Event -- Number of Men in Camp Will Probably Reach Ten Thousand -- It Will Be Known as Camp John Gibbon -- Make-Up of the Brigades.

While Scrantonians are especially interested in the approaching Division en-campment of the state's militia at Lewiston, from July 18 to the 25, because the Thirteenth regiment will take part in it, the interest in the event is general and extends throughout the state from the fact that the state's complete military force will be in the camp. HOW DEMOCRATS VIEW IT.

Enthusiasm Was Conspicuous by Its Absence When the Nominee's Name Was Heard Yesterday.

There wasn't any enthusiasm noticeable among the Democrats when the iews of the nomination of ex-Congressman William J. Bryan, of Nebraska for the presidency, became known in this city, but the spirit of curiosity was very strong and the all absorbing topic on the streets and everywhere was the outcome of the Democratic National convention at Chicago, From the time the convention opened in the morning until its adjournment last night crowds were thronged around the bulletin boards in various parts this place. of the city. But the largest throngs were at the entrance of the Tribune building, where the progress of events in the convention was noted almost as kly as they transpired. Excellent service was furnished The Tribune by both the Western Union and Postal Telegraph companies, and the news was bulletined as fast as the operators could take it from the wires. When the name of Bryan began to be mentioned as one liable to be nominated on the second or third ballot, the ex-BEST SETS OF TEETH. $8.00 pression of inquiry on their faces was very visible. "Who is Bryan? Where is he from?" was asked more than once. Among the better posted men of the party, who did not have to be informed on Bryan's history, or that much of it which relates to his position in public life, there was a general and pronounced feeling of disappointment.

The Republicans, of course, were elated at the turn of events. One would not have to go far to find Democrats willing to concede that their party will be shipwrecked after the elction. The flickering attempt to stir up en-thusiasm by the most faithful ones, was in strong contradistinction to the spontaneous greeting with which the news of McKinley's nomination was recelved.

One ex-Democratic office holder in conversation with a Tribune reporter said: "Our party has made a woeful A mistake in the nomination of Bryan. Bland, Boles or Matthews would have made candidates who would have the confidence of the people to start with, something that Bryan has not about him. As the situation appears to me oday Bryan will receive a terrible defeat in November, and that will take the Democratic party years to recover
