Dr. William Haggerty Arrested For Cutting Patrick Corcoran.

LATTER WAS ALSO ARRESTED

He is Charged With Selling Liquor Without a License--Ex-Ald rman Roesler Accused of Assaulting George Jewell--Warrants Issued for Johnson's Patch Knife Wielders -- Peculiar Case From Duleville -- A Constable's Conduct.

The most sensational case of the heard in Alderman Millar's court yesterday was the one in which Dr. William Haggerty was charged with stabbing Patrick Corcoran, the velous of the many marvels that Wiz-ard Edison has given to the world. Last Cedar avenue saloon keeper. It appears that the doctor and Corcoran were part of a little gathering rable sisters, as given at Koster and Bial's, in New York; a fine scene with who were drinking in a Spruce street place during the afternoon and for some small cause engaged in a dispute which led to angry words and then an assault in which the doctor slashed Corcoran on the right side of the neck with a small pen knife. The wound bled profusely, takes such a conspicuous part, were

After he had the cut dressed Corcoran went before Alderman Millar and swore out a warrant charging aggravated assault and battery. The doctor was arrested and upon being arraigned entered ball in the sum of $500 for his appearance at court.

He then turned around and swore out Information against Corcoran charging him with selling without a license selling on Sundays and selling to minors. Corcoran gave ball in the sum of $600, $200 on each charge. During the hearing it was feared sevthis white and colored incandescent lights are placed, which throw a flood About 4 o'clock in the afternoon a well dressed, quiet looking gentleman, giving of light up through the glass, adding his name as George Jewell, came in to Alderman Millar and complained that Other features of the entertainment he had been shamefully treated by some old man on Franklin avenue. He was vere introduced by Frank Latona, the walking along the street, he said, and in passing this old man's residence re-ceived a drenching from a hose with Annie Whitney, vocalist. Her song about McKinley, the man who is "good which the aforesaid old man was sprinkling the lawn. It was very agenough for me," was received with round after round of applause. The gravating to be mistaken for a lawn by a man with a sprinkling hose, and programme opened with a burlesque on turning about after picking up his hat 'Pygmalian and Galatea," by Harry called out, "Old man, you ought to be more careful." At this the old man, he says, came rushing out of the gate and saying that although he was 74 he sidn't will be repeated every afternoon and evening this week. New features will "sass" from anybody, gave his drenched victim a blow in the face.

The complainant, being a stranger in from day to day and changes will be the city, did not know the name of his made in the scenes reproduced by the assailant, so the warrant was made out for Richard Roe. Imagine the surprise of Alderman Millar when a little later his predecessor, ex-Alderman C. W. Roesler, was arraigned before him as Lackawanna Delegation Starts for the Richard Roe charged as above stated. There was a prima facie case established and having no choice in the matter the alderman had to hold the venerable 'squire in $200 bail to answer at court. ANOTHER CUTTING AFFRAY

A second stabbing affray developed in the evening. When the alderman re-Carbondale, and O. S. Johnson, of this turned from supper about 7 o'clock he found awaiting him an Hungarian who was literally covered with blood down and other prominent Democrats will to his waist. He had been cut on the top of the head with a knife by a fellow countryman during a fight in Johnson's patch, only a short time previous, and without waiting to see a doctor or anybody else hastened to get a warrant for his assailant's arrest. The alderman sent Specials Tierney and Byer to hunt up the man who did the cutting and directed the wounded man to go to a doctor and get repaired, which he did Up to a late hour the officers had not returned from their hunt.

Boles is developing would not be at all surprised to see him placed at the head Deputy Sheriff Bortree was sent out to Daleville with warrants for the arrest of "Gyp" Warner and Jay Hurley who are charged by Mr. Eppstein, s It Was Brief and But Little Business peddler of this city, with a rather odd sort of a charge. According to Eppstein's story he was driving through At the board of control meeting last Daleville Thursday when Hurley, who night the High school committee was authorized to secure specifications and advertise for bids for the furniture necis the village blacksmith, and "Gyp" Warner, who is known about the town to be "a good piece of a man," held him essary for the new building. The secup and dickered with him for the purretary was instructed to advertise for bids for the construction of new No. 10 | chase of all the old iron that was around the blacksmith shob. Eppsteln offered them $4 and it was ccepted. He only had $2 with him so it was agreed that each of them should take a pair of his nobby $1 trowsers in place of the other $2. Eppstein paid over the money and trousers and was getting down from the wagon to load on the iron when he was told to make himself scarce. As the village blacksmith and the man Warner who is said to be "a good piece of a man," acted as if they meant what they said, and looked as if they could make it interesting for a man who did not heed what they said, Eppstein obeyed their mandate.

Yesterday he was in Daleville again and meeting Warner tried to induce him to return the dollar and the dollar trousers. Warner, he says, thereupon assaulted him and gave him a shame ful beating. All of which is why Sheriff Bortree will be in Daleville today.

A CONSTABLE IN TROUBLE.

If Margaret Jenkins of Blakely is making no errors in her sworn information, their town constable up there, one Benjamin Harris, is a bad sort of a man. He went fishing on Sunday got drunk, committed Owen Edwards on the abused the horse, which he hired from charge of defrauding a boarding house Mrs. Jenkins to go on the fishing trip with, refused to pay her for even the hire and last and worst of all violently assaulted her. As an evidence of the violence of the assault she produced a torn and tattered wrapper which she had on at the time and which she swears was torn and tattered by the constable. He will be arrested today Martin Golden and W. K. Roades wo well-known hucksters, Providence yesterday. Golden said that Roades was selling strawberries so cheap that he must have stolen them. Roades said the insinuation was a lie and then Roades got whipped. Golden furnished $300 bail. Joe Salvadore, arrested by Special Tierney for selling bananas without a gense was fined $5.

Two young men, Sam Brewer and Nelson Smith, stole meal bags from the barn of Johnson & Sunsher, Oakford court. They received three cents & piece for them. It cost them $3 a piece JOSESH PARR IS to settle.

Just for a joke Annie Scomele, a girl boarding in Center street, threw a jur slops on a colored man named George Brown who is a waiter at Hotel Jermyn. The joke cost her more than $10, for she had to pay that much to Brown to reimburse him for his coat and was assessed something for the peace and dignity of the commonwealth and an-other something for the alderman's

TRIED TO STEAL THE PURSE.

Mary Williams, of Bellevue, Belleved in Finders Being Keepers.

A well-known Scranton lady steppe from the 7.45 Carbondale train at the Lackawanna avenue station last even-ing and going into the toilet room to wash her hands left her purse on the wash stand. When she reached the waiting room she discovered her loss and thinking she had left it in the train ran to look for it. Not finding it in the seat she had occupied she hastened back and upon again reaching the waiting room it occurred toher where she had left the purse.

When she went to get it she found that it had disappeared. A lady who saw her looking about asked her what she had lost and being told a purse pointed out a girl who she said had picked up a purse just a moment before. She was approached but denied having found a purse, even in the face of the statement of the lady who said she saw her pick

The accused girl and a married woman who was with her started to leave the station but Special Officer Spellman was appealed to and they were interrupted. On the way back into the ladies' waiting room the girl threw the purse under a seat where she thought no one was looking, but she was detected in the act and as it was of course the purse which had been lost, there was no doubt left as to her

The lady who lost the purse refused to prosecute, but Special Officer Speliman did not think it was his place to settle the matter and so turned the girl and her married companion over to Patrolmen Flaherty and Rodham. At the station house the girl gave her name as Mary Williams and her residence Bock street, Bellevue.

Chief Robling after questioning her allowed her to depart pending a further investigation.

The blaze started in a closet under the stairway in the bar room and soon the room was so filled with flame that the awning where it folded up against the open transom took fire. The fire was of short duration, however, as the chem-ical engine quickly subdued it and as a consequence only the wood work of the room on the side nearest the stairway was charred.

Proprietor Berger closed early last night because he had a child at home in a critical condition. He could not account for the origin of the flames. The building is owned by Casey Bros. and was insured. The total loss will not exceed $500.

DEAD AND BURIED.

Mystery of His Disappearance Has Last Been Solved.

BODY FOUND AT CAMPBELL'S LEDGE

Inquest Was Held and He Was Weeks Ago.

The mystery of the disappearance of home on Wednesday, May 27, has been solved. His remains are now resting in the cemetery at the Ransom poor farm.

farm. On Sunday evening, June 14, George White and Alonzo Fry, of Avoca, were homeward bound from Campbell's Ledge and at the foot of the mountain they came upon the decomposed body of a man lying among the rocks and brush about thirty feet from the road On the rocks above, thirty feet away a hat was found, and near the hat was a small tree from which dangled a few feet of thin rope.

The body was badly decomposed and swollen to an abnormal size, but on examining it the men found that a rope was fastened around the neck and that it was broken off a few inches from the knot. The rope was just like the piece found on the tree. From this fact it was taken for granted that the deceased had hanged himself to the tree and that some time later the weight of his body broke the rope and the body fell down to where it was discovered. HELD AN INQUEST.

Squire Gilboy, of Duryea, was notifled of the case and empanelled a jury consisting of Postmaster M.F.Corcoran, J. B. Gilboy, William Riddle, R. C. Mo tiska, F. K. Dills and Frank Stark, all of that place. The deceased was dressed in clothes which might be taken for those of a tramp and the jury concluded that he was such. Poor Direc tor Selbel, of Duryea, ordered that the body be interred in the cemetery at the Ransom poor farm.

The death of the supposed tramp was about forgotten in Duryea, but the clothes he had on were kept in charge of Squire Gilboy for fear that some day there might be some one wishing to see them in hopes of tracing a missing relative. He reckoned wisely.

Sunday morning Andrew J. Best the Cedar avenue hotel keeper, was reading the Free Press and in the Duryea correspondence he saw a no-tice of the finding of the body. Mr. Parr had lived with his son-in-law Philip Smith, in the rear of Hotel Best and the latter was notified of the finding of a dead body at Campbell's Ledge.

THEY WENT TO DURYEA. Mr. Best and Mr. Smith drove to Duryea to inspect the clothes. The first thing shown them was the hat the dead man wore, and one glance was sufficient to convince them that the body was that of Mr. Parr. The hat had been purchased at the store of the Lacka wanna Iron and Steel company. The rest of the clothing was readily recognized, as well as a pair of spectacles, a pocketbook containing fifteen cents, and a box of salve which were found in the pockets. He had on two pairs of pantaloons a light colored vest, a faded brown coat, and a woolen shirt.

ceased as a man apparently 50 years of age, sandy hair with a bald spot in front, 5 feet 9 inches tall, and quite fleshy. This fitted Mr. Parr exactly and his son-in-law and Mr. Best left without any doubt but that he was the man. Mr. Parr everybody says who knew him, was as honest a man as ever lived Before he left home he went around among the people with whom he dealt and paid every cent he owed.
