MICHAEL SCANLON JUGGED.

Could Not Furnish 8500 Bail Required by Alderman Jones. The case of Abram Glazier against Michael Scanlon was heard yesterday morning at Alderman Jones.' It seems that for some time back Scanlon, who boards with Glazier, has not paid his board. Glazler needed the money and the underside being a yellowish green. as it was not forthcoming had it deducted from Scanlon's wages.

When Scanlon received his wages minus the board bill he became angry and made his way to the home of Glazier, determined to make things lively He was disappointed, however, as both the landlord and his wife were absent, He then proceeded to vent his anger upon the furniture, and when the head of the house returned he found things in a badly mixed up condition. He at once had a warrant sworn out for Scanlon's arrest and a constable soon had the prisoner in the toils. Glazier denied having anything to do with the affair. Glazier's little daughter, who was a witness of the affair, testified against him, so his story did not go He was therefore placed under $500 bail and upon fallure to secure it was sent to the county jail.

STABBING AFFRAY.

The Assailant Now Hiding in the Mountains.

A stabbing affray took place late Sunday night which came very near ending the life of an Italian residing near the hospital, and it was from no good in-tention on the part of the person who did the stabbing that there was not a more serious ending.

A woman was the cause of the stabbing. Several years ago, before coming to this country, Anton Volpe paid considerable attention to the wife of his cousin, Saverla Volpe. The former lives in this city, the latter in Archbald. Sunday they met for the first time since the quarrel in Italy and at once came to blows. In the fight Antonio drew a knife and made a ferocious plunge at Saveria. Fortunately the man was able to evade the full force of the blow or he would have been killed, as the blade struck over the heart and made a wound several inches in length. It is not dangerous, however.

The two men were soon separated by companions and Severia at once made good his escape, and when last seen was making his way in the direction of the West Side mountains. He kept the crowd from following him by means of a revolver, and has not yet been caught.

MONTROSE.

Without being too personal it might be a pertinent question to ask of Col. Cruiser, who is Sewall?

There has been so much said about the "Army Worm" that is of the whole cloth that your correspondent has taken pains to find out from personal observation the habits and nature of this dire destructor. The worm varies in size from a half-tuch to two inches in length and in the latter case is as large around as one's little finger. Its color is when small and young a brownish black, the older ones being jet black. About two o'clock in the afternoon it arouses from a dormant state and begins its work of destruction. Everything, save a few weeds are literally mowed down by them, some crawling up the tender stalks and sawing them off for the benefit of those on the ground. At dusk they crawl under stones, boards or ensconce themselves under the clods of grass and make no further appearance until the following day about two o'clock. It is a fallacy that they march forward in a straight line. Many farmers in this sec- the guest of her cousin, Miss Nellie Mction are cutting half ripened grain in Gowan, Smith, of Wilkes-Barre, was lifted high into the heavens and successfully descended in his parachute. Prof. Smith enjoys the distinction of being the only colored aeronaut in this country. It was his eleventh ascension, and to your correspondent he stated: "Yes, I am back on the earth once more, safe and sound. What were my feelings, the sensation I experienced? Why, that is a hard matter to explain. The view was beautiful, but everybody and all the buildings seemes to lean sideways. nothing stood up straight. I passed through three currents of air and when I was up in the third one it was very cold. I believe that I was up to a height of from 3,600 to 4,000 feet." SLIPS IN SPEECH.

Bad Breaks, Inadvertently Made, Are Often the Cause of Quiet Humor. From the New York Dispatch.

In the hurry of speech and the anxiety to be polite one is very often liable to slips of the tengue which may put an entirely different construction upon the sentence than was intended. For example, upon arriving at your entertainer's house, you say :"I beg a thousand pardons for coming so late," and are met by your hostess with the words: "My dear sir, no pardons are needed; you can never come too late."

Take another instance. At an evening party in Cork a lady said to her patrner: "Can you tell me who that exceedingly plain man is sitting oppo-site to us?" "That is my brother.," "Oh, I beg your pardon," she replied, much confused, " I did not notice the re-semblance."

That was certainly putting one's foot in it, and yet perhaps was not so awkward as the following: After a certain concert a well known German cantratice asked a gentleman to whom she had been introduced how he liked her duet. "You sang charmingly, madam. But why do you select such a horrid piece of music?" "Sir, that was written by my late husband!" "Ah, yes, of course. I did not mean— But why did you select such an ass to sing with you?" "Ach himmel, that is my present husband!" A lady said something the other day at a friend's dinner that found a mark the archer little meant. There was sayeral strangers present, and in response to a remark made about a certain age the fair guest in question exclaimed; 'Why, good gracious! she is as old as the hills!" and could not imagine in the least what had caused the gener-
