Difficulties in the Way of Reaching Entombed Miners · at Pittston Increase.

FLOODING OF MINE FEARED

Large Pump Has Been Secured in Auticipation of Such a Contingency. Place Where the Men Are Is Probably Filled with Water, as No Pumping Has Been Done Sinco the Cave-in.

They are still entombed.

Yesterday brought no hope that the mine workers shut in in the Twin shaft at Pittston Junction since 3 o'clock Sunday morning will ever be brought to the surface alive. On the contrary, the disclosures of the day confirmed the statement printed in yesterday's Tribune that if the men are not already dead the day to compile a complete list of the men in the mine and the result is printed in another column. It shows that The Tribune's estimate of yesterday that eighty men are entombed in the tention of every well dressed woman | mine was very close to the exact figures. In conversation with a Tribune reporter Sunday night E. L. Fuller, secretary of the Newton Coal company, which operated the Twin shaft, said he though: the number of men in the mine was sixtyeight. It is now evident that Mr. Fuller's estimate was much too low.

The rescuing parties worked diligently all day, but what with the squeezing and caving and the liability of gas and water to appear at any moment, their progress was slow and the danger enough to deter any but the stoutest

The scenes of Sunday about the mouth of the shaft were repeated yesterday. The crowds of curious sightdaybreak the wifes and other relatives scene and the heartrending lamentations were enough to cause the stoutest heart to soften. The women were not permitted to remain long but were tenderly led away by the male relatives or friends as the repeated arrivals of all widths, immense assortment of the cage at the surface were only a series of repeated disappointments to

TRYING TO REACH THE MEN.

Difficulties Encountered by the Men on the Rescue Shifts.

There is little or no change in the Twin shaft. It is not even definitely known yet how many men are entombed and whether or not their bodies will ever be recovered is still a matter of the merest conjecture. They may reach them tomorrow, or they may never reach them. No one can tell. Several rejoicing at the possibility of soon reaching their imprisoned brothers, the quaking and they would be driven back to the foot of the shaft to begin their work all over again.

It was a battle with varying success between the men and the mine all day fated slope was reached and four times the men had to retreat. At 12 o'clock Sunday night the most satisfact reprogress was being made and it was thought that the work could be pushed uninterrupted to a speedy consummation. But an hour later the "squeezing" again manifested itself and inside of half an hour's time the rescuers were fain to give up hope of ever being able to make any further efforts. The settling, however, ceased again and once more the brave men returned to the attack. The road which they had already timbered was regaired at the points where the squeeze had affected the pillars and there they started to push farther on. At 8 o'clock another "squeeze" drove them back again. In the afternoon about 3 o'clock the "quaking" grew in intensity and work had to be stopped for a short time again. At 8 o'clock last night the rescuers had pushed their tunnel to the head of No. 3 slope and came upon the outskirts of the main fall.

The rescuers counted on attacking it in the morning and word was sent to Wilkes-Barre for heavy sledges to break a passageway through the debris.

SAID TO BE AT REST. The region of the main fall is at rest and will not, it is said, cave again. This being so, the men decided to spend the rest of the night in fortifying the tunnel to the slope, so that the morning shift would need have no fears of their retreat being cut off when they came in to attack the face of the main fall.

This work was being pushed with all possible vigor and everything looked encouraging until about 11 o'clock, when another and more serious "squeeze" occurred, and again the men were driven back. At midnight the settling had not ceased, and the plans for the mor-row are frustrated. The last reports were to the effect that the tunnel is liable to be entirely blocked within twenty-four hours. The caye-in is working in all directions it is supposed, from the spot where the main fall occurred and the old workings which are but poorly supported are expected to cave-in at any moment. Mine Inspector McDonald and a number of

AN OBSCENE LETTER CASE.

Residents of a New Jersey Town Testify at a Racy Trial. Trenton, N. J., June 29.-Nearly the entire population of the village of Peapack, in Somerset county, was in the United States court today as witnesses in a case in which Asher Fleming was charged with sending obscene letters to Oscar Smith. The letters were read in court, but they were so vile that the women present were requested to retire.

Th letters in the most unblushing language charged Smith with improper relations with a number of women, in-cluding his own niece, and threatened him with a coat of tar and feathers unless he left the community. Fleming denied having sent the letters, which were in printed characters, but Morris Dennis and Augustus Dennis testified that Fleming admitted to them that he with manuscript written by Fleming on the stand Fleming admitted that he had been convicted of assault and battery on his wife.

POPE LEO'S LETTER.

Communication on the Reunion of All Christian Churches-Explanation of the Apostolic Mission.

Baltimore, June 29.—Cardinal Gibbons gave to the press this evening a copy of the summary of Pope Leo's encyclical fetter on the reunion of all the Christian churches. His holiness evidently had in mind the recent letter of William Gladstone, and the letter may be they will be before they can be reached. | considered a reply thereto. The letter A systematic effort was made during at the pope's request will be given publicity throughout Europe and America tomorrow morning. It says in part: Christ endowed His apostles with authority like to His own, and this apostolic mission was intended for the salvation of the whole human race, and consequently must last to the end of time. The Magisterium instituted by Christ in His church was by God's will perpetuated in the suc-cessors appointed by the apostics and in like manner the duty of accepting and professing all that is thus taught is also "perpetual and immutable." There is nothing which the church founded on these principles has been more careful to guard than the integrity of the faith, The fathers of the church are unanim in considering as outside the Catholic mmunion any one who in the least degree deviates from even one point of the doctrine proposed by the authoritative magisterium of the church.

Wherefore Christ instituted in the church a Living, Authoritative and Last-ing Magisterium, He willed and commanded under the gravest penalties that its teachings should be received as if they were His own. He established in the seers were not as large, but the pitiful church all those principles which neces-incidents were quite as numerous. At daybreak the wifes and other relatives cleties and through which they attain the perfection to each. The church is "man's guide to whatever pertains to heaven. This is the office appointed to it by God: That it may watch over and may order all that concerns religion and may without let or hindrance exercise according to its judg ment, its charge over Christianity Wherefore they who pretend that the church has any wish to interfere in civil matters or to infringe upon the rights of the state either know it not or wickedly

The remainder of the letter is an exposition of the spiritual supremacy of the papacy and an argument for unity on that basis.

SPIRITS TO POINT OUT CHICORA.

HOBART AT HIS OFFICE.

Has Not Arranged for a Conference with McKinley.

Paterson, N. J., June 29.-After a Sunlay of quiet rest Garret A. Hobart, the Republican vice-presidential nomines was at his office this morning attending strictly to private business. In regard to the statement made last night that he would surely go to Canton on Tuesday to visit Major McKinley, Mr. Hobart said decidedly that it was not true. He might go at any time, but he had not yet fixed upon a definite date.

Lightning Undresses a Man. Kokomo, Ind., June 27.—As Henry Kin der, near here, was sitting in his door way during a stom, lightning struck the house, démolishing the roof. The shaft ran down to the lower floor, struck Mr. Kinder at the hips, tore his pantaloons off split both shoes and passed on into the ground. Mr. Kinder was not injured, neither was any one else in the house hurt, though it contained three families, twenty persons in all. Constructor Wilson Dend. Washington, June 29.—A telegram was received at the navy department this atternoon announcing the death of Theodore D. Wilson, formerly chief constructor of the navy at the Boston navy vard at 12.30 o'clock today.

NOTIFICATION OF MAJOR M'KINLEY

Receives Official News of His Nomination at St. Louis.

ANOTHER RED LETTER DAY AT CANTON

The Notification Committee Are Royally Entertained at the Mc-Kinley Residence--Senator Thurs- ten is his own opinion, not mine." ton's Speech and Major McKinley's Remarks of Acceptance.

Canton, O., June 29.-The committee, consisting of one member from each state and territory, which was selected was the author. Daniel Ames and M. J. at the St. Louis convention to convey to Kinsley, of New York, two experts in Major McKinley the official notification at the St. Louis convention to convey to writing, testified that a comparison of his nomination, arrived in Canton on a special train from Cleveland at 11.30 showed conclusively that Fleming was this morning. The day was charming, the author of the printed letters. While and the members of the committee enjoyed the ride from Cleveland. They were met at the station here by a reception committee composed of some of the foremost citizens of Canton, and were driven in open carriages to Major McKinley's residence, accompanied by a mounted escort. The preparations at Major McKinley's were simple. Seventy-five chairs were placed on the front lawn under the trees and facing the house. On the rear lawn a large tent was erected, and in it was a long table, on which covers were laid for 100 guests.

Major McKinley received the members of the committee on the veranda. The streets about the house were filled with men, women and children. The crowd surged in all the gates and pressed close up to the chairs on which they sat.

It was 12.10 when the notification committee reached Major McKinley's house. Mrs. McKinley and the major's venerable mother occupied chairs near him on the veranda. His brother's family and his pretty nieces were close about him. The chairs back of the notification committee were filled by ladies of Canton, Columbus and Cleveland, whose husbands are prominent in business and public affairs. It was a charming open air scene, sweetly idyllie in character Frank Hiscock, Senator Thurston, Mark Hanna and C. N. Fairbanks occupied the first carriage. They were greeted with tremendous cheers. Major Mc-Kinley met them outside the gate as they alighted from the carriage, and shook hands warmly. Sepator Thurston was in excellent voice. His tones were as clear and commanding and far reaching as they were in the St. Louis convention hall. His speech was received with much enthusiasm and applause, and was as follows: SENATOR THURSTON'S SPEECH.

national convention recently assembled at St. Louis-that of formally notifydidate of the Republican party for president of the United States. We respectfully request your acceptance of this nomination and your approval of the declaration of the principles adopted by the convention. We assure you that you are the unanimous choice of a united party, and your candidacy will be immediately accepted by the country as an absolute guaranty of Republican success. Your nomination has been in obedience to a popular demand, whose universality and spontaniety attest the affection and confidence of the plain people of the United States. By common consent you are the champlon Their mighty uprising in your behalf emphasizes the sincerity of their con-version to the cardinal principles of protection and reciprocity as best ex-exemplified in the splendid congression-al act which justly bears your name. Under it this nation advanced to the very culmination of a prosperity far surpassing that of all other people's and all other times, a prosperity shared in by all sections, all interests and all classes; by capital and labor; by pro-ducer and consumer; prosperity so happily in harmony with the genius of pular government that its choicest biessings were most widely distributed among the lowliest tollers and the humblest home. In 1892 your country-men unmindful of your solemn warnings returned to that power which reiterated its everlasting opposition to a protective tariff and demanded the re-peal of the McKinley act. They sowed the wind. They reaped the whirlyind. The sufferings and losses and disasters to the American people from four years of Democratic tariff are vastly greater four years of civil war.

than those which came to them from But your nomination means more than the endorsement of a protective tariff, of reciprocity, of sound money and of honest finance, for all of which you have so steadfastly stood. It means an endorsement of your herole youth, your fruitful years of arduous public service, your sterling patriotism, your stalwart Americanism, your Christian character and the purity, fidelity, and simplicity of your private life. In all these things you are the typical American; for all those things you are the chosen leader of the people. God give you strength so to bear the honors and meet the duties of that great office for which you are now nominated, and to which you will be elected, that your administration will enhance the digto which you will be elected, that your administration will enhance the dignity and power and glory of this republic, and secure the safety, welfare and happiness of its liberty loving people.

When Mr. Thurston finished Governor McKinley, who was standing a few feet from and slightly in his rear stepped forward, holding the manuscript of his speech in his hand. He never looked better. His eye was clear. his color good and he held himself like one who sees victory in the distance. He wore a dark frock coat, as is his custom, and black trousers. He was greeted with thunderous applause. Major McKinley read his speech in a clear, far-reaching voice. It was listened to intently, and he was compelled to halt several times by reason of loud applause and cheers. Mr. McKinley's response was as follows:

MAJOR M'KINLEY'S REPLY. Senator Thurston and gentlemen of Notification Committee of the Republi-can National Convention: To be selected as their presidential candidate by a ed as their presidential candidate by a great party convention representing so vast a number of people of the United States, is a most distinguished honor, for which I would not conceal my high appreciation, aithough deeply sensible of the great responsibilities of the trust and my abilty to bear them without the generous and consistent support of my fellow countrymen. MINE BOYS DROWNED.

Sad Accidents Near Boston and at Lake Massapoag-Several Are Also Injured.

Boston, June 29 .- One of the saddest accidents in the history of the Boston water front occurred at Castle Island off City Point this afternoon. At'about 2.30 o'clock seventy-five children were on a rickety, unsafe gang plank and floated at the landing south of the bridge from the Point to the Island, when the float overturned, the flimsy guard rails of the gang plank split, and thirty or more of the children were tumbled into at least twelve feet of water. Four boys, from 12 to 15 years old, were We are here to perform a pleasant duty assigned us by the Republican unconscious, and later revived, and the years; James F. As a result the little steamer was crowded on her trips during the afternoon and so early did the rush begin that the police force detailed for afternoon duty at Castle Island had not arrived.

The little steamboat Ella, Captain E. W. Webber, arrived at the float with a big list of children passengers from the point at 2.30 o'clock and began to unload them on to the float just as fifty children on the granite pler started on a run down the gang plank to go aboard. Sharon, Mass., June 29.-What was ntended to be a week's enjoyable outing was brought to an abrupt and sad close at Lake Massapoag this after-Assistant Pastor Rev. Joseph Maxwell, Choir Master Frederick Brackett, Clerk George R. Keyes and 16 choir boys of St. John's Episcopal church, Charlestown, came to Sharon by team today to camp out at Lake Massapoag for a week. After dinner Mr. Brackett and six of the boys went out in a boat.

A little boy named Parker fell overboard. Frank Cox, a bright little fellow of 13, immediately jumped after him, swam ashere, got a rope and by means of it saved the Parker boy, but in the confusion resulting from the accident the boat was overturned and Mr. Erackett and the other four boys were thrown into the water. None of the party save the Cox boy could swim, and before help could reach them from shore all five were drowned.

The names of the drowned are: Frederick Brackett, Thomas Parker Harry Laker, William S. Atkins, and Benjamin Gibbs.

EX-GOVERNOR BOIES

He Replies to Some of the Statements of W. C. Whitney.

GREAT TRUTH HAS BEEN IGNORED

The Great Bulk of Bonds Are Payable In Coin of the United States -- No Violation of Honor to Pay Them in Silver -- Majority of Democracy Threatens No Wrong.

Waterloo, Iowa, June 29.—Ex-Gover-nor Boles returned this afternoon from his Grundy county farm, where he went immediately on his return from Illinois When asked if he intended going to Chicago soon, he replied that he had not determined whether he would attend the convention or not. During Governor Boles' absence the interview with Mr. Whitney was published and on his return his attention was called to a telegram from the New York Herald asking his opinion in regard to the assertions made in it. He wired his reply tonight as follows:

Mr. Whitney is entirely right in his con-clusion that there is no disposition on the part of those who will represent the sliver sentiment of the south and west in the Chicago convention to further discuss the matter at issue with men whose views are diametrically opposed to their own on the currency question. i s entirely correct in his conclusion that it is not too late to accomplish any practical re-sults by a discussion of that character Mr. Whitney is entirely wrong in assum ing that free silver Democrats are forsak ing the fundamental principles of Dem-ocracy or that what he terms "sound money Democrats" are defending the principles in their endeavor to commit their party to gold monometallism. Until the Republican party met in St. Louis a few days ago there was never a line written in a national platform of either of the great parties that justified the claim that the one or the other of these parties were committed to that doctrine. To a sume now that adherence to that princi ple is abandonment of an established doc trine is to defy history and ignore the most plainly written of all the party's declara-tions of policy. IGNORES A GREAT TRUTH. When Mr. Whitney says the mainte sential to the preservation of our na-tional credit and redemption of our public pledges he ignores a great truth of which he cannot be ignorant. He knows that there is not a single obligation of this nation outstanding today that by its terms is payable in gold alone, and he knows that right upon the face of the a government it is written in substance that they are payable in coin of the Unit-ed States of the standard weight and fineness of its coins before silver was demon drowned; four children were picked up timed and that therefore by their own express terms they are payable in our pres others, as far as known, were rescued. ent silver dollars, if the government elects tion of the national honor when no party in the nation has ever suggested its fail-ure in the least degree to meet every obligation it has assumed according to the strict letter of the contract it made, has to say the least, a strange sound to those who need the universal cry of distress occapurchasing power of money and cutting n twain the market price of the products

If to undo what law has done to add to the burdens of the tolling millions of this nation and double the fortunes of the rich within it, is to disrupt the Democratic party, disruption must come. The majori ty of that party threatens no wrong to any one and if those who compose that major-ity can avoid it all may be assured they will submit to no such wrong as the per manent, establishment of a single gold standard would impose upon the grea mass of the people of this nation.

JEFF DAVIS MONUMENT.

A Memorial to the Traitor to Be Erected at Richmond-Confederate Flags Floating.

Richmond, Va., June 29,-Visitors to the confederate reunion are arriving today in large numbers. Only a few organized bodies have arrived, but many more will reach here tonight. The New Orleans contingent came early this morning and have already begun their fight to secure the battle Abbey of the south. Colonel J. Pinckney Smith, of the New Orleans states, heads the delegation. The Missouri people are here trying to secure the reunion for next year. General John B. Gordon, commander-in-chief of the confederate veterans and Adjutant General George Moorman, of New Orleans, are quartered at the Jefferson hotel, General Stephen D. Lee, who will be the orator at the laying of the corner stone of the Davis monument, is also here and this morning presided over a meeting of the history committee.

Davis memorial services were held in St. Paul church last evening, of which Jefferson Davis was a member and where he was at services when he received the despatch from General Lee, telling him to evacuate the city in '65. General Raleigh T. Colston, a distinguished confederate officer, is said to be lying at the soldiers' home here. Mrs. Jefferson Davis is expected tonight. The city is profusely decorated with national and confederate colors. In the auditorium a large United States flag surmounts the portraits of Lee and Jackson over the chair of the presiding

Mr. Manley Declines.

Canton, O., June 29 .- J. H. Manley, of Maine, has written a letter declining to be secretary of the Republican national executive committee on the ground that that position ought to be held by some one more closely connected with Major Mo-Kinley.
