EASTERN LEAGUE BASE BALL GAMES

Scranton and Springfield Play a Most Remarkable Game.

SPRINGFIELD MADE THE ONLY RUN

Required Ten Innings to Settle It. Albany Continued Its Winning Streak--Scranton and Wilkes-Barre Go East for Two Series.

Yesterday's Results. Springfield..... 1 Scranton..... 0 Albany..... 22 Syracuse..... 12

In one of the most remarkable games of the season Springfield in the tenth inning scored the only run of the game yesterday and incidentally showed many admirers of a sound drubbing to Syracuse which puts the latter in fifth place, below Buffalo.

THREE POOL ERRORS.

Lost Scranton the Game to Springfield in the Tenth Inning with Two Out.

For ten innings yesterday Tommy Johnson pitched one of those most remarkably strong games which occasionally fall to his lot. Year after year Bill Coughlin pitched just good enough and just bad enough to get a runner out on the result in many early innings without scoring. Each season one of the art of twirling was being supported in faultless style, the only error being that of Rolly which didn't cost anything. But in the last of the tenth, O'Brien, Maguire and Ward beat under the strain with two out, each made a ridiculous error which gave Springfield the only run of the game.

With the tenth only three men faced Johnson in each inning excepting the first and eighth and he was being supported in the kind of fashion calculated to make even an aged crank turn non-combatants for joy. Ward and Maguire had robbed the Ponties of many a hit and Griffin and Egan had scooped in several flies that seemed safe.

AND COUGHLIN, TOO.

Coughlin too, though more generous than Johnson, was pitching an ordinary game. The eight hits of him were scattered so that no two were made in any one inning except in the fifth, and he was receiving splendid backing by all his mates especially Fuller and Cobby.

The one thousand of the faithful who never get weary had been on the verge of excitement from the beginning when Latham was ordered out of the game. In the first inning Gaffney called him out on a steal to second and Arlie proceeded to kick in the vicious style peculiar to himself when he gets steam up and which nothing can curb.

As the players filed out on the field he "kissed" Gaffney at the plate and the latter ordered him to the bench and finally off the grounds. Arlie took his departure but returned in a few moments, and at the game out, O'Brien was sent to third and Gillen put in the outfield.

For nine innings the game was featured by the appearance of only three Ponties at bat in nearly every inning and by the ineffectual efforts of the coal men to score after netting a runner on the circuit occasionally.

THE THREE ERRORS.

In the last of the tenth Cobby hit a slow tosser toward O'Brien who fumbled it until the runner was safe on first. Gilbert also hit one toward Maguire which would have been an easy out at first and which offered a chance for a possible double play. O'Brien's rush after the ball confused Maguire who had an attack of the flutters and before he recovered himself both runners were safe. Rolly forced Cobby at third on Johnson's good assist and Gilbert was forced at the same station by Leahy. A base on balls to Coughlin filled the bases with two out. Leahy, the next man up, punched an easy grounder toward Ward and all hands cheered. Ward should have the collegian out by a mile, but the "rattler" which had caused the errors of O'Brien and Maguire affected Leahy and he failed to handle the ball. Rolly, on the error, brought in the necessary run.
