persons, clothing, tents and quarters. The men will bathe at least twice a week, and the bathing hours will be before 6 o'clock a. m. and after 6 p. m. The hair will be kept short and beard neatly trimmed.
"Permission for enlisted men to leave the limits of the encampment must be given upon proper blanks approved by brigade and mounted battalion commanders and countersigned by the proper marshals at these headquarters. The soldier receiving this indulgence will appear in full service uniform with coat buttoned and belt with side arms.
"At all ceremonies, parades and drills mounted officers will appear mounted.
"Where an entire command is provided with quarters, they may be worn on all duties except review and at the inspection, but no deviation from uniform prescribed for officers and enlisted men will be allowed at any duty or parade.
One sutler will be allowed for each brigade and outside of these no peddlers will be allowed on the field."

WOOLSEY RELEASED FROM JAIL.
William R. Woolsey, of Theodore street, North End, was released from custody yesterday after a term of four months in jail. He was tried on February 10 on the charge of felonious criminal assault upon Eliza Boston, a girl under the age of 16 at the time the offense was alleged to have been committed on November 8, 1895. The jury found him guilty of attempting to assault her, and the verdict was rendered by his attorneys, George W. Beale and Frank E. Boyle, legal reasons for a new trial.

The application was argued at argument court and in due course of time Judge Edwards granted a new trial on the ground of after discovered evidence. But Woolsey was unable to find bail pending the appeal for a new trial and he was in jail from February 12 until yesterday, when a verdict of not guilty was taken in his case and he was released.

THEIR STEEL SHIRTS.
Prominent Men Who Wear the Camberse Under-Garments.

From 1885 to the time of his death, the late Czar of Russia, Alexander III, never studied without a fine steel suit of mail, which would protect his body, back and front, between his collarbone and his loins, from the danger of the assassin's bullet or knife, a light shirt or mail of double thickness over the heart. None of these men, however, resorted to such precaution until repeated attempts at assassination had been made. Nicholas II of Russia, has waited for no such attempt on his life. Ever since the arrest of the nihilist students at Odessa he has worn a shirt of nickel and steel over his chest, a Cossack guard, day and night, and from every dish that is served at the imperial palace a special waiter in the court kitchen must eat a mouthful before it is served to prevent any chance of poisoning.
SAVED BY A LIFE-CHAIN.
Connecticut Lads Rescue a Companion by Novel Means.
There is a newly made hero down in the little post village of Sandy Hook, Conn., says the New York World. He is Stephen Keane, a bright lad of fifteen years. Stephen has been a valorous boy all his life, but it was not until last Monday that he became a real hero. He and a party of his classmates from St. Michael's Parochial school at Sandy Hook on that day went skating on Niantic millpond. In the party was Michael Keating, a boy of twelve years. Michael, venturing where the ice was thin, broke through and fell into the water. Stephen Keane cried: "Form a life-chain, boys, and we'll save little Mike easy!"
Lying flat, face downward, on the ice, he directed one of the boys to lie down as he had and hold tightly onto his ankles. The ankles of this one were in turn grasped by another lad, and so on until a "life-chain" of six brave boys was formed.
Keane wriggled his way carefully out on the thin ice. Before him was poor Keating struggling for life. Once he went down and still the first link of the "life-chain" was crawling slowly on the ice far away. Down he went the second time.
"Hold tight, boys!" cried Keane. Just as the drowning boy was disappearing for the last time Keane seized his coat.
Crack went the ice and the first two links of the "life-chain" were also in the icy water.
Finally all the boys were dragged out, the worse only for a wetting.
When the crowd gathered about young Keane and showered praises on him for his forethought and pluck he only said:
"I read in a newspaper how to do that trick and I thought I'd try it."

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

Gross Price of $4.25 Per Ton for Stove for July Deliveries.
It is by no means improbable that some, if not all, of the larger anthracite coal interests may anticipate the advance in prices that is expected to be deferred until July 1. Some of the companies are said to be restless, owing to a shortage in various sizes, and it is, in fact, asserted that in some instances a gross price of $4.25 per ton for stove has already been made for July deliveries.
Estimates as to the probable increase in production for July over the present rate of output vary from 500,000 to 1,000,000 tons. Friends of the Lackawanna say that that company could mine and sell without the slightest difficulty its proportion of an output of 4,000,000 tons in July, if made, at an advance of 25 cents over current figures. Some interests believe that the market will not take more than 3,500,000 tons in July.—New York Commercial Advertiser.

All of next week Wizard Edison's latest and most marvelous invention, the vitascope, will be on exhibition at the Frothingham.
The first public exhibition of the vitascope was given at Koster and Bial's, New York city, and it created a great sensation. The vitascope is an improvement on the kinoscope, and adds life and vitality to the figures shown upon a life-size scale. Some of the scenes which will be exhibited at the Frothingham are the serpentine dance, the fire scene, Herald square, New York, the blacksmith shop, and the waves.
The breakers in the latter are so natural that everybody feels like running away when they come dashing toward the front of the stage, seemingly mountain high. In addition to the vitascope a high class vaudeville show will be given by a New York company of reputable artists. It is wonderful to imagine that such a show can be given at popular prices of 10, 20 and 30 cents.
