The attorneys for the miners have been busy since adjournment last Friday securing and examining witnesses and it is expected that some new disclosures will be made.

WILL SING THE MIKADO.

Wilkes-Barre Artists to Produce It for the Benefit of Pittston Fund. What will undoubtedly swell the Pittston fund handsomely will be the production of the opera "Mikado" in this city on Thursday, July 23, at the Frothingham, by the Carolan Glee club of Wilkes-Barre. It is an organization of much merit and includes a cast and chorus of fine singers. Joseph P. Burns will take the part of Pooch Bah. The Delaware and Hudson company will furnish transportation free to the eighty-seven members of the club from Wilkes-Barre to this city. The management of the Frothingham here and the Grand Opera House, Wilkes-Barre, will give the theatres free; the Eaver Costume company, of New York, has supplied costumes gratis, and Oppenheimer's orchestra of Wilkes-Barre, have volunteered their services. The price of admission will be 25, 50, 75 and $1. Checks will be given out two days in advance. The opera will be given in Wilkes-Barre for the same purpose tomorrow night and Friday night.

BISHOP AGAIN WAITED UPON.

Polish Catholics Make Another Appeal for Removal of Pastor. The end of the trouble in the Polish Catholic congregation of the South Side has not come yet. Last night a committee consisting of the oldest members of the congregation again waited upon Rt. Rev. Bishop O'Hara to urge him to remove the pastor, Rev. Richard Aust and compel him to account for the money paid into his hands during recent years to sustain the church. The bishop promised the priest of admission will be on Friday evening. The members of the committee who waited on the bishop last night were: A. Sheverkowski, J. Narozonek, J. Krechanski, L. F. Olszowski and G. Grzywinski. They allege that the congregation appointed a committee and instructed it to collect all moneys in the church hereafter and take general charge of the financial affairs of the congregation but that Father Aust last Sunday refused to allow it to act. The feeling against the pastor appears to be growing in intensity.

Monster Demonstration Ratifying the Nomination of McKinley and Hobart.

ABUNDANCE OF ENTHUSIASM

Cheers Greeted the Marchers All Along the Line of March—Bicycle Brigade Made a Fine Appearance. Ringing Resolutions Adopted—Addresses by Mahlon Chance and A. J. Colborn, Jr.

THE MOUNTED SQUAD

Select Councilman George Sanderson marshaled 110 men from the Thirteenth ward and behind them marched forty other residents of Green Ridge under the name of the "Bicycle Club." McKinley club of Green Ridge. All the members are Delaware and Hudson employees and their carried various railroad lanterns. George Geary was marshal. "There is Nothing to Worry About, McKinley is the Engineer," was the very popular slogan which the railroad men bore.

The South Side clubs were assembled in the third division, which was marshaled by Hon. Alex. T. Connell, who had for his aides Philip Wirth, Charles Stone, James McGuinness, Fred Miller, Charles Smith, Charles W. Weston's, John Wirth, Louis Schwanz, Peter Neir, William Smith, Charles Simrell, James Toohill, Fred Jones, Fred Hewitt and Charles Kloss.

Camp 430 drum corps headed the line. Then came the Ezra Ripple Republican club of the Twentieth ward, numbering 120 men and captained by Thomas J. "Doc" Wirth, who carried a banner "Vote for McKinley and Hobart" and "Oratory Does Not Increase the Value of Silver" were among the hoists and declarations on their transparencies.

The Nineteenth ward McKinley club numbered 100 men and was led by George Wirth. The Eleventh ward Republican club carrying the significant banner "The Solid South is Broken" marched 110 men behind Philip Wirth, who gave the banner the peculiar significance by carrying that ward in the conterminous election. The Germania band headed this club.

SUPPLYING FIREWORKS.

Stations for supplying fireworks were established at regular intervals along the route and the marchers were thus enabled to keep up an incessant fusillade of Roman candles and the like. Whenever they moved the air was fairly alive and the sight presented on the avenues where the procession marched, for a long distance, was magnificent.

The parade started at 8:20 and was in motion until after 10 o'clock. The first division formed on the streets running at right angles with Franklin avenue and at the word of command from the chief marshal, F. L. Hitchcock, moved out Franklin to Lackawanna and thence over the following route: Up Lackawanna to Adams avenue, to Spruce street, to Jefferson avenue, to Olive street, to Washington avenue, to Mulberry street, to Penn avenue, to Spruce street, to Adams avenue, to Linden street, breaking ranks in front of court house, where the mass meeting was held.

First came the bicyclists' division as escorted by Colonel Hitchcock and his staff numbering 25 aides, with J. W. Oakford as chief. There were 600 wheelmen in line and each wheel carried Japanese lanterns suspended from the handle-bars, forming a most beautiful picture. Some of the wheels also bore other decorations and not a few were quite elaborate.

MANY WOMEN IN LINE.

There were also a number of women among the cyclists. One girl wore a bicycle costume made of American flags and was applauded all along the line. The clubs represented in the division were the West Side Wheelmen, the Green Ridge Wheelmen, the South Side Wheelmen, the Suburban Wheelmen of Olyphant and the Scranton Bicycle Club. Coming up Lackawanna avenue they rode four abreast and occupied the entire stretch of street between Adams and Franklin avenues. Dolph E. Atherton was marshal and organizer of this division and he had good reason to be proud of it. His aides were Charles Kerr, John Atherton, Herbert Hall, William Woodler, Harry Lucas and Wallace Ruth.

One of the most applauded transparencies carried by the wheelmen was "All the World's Awheel and all the Wheelmen are for McKinley." After the marshal and his aides, all mounted, came the favorite parade of the first division, which was marshaled by T. Hunt Brock, with Alfred Shopland and Fred Widmayer as aides. The Dr. Throp McKinley club of the Sixteenth ward had the right of line and as far as novel display goes deserved it. Their torches were recently made of glass, being incandescent lights mounted on poles and supplied by a machine operated on a wagon which preceded them as they marched. A big steam boiler and stationary engine, also carried on the wagon, supplied the power for the electric light machine. Three car splitters were carried in a body and one hundred men in line and were led by Eugene Strong. Dr. Throp rode at their head in a carriage drawn by four horses.

THOSE IN CARRIAGES.

Then came a carriage containing the delegates and alternates to the St. Louis convention, William Connell, Hon. John T. Williams, Conrad Schroeder and James J. Williams and another containing District Attorney John R. Jones, H. E. Paine, Thomas H. Dale and Major Everett Warren.

The Police Republican club of the South Side followed with 120 men, led by Martin Woyshner and carrying a transparency which read "Bondage in Poland, but Freedom in America," and another "We are in Favor of 15 Republicans to 1 Democrat."

The first, second and third ward Republican clubs marched in a body and were 200 strong. They followed the marching by singing appropriate patriotic songs.

The Olyphant McKinley Club brought down 110 men and a transparency declaring for "McKinley and Hard Money." D. D. Davis was their marshal. Throp sent down a delegation of 80 men under Joseph Farringer and were led by the Throp band. Their banner read "Good Money. Protection and Good Times."

The second division embraced the West Side and Green Ridge clubs. Dr.

W. A. Paine was marshal and his aides were W. E. Thayer, George Benore, John Fern, Dr. J. J. Roberts, William Morgan and Frank Bevan.

THIRTEENTH WARD MEN.

A mounted squad, some of the riders dressed in fantastic costumes came first and then followed Crump's band leading the West Side Central Republican club, marshaled by Will Meers and carrying red, white and blue lanterns. This club had nearly 200 men in line. Their transparencies read "Free Coinage Will Reduce Our Wages Fifty Per Cent."

The West Side Republican league had 125 men in line and was captained by Harry Decker. Among their transparencies was this: "Round Sense, Sound Cents, 15 to 15 1/2."

The Pleasant View Republican club which comes from the Bellevue district of the Sixth ward had 80 men in line. Walter Harris was their marshal. They carried one of the most novel transparencies in the parade, a representation of the "Free Coinage" and had underneath the classical quotation "There Are No Fish on Me."

Select Councilman Toronto T. Fellows led 75 men from the Fifteenth ward, who are not affiliated with any of the West Side clubs.

THE MOUNTED SQUAD

Select Councilman George Sanderson marshaled 110 men from the Thirteenth ward and behind them marched forty other residents of Green Ridge under the name of the "Bicycle Club." McKinley club of Green Ridge. All the members are Delaware and Hudson employees and their carried various railroad lanterns. George Geary was marshal. "There is Nothing to Worry About, McKinley is the Engineer," was the very popular slogan which the railroad men bore.

The South Side clubs were assembled in the third division, which was marshaled by Hon. Alex. T. Connell, who had for his aides Philip Wirth, Charles Stone, James McGuinness, Fred Miller, Charles Smith, Charles W. Weston's, John Wirth, Louis Schwanz, Peter Neir, William Smith, Charles Simrell, James Toohill, Fred Jones, Fred Hewitt and Charles Kloss.

Camp 430 drum corps headed the line. Then came the Ezra Ripple Republican club of the Twentieth ward, numbering 120 men and captained by Thomas J. "Doc" Wirth, who carried a banner "Vote for McKinley and Hobart" and "Oratory Does Not Increase the Value of Silver" were among the hoists and declarations on their transparencies.

The Nineteenth ward McKinley club numbered 100 men and was led by George Wirth. The Eleventh ward Republican club carrying the significant banner "The Solid South is Broken" marched 110 men behind Philip Wirth, who gave the banner the peculiar significance by carrying that ward in the conterminous election. The Germania band headed this club.

THE FOURTH DIVISION.

Colonel E. H. Ripple marshaled the fourth division which contained the Dunmore delegation, the colored clubs, the Ninth ward club and the Central Republican club under whose auspices the demonstration was held.

First came a carriage drawn by four horses containing the officers of the colored clubs, William Simpson, H. A. Brown, John A. Walker and George W. Brown. Then followed the Keystone Republican club numbering 75 men, officered by G. W. Brown, Frank Thomas, and W. H. Johnson. One of their banners read "Only one Choice for Congress" and the other was the one above referred to "A Boy Orator is O. K., but a Boy President is N. O."

The Central Republican club, headed by Banner's Band and captained by Milton W. Lowry came next. They numbered 150 men, including many of Scranton's most prominent citizens. Then came the Ninth ward Republican club led by George Marshall and numbering 60 men.

The Dunmore delegation under the leadership of Charles Savare followed 200 strong, being one of the strongest of the parade. They carried a transparency reading "Major McKinley now, but President McKinley next March."

The left of the line was brought up by the William Connell McKinley club composed of 45 colored men, led by John W. Muse. "There is No Color Like Mine" was one of the legends which caused people to take a second look. Another read "Honest Vote, Honest Count, Honest Money."

AT THE COURT HOUSE.

Whatever there was of red fire, shouts and enthusiasm during the march, all those things were several times multiplied when the court house square was reached which the parade would first and come to a close. Here was located the speaker's stand on the lawn facing Linden street, and here was let loose all the pent-up noise, fireworks and hurrah that had been reserved since the procession started. The speaker's stand, made conspicuous by the constant hurrah within it of colored fire, was the reminder or the encouragement for a veritable river of fireworks, wave of cheers and outburst of music which encircled the whole square. The parades and their lanterns and creches, the immense crowd occupying the big square and the streets that encircled it combined to make the scene an auspicious and enthusiastic curtain-raiser to the now present campaign. The campaign certainly began with a vengeance which argued well for a stiff and earnest fight by Republicans.

The long line of bicycles which headed the parade halted and arranged itself in two lines, one along each curb from Spruce street and Adams avenue, along the latter thoroughfare and through Linden street to Washington avenue. Between the two lines thus formed the main body of the parades passed in movement, together with the fireworks and music which encircled the square, making a lively picture which will not soon be forgotten by the thousands of onlookers.

BEFORE PARADE ARRIVED.

In the speaker's stand only a few Republican notables were gathered before the parade was ended. They entered later and while the crowd was gathering on the lawn. This crowd, by the way, consisted of a sprinkling of Democrats as evidenced by their noise. Intervals during the speech-making, but their minority was so apparent and their efforts so fruitless that the Republican listeners received the interference with good nature and as one of the natural features of the campaign and downed the Democratic interjections with such lusty yell for McKinley, for protection and for gold that the opposition ceased to make itself heard after the speech-making was fairly begun.

Thomas H. Dale was chairman. The speaker of the evening was Mahlon Chance, formerly a congressman from McKinley's district in Ohio and a personal friend of the Republican candidate, but for twelve years a resident of New York city and a leading member of the American Protective Tariff league of this city. District Attorney John R. Jones read a set of ringing Republican resolutions which were endorsed by the crowd, and A. J. Colborn made the concluding speech of the evening.

SEATED ON THE PLATFORM.

Others who occupied chairs in the stand were: Major Everett Warren, William Connell, Prothonotary C. E. Pryor, Conrad Schroeder, Assistant District Attorney John M. Harris, H. E. Paine, Colonel James Fairman, Judge H. M. McGhee, of Lewisburg, and Hon. O. Furst, of Bellefonte. A number of other well-known Republicans chose to occupy a space back of the stand.

It was 10 o'clock when Chairman Dale stepped forward and formally opened the meeting by briefly congratulating the assemblage on the part it bore in the parade.

Chairman Dale introduced District Attorney Jones with the announcement which the latter would read resolutions which in their adoption would afford the listeners an opportunity to have a voice in the proceedings. The resolutions were an endorsement of Republican principles and candidates and were as follows:

THE RESOLUTIONS.

"The Republicans of Lackawanna county assembled in mass meeting for the purpose of ratifying the nominations of the party at St. Louis, representing not only the majority of the people deeply concerned and menaced, but the national honor is at stake. We assert in the most positive manner our adherence of those who, in carrying out their solemn trust, the spotless honor of the nation, through the noble of disgrace. Equally reprehensible are those who are seeking to anticipate the people's choice by the use of the spirit of envy with foreign patronage and prejudices antagonistic to the rights of the people and the constitution. We heartily endorse the action of the convention in St. Louis and the platform there adopted. We believe in a protective tariff; we are convinced that protection is the key note to prosperity. We do not ally ourselves with those who really protest, that offers equal reward to labor and capital that all may enjoy in the best sense the fruit of their labor. We do not advocate a tariff that furnishes revenue for all the government's needs, but such as is an absolute safeguard against every line of foreign competition, protecting fully our labor in whatever field it is from competing with foreign labor. A protection that insures to our people a better life, brighter hopes, higher education, more comfort and refinement. The goal of the American foreign laborer 'the alms house' must not be the result and reward of a life of toil and industry.

RECIPROCIITY POLICY.

We believe in the reciprocity policy inaugurated by that wisest of American statesmen, James G. Blaine. We believe in America and in a vigorous American policy. We are in favor of resisting any and all aggression of foreign powers and of any attempt on their part to encroach on this nation or to dominate the Western Hemisphere. The American policy we believe is synonymous with patriotism.

Aside from the protective policy of the Republican party which we believe to be the key note to national prosperity, the most important issue of the moment is the question of the currency. This matter is most momentous and serious. The honor of the nation and incidentally of every individual is at stake—no mistake—"whom the Gods would destroy they first make mad." A wild hysterical frenzy seems to have come upon a section of our fair land. A party is striving to dishonor us before the world in advocating a policy that will inevitably depreciate our currency and place this great and all powerful nation upon the footing of small countries, comparatively insignificant in power and overthrowing our standard of money which is acknowledged by all the most enlightened nations of the world to be the real standard of value.

We wish to state most emphatically that we are for sound money, the present gold standard. The American dollar must be and shall be what it purports to be and intrinsically worth 100 cents all over the world. We emphasize that we believe the laborer is worthy of his hire and that an honest dollar must and shall be paid and received for a dollar's worth of work. That no nation can fool with its money standard which is acknowledged to be the standard of the world, any more than they can play around a powder mill with matches without danger of an explosion. No nation on earth can make a thing worth more than what its market value is in the commercial centers of the world.

and until such time as there is an international agreement among the enlightened nations upon a ratio of silver and gold and they abide by an accepted bimetallic standard, the use of gold and silver together as currency is impossible and no one knows it better than the silver mine owners. They do not tell you, but they know the moment free coinage laws pass our congress, from that day gold will vanish and instead of bimetallicism we will still have a single standard, but it will be instead of gold a silver standard; are we prepared for that? Make no mistake. The United States must maintain its present standard and keep the national honor unsullied and its labor honestly rewarded and its currency pure and unalloyed. We affirm this can only be done by steadfastly upholding the platform of the St. Louis convention and working faithfully for the candidates of the Republican party. We heartily endorse the nominees of the convention, William McKinley, the champion of protection and sound money, who, if elected, will not only be an advance agent of property, and his distinguished associate, Hon. Garrett A. Hobart, the sterling Republican leader of the party. (Continued on Page 7.)
