EASTERN LEAGUE BASE BALL GAMES

Rain Stops the Providence-Wilkes-Barre Game in the Third.

SCRANTON IS AT THE FOOT AGAIN

Springfield Ponies Touched Up Gilton When Hits Were Necessary--Buffalo Pulls Rochester Down Out of First Place--Albany and Providence Are a Tie for First.

Yesterday's Results.

Springfield 8 Scranton 6 Buffalo 7 Rochester 6 Syracuse at Albany, rain. Wilkes-Barre at Providence, rain.

Providence had Wilkes-Barre beaten 6-0 when the game was stopped in the third inning yesterday. The stoppage was probably as unfortunate for Providence as for Scranton, as a victory for the former would have put them in first place and kept Wilkes-Barre down below Scranton. Scranton's defeat at Springfield, however, sends Griffin and his men down to the foot of the list again. Providence tied with Albany in first place yesterday, the Boston, who made Rochester tumble down from the lead.

SHUT OUT.

Smith's Good Pitching and Scranton's Weak Hitting Put Griffin's Men in Last Place.

Springfield, July 13--The tables were turned at Hampden park today. The visiting Scranton nine could not make a run off the ponies. Smith pitched an elegant game for the home side a couple of wild ones. Scheffer's three-bagger was timely. Healy showed dreadfully poor judgment in the fourth in trying to steal home and was put out. The fifth inning made a beautiful running catch and quick recovery throw of Bowserman's grounders. Score:

RAIN, HAIL AND WIND

vivid preceding the hail storm, but it was not heard that any houses were struck. When the hail began to fall there was an open car ascending the grade above the Meadow Brook breakers, the passengers comprising women mostly, and they got so frightened that the conductor had to stop and let them get off. They lost no time in making for the nearest houses.

Damage on the West Side is worthy of a big D. The wind played the greatest havoc and trees were felled with the force and after effect of a Texas cyclone. In front of the residence of Frank H. Teets, on Scranton street, a grand old tree was toppled over from the roots. Other residents where the shade will be in the future missed are: Stedman, South Main avenue, Judge H. M. Edwards, and many houses on Tenth street. The only bolt of lightning, which, as far as known, alighted on the West Side, struck a tree on Tenth street.

The wind struck the front of the First Welsh Baptist church and a stained window glass gave way, frame and all, and the wreckage was deposited in the lot of the building. Fifty dollars will cover the damage. Another structure which suffered greatly was the McGarrath brick building on the westerly corner of Main avenue and Third street. A frame window in that story was battered by the wind and with a crash, the whole thing, sash included fell in.

So fierce was the force that the entire front of the building is caved. A three inch crack extending down the front shows that the whole structure is irreparably damaged. Three years ago Building Inspector Nelson commenced this work. At that time it was in a bad way; now the condition is much worse. Neville & Law establish the building as a furniture establishment. A barn owned by John Stetter and situated on Price street, was twisted from the roof to the foundation. It now resembles a cork screw. The old McKeever slaughter house on the east of North Main avenue was tilted by the breeze. The roof was torn off and dropped several yards farther down the field. Nearly every residence in the upper North Main avenue section was damaged. The slate roofs were damaged to the extent that repairs are necessary.

FLOOD ON HAMPTON STREET. The water caused its share of the excitement. The flood came down Hampton street and Main avenue and at the junction a pond, several feet deep, was formed. David M. Jones, the druggist, whose store is on the corner, a sufferer from damage done to goods stored in the cellar. Other people in this region were busy last night in hauling out the surplus liquid under their houses. On West Lackawanna avenue hill the water washed out the fillings from the street car track where the new track was recently laid and the dirt and stone was washed down upon the city. Lackawanna and Western railroads track are damaged to the extent of about $500. The wind blew against the building with such force that a portion of the roof was swept away. It was about thirty feet wide and the whole covered one of the teaching rooms of the school. The rained portion of the building was blown into the yard of Charles R. Acker's residence adjacent to the school. The Peck Lumber company is the contractor for the lumber work on the school.

The wind struck a horse attached to a Clark Bros' wagon and in the excitement one of the wheels was caved in.

Sam Widenan, a 16-year-old boy, was stunned and slightly burned by reason of his nearness to a bolt of lightning. Young Widenan sought shelter under the eaves of a barn. A dog ran under a wagon shed on the Tripp estate on North Main avenue. The dog fell only a few feet away. The boy's hair was singed and his eyebrows show the effect of intense heat.

TENT BLOWN DOWN. The tent on lower South Main avenue now being used as a meeting place for the Seventh Day Adventist missionaries was blown into an adjoining lot. The canvas, size 70x40, was huddled in a tangled heap and the gospel hymns were blown into the gutter. Many trees were blown down in the North End of the city, streets were torn up and cellars filled with water. In Sand Banks the water filled many cellars and at one time was several feet deep in Gordon street.

ASSAULTED A CONDUCTOR. Thought He Had Paid Once and Wouldn't Settle a Second Time. Robert Allen, a journeyman tinsmith, who came here a few days ago from Buffalo, was locked up yesterday afternoon for assaulting Conductor James O'Boyle, of the Dunmore Suburban line.

Allen rode over from Hyde Park and changed cars without getting a transfer. When the conductor came to him for fare he insisted he had paid and would not come up again. He was ordered to get off and upon his refusal O'Boyle put him off near the court house, but in doing so got his coat badly torn.

Allen, seeing that he was in for trouble, walked to the police station to give his side of the story. O'Boyle, who followed him, arrived a minute later and made his explanation. Allen was deemed the culpable one and was locked up. Allen claims that the conductor on the Hyde Park car told him he didn't need a transfer.
