GREAT M'KINLEY RALLY AT CANTON

All Eastern Ohio Gathers to Pay Tribute to the Champion of Prosperity.

TIPPECANOE CLUB DEMONSTRATION

Ten Thousand Visitors from Cleveland---Large Delegations from Other Cities--Addresses by Major McKinley, Charles Emory Smith and Others.

Canton, O., June 28.—Yesterday was another day of big crowds, parades, brass bands, and noise, followed by a night of red fire, pyrotechnics, and more noise, with some oratory sandwiched between events.

The occasion was the ratification arranged by the citizens of Canton and the Tippecanoe club of Cleveland. Special trains were run in on all railroads, and immense crowds were brought to the city. Ten thousand came from Cleveland alone. Tonight all joined in a monster parade about the streets of the city.

Fireworks from the marchers and from the houses all along the line made the sky lurid with their brilliant hues, and the noise and confusion were such as to cause a practical suspension of business.

A platform was erected in the McKinley lawn from which Major McKinley, members of his family, guests at the house, and the speakers of the afternoon reviewed the parade. Just as the parade reached the square an alarm of fire was turned in, and the immense crowd was for an instant panic-stricken while the fire horses galloped through the throng. Happily, there was no serious mishap, and the fire was of no consequence. The village of Louisville sent a delegation which, late last evening, had an audience at the McKinley home, and the address of their spokesman, Banker John Kelm, was responded to briefly by the major.

Apollo, Pa., sent a delegation of about a hundred with the "McKinley coon," sent from Ohio several years ago, with congratulations on the election, to be returned when McKinley was nominated.

The coon travelled in a glass and tin case of elaborate design, and was received with pomp and ceremony. An address was made by F. W. Jackson of Apollo, and a talk by McKinley followed.

The set programme and the oratory of the demonstration began shortly before 4 o'clock on a large lot in the heart of the city, lately cleared of everything else in anticipation of a new market house. At one end a substantial covered stand has been erected for use to the end of the campaign. Judge William R. Day was chairman of the meeting. He spoke of McKinley as a neighbor and friend in opening the meeting. H. W. Walcott, president of the Tippecanoe club, spoke briefly on behalf of the club, saying in part:

"We are a club largely composed of young men at the formative period of life when they are wont to select some one as a model and a guide, and several years ago William McKinley was by common consent selected by us all as that model. We looked to him as our leader and have ever been ready to go where he sent or follow where he led us. We cannot but love a man who has never been led by political rainbows to follow strange gods, but has ever been true to his political friendsshrdlu been true to his political faith and always kept incense burning at the altar of protection, through whose favors alone can a sure and lasting prosperity come to our country.

"Had victory not been given at St. Louis we should still have loved and admired Major McKinley; but, as he was triumphant there, we now feel called upon for renewed efforts to secure, if possible, that the triumph at St. Louis may be followed by an equally sweeping victory in November."

GROSVENOR'S SPEECH.

Congressman Grosvenor said: "The Republican convention at St. Louis did not abandon any of the tenets of its ancient political faith, nor did it announce any new doctrine. It stands today, as shown by its platform, where it stood from 1861 all along the shining pathway it has journeyed. Bear in mind it was the Republican party which enacted the law authorizing the issue of the greenback dollar, and proclaimed as the solemn purpose of the country that the greenback should be a demand upon the treasury for a dollar as good as the dollar of the best country on earth. It was the Republican party which redeemed that promise and gave a dollar in gold to the holder of each dollar of that money

"There is not one dollar which today passes current in the United States and is respected the world over which does not owe its value and parity to the wisdom and patriotism of the Republican party. The platform of the St. Louis convention reiterates the purpose of the party now over thirty years old to continue to protect the money of the people from depreciation, and protect the producers and the laborer from a money worth less the world over than the money of the capitalist and the bondholder. The silver question, now so soon to be a national issue between the men of sound money idea and the populistic 50-cent dollar advocates, is a convenient mask to hide behind for the party which, coming into power in 1893, proceeded to destroy the industries of the country and plunge the treasury into insolvency. That is the real issue of this campaign. The people always settle the real issues in which they feel the deepest interest. This year the people decree that the Wilson-Gorman bill, with all its train of calamities, shall be repeated; and by a like decree they have said that the nation will go back to protection and reciprocity, which with their train of beneficial results shall again become the practice and policy of the United States."

COMPARISON OF CONVENTIONS.

Charles Emory Smith, who came here for a consultation yesterday, was prevailed upon to return from his meeting with Mr. Hanna last night to make a speech. His address was largely made of praises of the ticket and a comparison of the convention this year with the one held thirty years ago. Of the latter he said:

"That convention was a memorable and notable gathering, and yet if you will go back over the records you will find that the historic convention of 1860 was timid, halting and uncertain compared with the convention of 1896. It spoke in no such clear and ringing tones. It showed no such lofty courage of conviction and determination of purpose. The impressive personality of Giddings, if I remember the history correctly, failed to carry a reassertion of the central principle of the Declaration of Independence that all men are created free, and only on a second appeal with the glowing eloquence of Curtis, was the convention brought to reaffirm that God-given truth.

"The future years will look back to the convention of 1896 with admiration and gratitude for its courageous, its high-spirited and its unflinching action. It was the bravest of all conventions in the history of the party, and the truest in its direct reflection of the people's will."

A glee club of sixty male voices and several bands enlivened the proceedings, which were not attended by McKinley until the last speaker had concluded. His appearance rounded out the enthusiasm of the crowd and he got an ovation. He said:

MR. M'KINLEY'S SPEECH.

"My Fellow Citizens: I thank you for this magnificent demonstration. I think I know just what it means. It is in no sense personal, but it is the assurance of the interest which you feel in the great questions which are to be considered in this great campaign, and which are to be settled by the American people at the ensuing election. It means, my fellow citizens, that you are attached by every tie of fealty and affection to the great fundamental doctrines of the Republican party. It means that you intend by your votes to write into public law and into permanent statute what you believe will be for the best interests of all the people.

"Republican principles do not perish; they have not suffered by defeat; they have not suffered by their temporary rejection by the people. They are brighter and more glorious today than they have ever been before. They are endeared to every American heart. Their defeat before the American people has never brought good to any American interest, and their triumph has orought good to the American people.

"And, my fellow citizens, these principles are to be tried before you this year. What will your answer be in November? A protective tariff that takes care of every American interest and serves the highest good of American labor; a principle that insists that our work shall be done at home and not abroad; a reciprocity that, while seeking out the world's markets for our surplus products, will never yield up a single day's work that belongs to the American workingman; and then a sound dollar as sound as the government and as untarnished as its flag; a dollar that is good, not only at home, but good wherever trade goes; a dollar that is as good in the hands of the farmer and the workingman as in the hands of the manufacturer or the capitalists.

"These great principles, emblazoned as they will be upon the banners of the Republican party, are bound to bring triumph in November, as I firmly believe; will carry messages of sweetness and happiness to every American home and every American fireside. I thank you, my countrymen, for this demonstration of your good will. I am glad to welcome you to my home city, a city near and dear to me by every tie of affection, a city to which I owe so much. We are all proud to have you here today, and my advice to the mayor is to have the census taken at this time."

There have been few callers at the McKinley home today. General Grosvenor said, in an interview, that the popularity of McKinley was the most noticeable thing since the convention.

"Everywhere I have been," said he, "people regard the tariff as the issue. They want sound money, of course, as the platform declares for, but they want protection more."

NEW CLUB FORMED.

Will Be Anti-Socialist and Herbert Spencer Is One of Its Promoters.

London, June 28.—Herbert Spencer, Lord Stanley of Alderley, Auberon Herbert, W. H. Mallock and Edgmont Hake are among the celebrities who are forming the nucleus of a new club to be called the "Individualist," a name that has not a clubbable sound. The main motive of this project is to make the club a center of practical propaganda against Socialistic ideas, whether associated with Conservative or Liberal platforms.

The "Liberty and Property Defense league," which professes to have pure individualism as its basic principle, initiates the club. No known politician of any prominence can become a member without forswearing his past. "We are all Socialists now," said Sir William Harcourt.

TAKEN CAPTIVE BY YAQUIS.

New York Archæologist Receives Savage Usage in Mexico.

Hermosillo, Mexico, June 28.—Henrie L. Bergmann, an archeologist from New York, who left here three months ago on a trip through the Yaqui Indian country, his intention being to traverse that wild section and strike the railroad at Chihuahua, has returned to this city, and is in a bad condition as a result of his experience with the Yaquis. He states that he had hardly entered the Indian country when he was taken captive and confined in an Indian camp for over two months.

He was given but little to eat, and was stripped off of all his clothing. When released he was escorted to the limit of the Yaqui country and given orders never to enter again.

ANSON'S CAST-OFFS BECAME STARS

If Gathered Together They Would Make a Great Team.

MANY OF THEM ARE FAST PLAYERS

Nearly Every National League Club Has One or More Men Whom Your Uncle Has Cast Adrift--Some He Was Robbed of When the Brotherhood Mix-Up Took Place.

"I wonder," said the aged ball crank, to a Chicago News man, "if Anson would like the privilege of going through the National league teams and recalling all the men he has had and who have slipped away from him? Some of them he released because he thought they were no good—and they are the whole thing in the various clubs where they are now located. Others got away from him in the Brotherhood mix-up, and he ought to have them back, but was robbed of them by the board. If Uncle could be allowed to recall all the boys who have left him, I wonder how long Cleveland or Baltimore would stand up against the reconstructed team?

"There's nobody down in Baltimore owes Uncle any past allegiance. In Boston there is Duffy—and what would Uncle give to have him in left just now! Duffy escaped in Brotherhood times, went to Boston in 1891, and Anson was jewed out of him. His loss has been a sore point with the old man ever since.

THREE TROLLEY DODGERS.

"With Brooklyn there are Stein, Gumbert and Daly. Uncle wouldn't care much about Gumbert, who is going down hill and will have to turn outfielder soon for the sake of his batting. Daly would not cut much ice, either; Pfeffer is on second now, and Tom couldn't be of much use behind the bat unless his arm grew stronger. But he would like to have Ed Stein. That boy was turned loose by Uncle as being no good, and he came right back into the league and he stayed here ever since. He is a good, honest steady pitcher, and the old man wouldn't lose anything by having him on the team.

"Dwyer and Irwin, of Cincinnati, would look well in Colt uniforms once more. Irwin was a disappointment here after he got hit in the head by Mike Sullivan. It made him timid at the bat, and his arm, too, seemed to be feeble. Look at him now—batting nicely and playing about the best third base in the league. Dwyer was let out as a has been, and he has held his own in fast company through all the years since 1891. Pat Tebeau, of Cleveland, broke into the league under Anson's tuition in 1887. He was only a boy then, and Anson let him go as soon as Burns was in shape to play. Wonder how Uncle would like to have Tebeau's brains with him nowadays?

"O'Brien, of Louisville, used to play for Uncle—tried to cover third for Chicago in 1893. He is not to be confounded with the O'Brien we had here in 1890. That was Pete, a Chicago boy. Jack O'Brien is a good ball player, but would hardly be needed here.

WITH THE GIANTS.

"Farrell and Van Haltren, with New York, are two men whom the old Roman has missed ever since they were taken away. He kicked hard for them, but was cuchred out and now wants them again. Van Haltren is on the down grade and would not be needed, but Farrell is as good as ever, and would do nicely as a relief to Kittridge. Philadelphia has little Willie McGill, and Willies' southpaw curves are good enough this year to make the old boy sorry he let him go. He could be utilized to some advantage. Pittsburg struggles along with two of our castoffs—Merritt and Stenzel. Merritt we could live without, but those hard whacks of Stenzel would fit in very well. Washington has none of our old timber. Tom Parrott is playing the field for St. Louis, but we wouldn't need him very badly.

"Now size up the team the old man would put together when he had all his good things back again. Catchers Kittridge, Farrell, and Donohue; pitchers, Terry, Friend, Griffin, Stein, Dwyer, and McGill; Anson, Pfeffer, Dahlen, Irwin, infield; Everitt and Tebeau as extras. Duffy, Ryan, and Lange in the outfield, with Stenzel as extra. Would any league team have much show against that crowd, all playing in good form and proper spirit? Alas, it cannot be! Never, never again!" and the old ball crank went weeping away.

PRISONER IN DEPOSIT VAULT.

Joker Runs at High Speed to Save a Woman He Had Imperiled.

Barboursville, Ky., June 28.—Miss Rosa Caudill, daughter of ex-Senator W. J. Caudill, came near dying of suffocation in her father's deposit vault yesterday. Mr. Caudill is deputy internal revenue collector for this district, and his daughter acts as his clerk. He left the office early to take a train out of the city. He left Miss Caudill and her friend, J. H. Byerly, in the office. For amusement Mr. Byerly had the young lady go in the vault and let him close the door. When he did so the combination was unintentionally turned and the vault locked.

It was then train time, the station almost a mile away, and Mr. Caudill at the depot with the secret of the combination to the vault. Mr. Byerly ran for his life, and happily the train was reached as it was leaving the station. The combination was secured and the vault opened after the expiration of about fifteen minutes. Miss Caudill was found to be unconscious, but under the care of physicians is slowly recovering.

JUMPED FROM THE TRAIN.

Mrs. Boyle Was Insane and Her Leap Resulted in Death.

Hancock, Md., June 28.—While Mrs. Boyle, wife of Michael Boyle, of Oakland, Md., was being taken, in charge of her husband and Dr. Taylor, of Oakland, to Baltimore for treatment for insanity, she jumped from train No. 4 on the Baltimore and Ohio, at Turkey Foot Curve, ten miles west of this place, at 3.30 o'clock this morning, and was killed outright. The train was running about fifty miles an hour and the demented woman made the leap from a window.

Yesterday she made three attempts at suicide, once by hanging, another by taking poison, and a third by throwing herself in front of a train. In each case she was rescued and it was decided to place her in an asylum near Baltimore for treatment at once. When it became known that the woman had jumped from the train, a stop was made and the body recovered.

Fatal

Pneumonia.

That dreaded disease that temporarily compels a cessation of the work of all the greater organs of the body, thus stopping the digestion of food, the creation of new tissue, brings the patient to a point where the flickering flame of life is blown out like the light of a burnt-out candle. To make recovery probable, keep up the patient's strength — give him that great concentrated essence of the vital principles of lean beef, the strength of which is enhanced by our special cold process method of manufacture, it can be retained by the weakest stomach, and in every instance makes blood, flesh and strength. Dr. Charles Wilson, Atwell Ave., Providence, says; "My wife suffered a severe attack of pneumonia; after passing the acute stage fearing heart failure, I gave her freely Bovinine and port wine, equal parts. I have never seen such good results. I am a hearty believer in Bovinine for quick nutrition." Over 25000 other physicians endorse it equally strong.
