MCKINLEY'S RECORD AS AN EXECUTIVE

His Administration of the Affairs of the State of Ohio.

PROMPT, HONEST AND IMPARTIAL.

How He Dealt with Troublesome Labor Problems--His Habit of Carrying His Ideas in Person to the People--Traits as a Campaign Speaker--Some Rousing Orations.

Columbus Letter, Buffalo Express.

William McKinley is a living exemplification of the fact that the most interesting period of a man's career is not necessarily that portion wherein he enjoys the greatest degree of National prominence, or more properly speaking, during which his efforts are directed to the accomplishment of a single task.

The sentiment which resulted in the nomination of William McKinley for governor was engendered immediately upon the announcement of the result of the election of 1895, when after fourteen years' continuous service in congress the Ohio statesman was defeated for re-election.

THE UNANIMITY OF SENTIMENT IN FAVOR OF MR. MCKINLEY MADE HIS NOMINATION A FOREGONE CONCLUSION AND THE UNIVERSAL POPULARITY OF THE NOMINEE SEEMED TO PRESAGE HIS ELECTION QUITE AS STRONGLY.

Still not for a moment did he lessen the vigor of his canvass and in the interval between his nomination and election the governor visited 51 of the 78 counties in the state and made 130 speeches.

THE POLICY WHICH GOV. MCKINLEY PURSUED DURING HIS FOUR YEARS OF OCCUPANCY OF THE GOVERNORIAL CHAIR WAS WELL DEFINED WHEN IN HIS INAUGURAL ADDRESS HE SAID:

From the day of his inauguration Gov. McKinley took the greatest interest in the management of the public benevolent institutions of the state, and he made a study of means for their betterment, a work in which he early secured the confidence and co-operation of his official and legislative colleagues.

HE REPEATEDLY URGED UPON THE LEGISLATURE THE NEED OF REMEDIAL MEASURES FOR THE EVILS OF THE SYSTEM OF TAXATION IN VOGUE IN THE STATE OF OHIO AND STUDIED THE PROBLEMS OF MUNICIPAL GOVERNMENT WITH A SIMILAR HOPE OF THE DISCOVERY OF SOME OPPORTUNITY FOR IMPROVEMENT.

THE SCHOOL BOARD MET IN SPECIAL SESSION TUESDAY EVENING. THE FOLLOWING COMMITTEES FOR THE COMING YEAR WERE APPOINTED: Building committee, Richard Pettigrew, T. D. Evans, M. D. Flynn, P. Murphy; teachers' committee, J. J. O'Malley, William Hoys, John Powell, Thomas Nealon; supply committee, William McNally, John Powell, S. Williams and J. J. O'Malley; printing committee, M. D. Flynn, Thomas Nealon, T. D. Evans, W. Hoys, P. Murphy; heat and light committee, P. Murphy, T. D. Evans, W. Hoys, T. Lenahan. Secretary Flynn's report for the present school term was read and received. The secretary was given power to advertise for proposals for the new school building. J. J. O'Malley, esq., was elected attorney for the board by a unanimous vote.

CHARLES M. HATHAWAY IS SPENDING HIS VACATION WITH HIS PARENTS IN BLACKY. Mrs. Thomas Foley, of Scranton, is visiting relatives in town.

Mrs. D. A. Van Sickle and grandchildren, Cora and Carl, of Hull avenue, left Wednesday for Asbury Park, where they will spend the summer.

THOMAS GILLEN, of Archbald, was in town yesterday. The tall man was quite an attraction on the streets yesterday advertising Smith's Columbo tonic.

DAVID DAVIS, who has been a resident of this place for a number of months, will leave here today for New York, from which place he will sail on the Campania for Cardiff, Wales, to visit his mother.

CHARLES DOUGHER, of Archbald, was a visitor at this place yesterday. Druggist J. A. Kelly, of Carbondale, was a caller in town yesterday.

R. C. SCHONK and bride returned home last evening.

directed energy which he displayed in securing relief for the 2,000 miners in the Hocking Valley mining district who early in 1895 were reported out of work and destitute. The news first came to the governor one night at midnight, but before 5 o'clock in the morning he had upon his own responsibility dispatched to the affected district a car containing 1,000 worth of provisions.

Then there was that great demonstration at New Orleans. The committee there was bound to secure McKinley for a speech and finally he was obliged to cancel other dates and accede to their requests. His tour through "Dixie" was everywhere a triumphal one and when New Orleans was finally reached the reception accorded him surprised even the major. Into the enormous auditorium built for the Pittsborough fight there were crowded over 12,000 people, while half as many more stood on the outside unable to gain admittance. For over two hours the matter of the tariff talked to his vast audience and then there was a marvelous display of southern hospitality.

Although Governor McKinley's administration of affairs was remarkably smooth and harmonious, there were many times devolved upon the chief executive the solution of especially perplexing problems. For instance, during 1891, the first year of his second term, the state government received as many as 15 calls for troops to aid in enforcing the law, a record unprecedented since the war, but he never faltered in following the dictates of his judgment and even those labor organizations and individuals who are most radically opposed to any and every action on the part of the state militia were afterwards forced to admit the wisdom of his course.

Upon the occasion of the great miners' strike in the summer of 1894 there were so many outbreaks and such continual interference with traffic on the railroads that it was finally found necessary to call into service every member of the National Guard in Ohio, but during their three-weeks' service the citizens, almost without exception, acquiesced in their measures most creditably. In the October of the same year there occurred at Washington court house, Fayette county, an outbreak that was one of the most serious of the kind in the history of the state. It was caused by the attempt of the citizens to lynch the committee of a heinous crime, the enraged populace not even being satisfied by his prompt conviction and the imposition of a sentence amounting to the full limit of the law.

Later in the fall of 1895 occurred the memorable riot at Tiffin, Seneca county, at which place a mob had assembled determined upon the lynching of a prisoner, then in the hands of the sheriff. The governor was appealed to and he immediately ordered to Tiffin four companies of the National Guard, which were immediately upon their arrival the mob dispersed. Governor McKinley's action in every case where a call was made for troops evidenced judgment and decision, as well as a determination to demonstrate to possible law-breakers that he was thoroughly master of the situation.

NO RED TAPE. A distinctive feature of Governor McKinley's administration was the entire absence of "red tape" which characterized the conduct of affairs in every department with which he had anything to do. The caller at the governor's office at the state capitol always encountered a colored attendant at the door, but usually he was unobtrusively invited to "Go right in." During his four years' residence at Columbus Mr. McKinley maintained the same regularity of habits and systematized with that same care which has ever since his first entrance into public life enabled him to do the work of several men.

THROUGHOUT HIS ADMINISTRATION THE GOVERNOR MAINTAINED THE SAME REGULARITY OF HABITS AND SYSTEMATIZED WITH THAT SAME CARE WHICH HAS EVER SINCE HIS FIRST ENTRANCE INTO PUBLIC LIFE ENABLED HIM TO DO THE WORK OF SEVERAL MEN.

IN FACT, MR. MCKINLEY WAS A VERY BUSY MAN, and his work was all the more fatiguing from the fact that he was not only a public official, but a husband and father. He had a wife and three children, and he was constantly receiving visitors from all parts of the state.

THE GOVERNOR WAS USUALLY ABSENT FROM COLUMBUS DURING CAMPAIGNS, but he never lost sight of public business, constantly sending instructions to his private secretary, and no matter how arduous the duties of campaigning or how pressing the demands upon his time, he never let a day pass without sending one or more letters or telegrams to his wife.

HE EVEN FOLLOWED THIS RULE IMPLICITLY DURING HIS MARVELOUS TOUR IN 1894. McKinley has during his life made many speeches and addressed a greater number of people than any other man in the world, but in this campaign he surpassed even his own records. Long before his opening the campaign managers were in despair. Requests for a visit from the champion of protection came from all parts of the country and in almost every case there was an absolute refusal to accept "no" as an answer.

ON THE STUMP. The original programme contemplated the delivery by Mr. McKinley during the campaign of forty-six set speeches, and how well he met the extra demands made upon him may be imagined when it is stated that he spoke at 325 other places. Thus for over eight weeks he averaged seven speeches a day. To the little party on board the governor's car his performances were a series of astounding revelations. Every morning he was up by 6 o'clock, often addressing a meeting before breakfast, and thus he continued all night without interruption until late at night. He delivered as many as 23 speeches in one day and during his tour of 12,000 miles addressed 1,000,000 people. The trip was full of surprises, but the same spontaneous enthusiasm was manifested everywhere from Lincoln, Neb., where the audience included 500 cowboys who had ridden 90 miles on their Mustangs to hear the speech, to the valleys of New York, where the train was not only a great success, but a triumph at the rate of fifty miles an hour and from Buffalo, where 25,000 people turned out to greet him, to the sparsely settled portions of West Virginia, where his eager auditors, after an early start, had traveled miles along the mountain roads.

STATE ELECTIONS THIS YEAR. None of the Doubtful States to Vote Before the Presidential Election.

A larger number of states will participate in this year's presidential election than in any previous presidential election in the United States, and a larger number of states, too, will vote on the same day, Tuesday, November 3, than ever heretofore.

The first of all the states to hold an election in 1896 will be Rhode Island, which on Wednesday, June 23, will vote for state officers, and both of the political parties have held their respective state conventions at Providence, and both have put up the same candidates as were in the field last year.

At the election of last year, Mr. Littlefield polled 23,000 votes and Mr. Littlefield 14,000, and it is not seriously expected, even by the most sanguine Democrat, that the Republicans can be beaten in Rhode Island this year.
