should be selected. John R. Fellows, of New York, was received with cheers as he came to the He paid a tribute to the splendid ability and long established Democracy of the gentleman from Virginia, Mr. Daniel, and had he been nominated to a place on the ticket by this convention, New York would gladly have given him support. But grave principles were involved in the question now presented. Democratic traditions were to be trampled down and the whole life of the senator from Virginia repelled the suggestion that he could sanction this unheard of and unnecessary act. He proceeded to show the regularity of the action of the national committee, which, he said, for a longer period than the lives of any delegates present, had presented for the purpose of organization the names of officers to temporarily fill the chairs. and its action in this regard had never before been questioned. He characterized the plan now proposed as following a Republican precedent, disowred, denounced and spit upon. (Cheers). And why was it, he asked, with strong emphasis, that all the rest of the report was accepted and only the dis-tinguished gentleman from New York was rejected. "You can't escape" he said, "the distrust and suspicion this will arouse, and I trust there will be no permanent ill effect."

We recognize the right of the majority to control the convention when permanently organized. The permanent organization could effect nothing. Why not permit the report of the committee to stand in its entirety? He referred to the precedent of the convention four years ago, when Mr. Cleveland was nominated (Mr. Cleveland's name being received with cheers) when a temporary chairman opposed to the candidate who had a majority of the convention. was allowed to preside over the temporary organization of the convention and afterwards the majority took charge and nominated their candidates. He dwelt upon the fact that in that occasion Senator Daniels seconded the nomination of David B. Hill for president of the United States for four years but now seemed to deem him unworthy to be the temporary chairman of a Democratic convention. Loud cries of "no" greeted this remark, to which Col. Fellows retorted with the quotation about "protesting too much."

MARSDEN TAKES ICE WATER. "Who is he? Who is he?" shouted the delegates as B. W. Marsden, of Louisiana, was recognized and ascended the latform. Mr. Marsden began to get in trouble at the beginning. He professed no enmity to Senator Hill, and declared instead of the majority attempting to trample on the minority, it was the minority that would trample on the majority. Loud hisses followed this sentiment, and Mr. Marsden was further interrupted by cries for Hill. By this time the audience began to realize that Mr. Marsden was drinking huge quantities of ice water from Chairman Harrity's pitcher. At the third drink they began to laught derisively, at the fourth the vehemence increased, and when Mr. Marsden after waving his handkerchief at his hearers in the vain attempt to secure silence, placed the glass to his lips for the fifth time, the laughter and cheers became uprearious and he was forced to sit down. The power of the water pitcher realized about this time by the Louistana delegate and he smiled broadly as he took his sixth drink. During the rare periods of comparative silence while Mr. Marsden was on the platform, he managed to say that David B. Hill did not represent the majority of the convention and should not chosen. He was finally obliged to desist and sat down amid renewed cheering and derisive laughter.

MR. LADD'S LOGIC.

C. J. Ladd, of Illinois, spoke for the minority report. He wanted to say, he said, that as a member of the Democratic party and Democratic family, that there was no family quarrel. The gentleman from New York and Connecticut could not say words in praise of Senator Hill that was not echoed by all Democrats, and it was so of Senator Daniel. "All Democrats were good and some of them were better," said he. We were taught to honor our parents but if our parents made a mistake, as the national committee had done, it should be corrected. The man to be nominated must be the man of the majority. The convention knew perfectly well that if the gentleman from New York were elected he would make an able speech. No man doubted that. But ft would be a New York speech and would keep them explaining it to their Republican enemies all through the This was received with campaign. laughter and applause.

The national committee, Hon, W. K. Sader, of West Virginia, the next speaker, led off by declaring that he came here as firm a friend of the free coinage of silver as any one. But he must say to his silver friends that they were making a mistake. This was received with partial cheers and he followed by urging them to proceed to elect a Democratic president by Democratic methods.. Then Chairman Harrity said unless the majority of the convention should otherwise instruct the chair will direct a call of the roll immediately after the next speaker had closed. was for the delegates to decide.

This declaration apparently met the unanimous approval of the convention, and the chairman added that recognizing this to be the sentiment of the convention he would again recognize Mr. Clayton, of Alabama, to close the de-

Mr. Clayton proceeded to proclaim himself as the friend of David B. Hill now as he had been four years ago. Hill would support the nominee of the convention and would reiterate his declaration for the independent, free and unlimited coinage of silver in line with that great Elmira speech. He loved, honored and respected Hill, for at his feet he (Clayton) had learned Democracy. It was said that the convention was bolting tradition. What is tradition? Read the writings of the fathers, search them in vain, and tell him what lemn them would make him support the suggestion. Mr. Clayton concluded that he wanted full and unlimited coinage of silver and free and unlimited speech. Chairman Harrity then put be question, which was the adoption of the minority report, and ordered the oll of states to be called.

The roll call was then proceeded with. At its conclusion the total vote was announced by the chairman as follows: Ayes (Daniel) 556, noes (Hill) 349. Twelve votes were knocked off from the territories and Mr. Hill did not

Not voting, 1. The chair announced that the motion offered by the gentleman from Alabama substituting Hon. John W. Daniel, of Virginia, for temporary chairman is adopted, and there was a considerable manifestation of applause. The chairman said unless otherwise nstructed he would order this as a practical rejection of the majority report and would not put the question of its. adoption to the convention. There being no dissent the chair appointed Senator Jones, Hon, R. P. Keating, Nevada, and Senator White, Callfornia, a committee to escort Senator Daniel to the chair.

OVATION TO DANIEL.

The greatest demonstration of the day up to this time occurred when Senator Daniel came forward. Delegates stood in their chairs and yelled with might and main, waving canes, handkerchiefs and flags. The band aided the enthusiasm by starting up a patriotic air and delegates stamped, clapped and cheered with a vociferousness that threatened to drown the efforts of the musicians.

Sengtor Daniels on taking the chair expressed profound gratitude for the honor conferred upon him, and expressed his regret that his name should have been brought in even the most courteous competition with his most distinguished friend, Senator Hill, All would readily recognize the fact, however that there was no personality in the matter. It was solely due to the principle which the great majority of Democrats stood for and he (Mr. Daniel) standing with them. As the majority of the convention was not personal in its aims, neither was it sectional. It begun with the sunrise in Maine, and spread into a sunburst into Louisiana and Texas. It stretched in unbroken lines across from Iowa and Kansas, and it lighted up the horizon in Nebraska. When he saw the grand array, and the strength of the British gold standard that was recently unfurled over the ruins of Republican promises at St. Louis, he thought of the battle of New Orleans, of which it had been said: "There stood John Bull in martial pomp. But there was old Kentucky."

There was no north, south, east or west in the uprising of the people for American emancipation from the conspiracy of European kings, led by Great Britain, which sought to destroy one half of the money of the world, and to make American manufacturers, merchants, farmers and mechanics, hewers of wood and drawers of water. He appealed to all Democrats to acquiesce in the will of the great majority of their fellow Democrats and to go with them as they had often times gone with those to whom he appealed. Mr. Daniel continued:

POSITION IN 1892. Do not forget that in the last national convention of 1892 you proclaimed your-selves to be in favor of the use of both gold and silver as the standard money of the country, and for the coinage of both gold and silver without discrimin-ation against either metal or charge for ation against either metal or charge for mintage, and that the only question left open was the trade of the metals. Do not forget that just four years ago, in that same convention, the New York delegation stood here solid and immov-able for a candidate committed to the free and unlimited columns of silver free and unlimited coinage of silver and gold at the ratio of 16 to 1, and that if we are for it still it is in some measif we are for it still it is in some measure from your teachings.

That we owe you much is readily acknowledged and gratefully acknowledged, but are not our debts mutual and not one-sided to each other? As this majority of Democrats is not sectional neither is it for any privilege of class or for class legislation. The active business men of this country, its manufacturers, its merchants, its farmers, its sons of toil in counting room or factory, field or mine, know that a contraction of the currency sweeps away with the silent and relentless force of gravitation the natural profits of their enterprise and investment—and they know too that the gold standard means contraction and the organization of disaster. (Applause).

aster. (Applause).

What hope is there for the country, what hope for Democracy unless the views of the majority here be adopted?

The Republican party has now renounced the creed of its platforms and of our statutes. It has recentled to the of our statutes. It has presented to the country the issue of higher taxes, more bonds, and less money, and has proclaimed for the British gold standard. We can only expect should they succeed, spasms of panic and a long protracted period of depression. Do not ask us then to join them on these propositions.

was found there that was now applicable.

It would be shown that a majority of the Democrats were entitled to rule in a Democratic convention. As to the objection that the Republicans would criticize them, what did it mean? The one fact that the Republicans would condemn them would make him support one year's interest in that medium. one year's interest in that medium.

We should be compelled hereafter to contract the currency by paying the five hundred millions of greenbacks and Sherman notes in gold, which would nearly exhaust the entire American stock in and out of the treasury, and the same policy would require that the three hundred and forty-four millions of silver certificates should be paid in gold as foreshadowed by the present director of the mint in his recommenda-

> WOULD INCREASE THE DEBT. This means the increase of the public debt by five hundred millions of interest bearing gold bonds, with the prospect of three hundred and forty-millions to follow. The disastrous consequences of such a policy are appalling to contemplate, and the only alternative to contemplate, and the only alterrative suggested is the free coinage of silver as well as gold and the complete restoration of our American system of bimetallism. Bring us, we pray you, no more makeshifts and straddles. Vex the country with no more prophecies of smooth things to come from the British-Republican gold propaganda. We maintain that this great nation with a natural base (as Gladstone said) of the greatest continuous empire ever established by man, with far more territory and more productive energy than > ritory and more productive energy than Great Britain, France and Germany combined, without dependence upon Europe for anything that it produced and with European dependence upon and with European dependence upon us, for much that we produce, is fully capable of restoring its constitutional money system of gold and silver at equality with each other, and as our fathers in 1776 declared our national independence, so now has the party founded by Thomas Jefferson, the father of that declaration, met here to declare our financial independence of all other nations and to invoke all good Americans to assert it by their votes Americans to assert it by their votes and place their country where it ought to belong as the freest and foremost nation of the earth. Upon the close of Mr. Daniel's speech

there rose cries of Hill from all parts of the hall and the sergeant at arms was called to restore order. Senator Jones, of Arkansas, rose at this functure and offered resolutions of thanks to Chairman Harrity, which were adopted, for the manner in which he had discharged his duty as presiding officer. A resolution that the rules of Senator White, of California, and adoptname its selections for the commitzation, rules and order of business and building. platform (loud cries for Hill were renew-spond and the call proceeded.) pointed to serve on committees. Chairman Daniel ordered, however, that the contests could be decided only by reference to the committee on credentials and that the requests of the contestants could not be granted. Congressman Sulzer, of New York, took advantage of the interruption to offer his Cuban plank which was not read, but was referred for reference to the committee on resolutions.

When the various committees had seen appointed the members of them withdrew for organization and the convention then at 4:45 p. m. adjourned inic's, Bologna, 11,400; Cathedral, Vienuntil tomorrow morning at ten o'clock.

CHICAGO'S COLISEUM.

t Is Said to Be the Largest Audience Hall in the World.

The Chicago Coliseum which was recently opened, is said to be the largest building in the world. The following are its dimensions as given by F. S. Bemen, the architect, to a Chicago Inter-Ocean reporter: The building is 727 feet long by 300 feet wide. On the south end, the location of the sixtythird entrance, there is a vestibule 144 feet wide by 50 feet deep. On the east side of the building there are two vestibules, each of which is 28 feet by 54 feet. The height of the building inside is 100 feet. The outer walls are 47 feet high. The roof is built in terraces to the height of 105 feet. The roof is supported by twelve steel trusses, constructed upon the same principles as the great trusses or arches which upheld the root of the Manufactures building at the World's Fair. These trusses or arches are 230 feet in width. The interior length of the building, exclusive of the vestibule. Is 676 feet There are two permanent galleries in the building, the first one, which is called the balcony, is 25 feet above the main floor, and is 40 feet wide, and runs all around the building. The second one is 40 feet above the main floor and is 12 feet wide. The total floor space inside the building is 285,000 square feet. As arranged for Buffalo Bill's Wild West, which will inaugurate the building on next Monday, the arena is 600 feet long by 160 feet wide. As a city block is 400 feet in length some idea of the length of this arena may be imagined. The seating capacity of the building as arranged for Buffalo Bill's Wild West is 20,000.
