

TWELVE PAGES--84 COLUMNS.

SCRANTON, PA., SATURDAY MORNING, JULY 18, 1896.

TWO CENTS A COPY.

SALE

THE Right Thing
AT THE Right Time
AT THE Right Price
AT THE Right Place

This is a modest statement, for the fact is that the selling prices quoted below are better than right. However, we mention the right price also, so that you may understand what the sacrifice we are making really amounts to.

SALE
Is Now On Trimmed
Summer
Yokes
IN NEW GOODS
NEW STYLES
NEW VALUES

LOT 1
Embroidered yokes in plain white or lemon shades. Best 50c.
Sale Price, 35c

LOT 2
White Pique Embroidered yokes. Our all-season 50c. quality.
Sale Price, 48c

LOT 3
Linen Batiste Yokes, pretty Valenciennes trimmings. A lead-er at 75c.
Sale Price, 52c

LOT 4
White Lawn Embroidered yokes. Dainty creations that sold ready for 90c.
Sale Price, 59c

LOT 5
Combination Yokes of White Lawn, Dotted Swiss, Valenciennes Lace and Embroidery. They were considered wonderful value at $1.00.
Sale Price, 69c

LOT 6
Pique and Lawn Embroidered Yokes. Very desirable and stylish. Actual value $1.35.
Sale Price, 89c

LOT 7
Fine Linen Batiste Yokes, elaborate embroidery and the cream of top notch fashion. Were $1.50.
Sale Price, 98c

LOT 8
Finest Linen Batiste Yokes, with wonderful lace and lawn combination effects. These are strictly high-class novelties that sold for $2.00 and $2.25. Your choice.
Sale Price, $1.29

LOT 9
A few superb Mull and Embroidery Yokes that sold to the fine trade at $2.75 and $2.95.
Sale Price, $1.49

Sale Now On

GLOBE
WAREHOUSE.

THE SOUND MONEY
DEMOCRATS MOURN

Solemn Gathering of Grief-Stricken Free Traders at Philadelphia.

MR. SINGERLY'S DISH OF BAIT

Suggests a Scheme Whereby Republican Votes Might Possibly Be Obtained in the Support of Low Tariff Congressmen--Resolution of Condemnation.

Philadelphia, July 17.—An important conference of "sound money" Democrats was held today in the office of John C. Bullitt, a well known lawyer, for the purpose of protesting against the action of the Chicago convention. The meeting was held in private, and it was presided over by Henry D. Webster, a director of the Pennsylvania railroad. Among the sixty prominent Democrats in attendance were: John C. Bullitt, Charles H. Jones, vice president of the Trust company of North America; J. Simpson Africa, president of the Union Trust company; ex-Mercantile Appraiser Charles T. Ingersoll, James F. Sullivan, director of the Union Traction company; ex-City Treasurer William Redwood Wright, Judge Harman Yerkes, of Bucks county; William M. Singerly, president of the Philadelphia Record Publishing company (which paper has bolted the Chicago platform); George F. Baer, of Reading, a director of the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad company, and others. A number of letters of regret were read from Democrats who were unable to be present and who expressed sympathy with the movement.

Mr. Singerly stated that he had proposed to the independent Republicans that a deal be effected whereby in the Democratic districts of the state, the Democrats would vote for McKinley and in turn the Republicans support the Democratic nominees for congress, state senate and general assembly. Mr. Singerly was of the opinion that such a deal could be effected within from thirty to forty days. He further expressed his opposition to the placing of a "sound money" Democratic ticket in the field because such a step would jeopardize McKinley and would injure the regular Democratic organization in Pennsylvania.

RESOLUTION ADOPTED.

There was a general discussion on matters appropriate to the conference and the following resolution, which was prepared by Mr. Bullitt, was unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That the platform adopted by the national convention is not sound nor patriotic and therefore not Democratic. That it differs so radically from the past doctrines of the Democratic party and particularly from the national platform of 1880 and the Pennsylvania platform of the year 1896, that we cannot accept it as honest and true. We do depart from the true Democratic doctrine and we believe that the highest duty of true Democrats is to make every effort to defeat the ticket nominated at Chicago.

That a committee of seven be appointed of whom the president of this meeting shall be chairman with the powers of a committee representative. Democrats throughout the state for the purpose of formulating some plan to preserve the integrity of the Democratic party in Pennsylvania and secure the defeat of Bryan and Sewall.

BRYAN AT ST. JOSEPH.

The Boy Orator Makes Cheerful Speeches Along the Line.

St. Joseph, Mo., July 17.—A large crowd greeted William J. Bryan upon his arrival at the Union station, Kansas City, and in response to cries "Speech!" he stepped to the rear platform of the car, and said: "We are going west in a few minutes and with your kind assistance we will go east next year."

This caused laughter, followed by a cheer as the train moved off.

At East Leavenworth and Weston crowds of people were waiting in a pouring rain to see Mr. Bryan. The train stopped only a minute at each place and Mr. Bryan bowed to the crowd from the rear of the car. At Armour Mr. Bryan shook hands with a hundred or more people and Mrs. Bryan was bowed down under the load of water lilies heaped upon her by admirers of her husband. The train arrived at St. Joseph at 12:30 p. m. The station platform was packed with people as the train drew in. They swarmed around a temporary platform that had been erected near the track on which the train stood, and shouted enthusiastically as Mr. Bryan made an address which was frequently interrupted by cheers. The train left the station at 1:35, followed by more cheering.

M. BRYAN'S ADDRESS.

In his address to his townsmen Mr. Bryan said:

Fellow-Citizens—I am proud to be able to say to those who are assembled here, these are our neighbors. (Applause.) I beg to express to Republicans, Democrat, Populist, and other political parties the gratitudo which we feel for this magnificent demonstration. I say we, because she who has shared my struggles deserves her full share of all the honors that may come to me. (Applause.) I desire to express tonight, not only our gratitude to all the organizations that have shown so much interest in our cause, politically and politically, that you have shown to us—but to give to you the assurance that if by the sufferages of our countrymen, I for a short time, occupy the most honorable place in the gift of the people, that I shall return to the people who first took me in their arms. (Applause.) This will be my motto. And when earthly honors have passed away, I shall mingle my ashes with the dust of this beloved state. (Applause.) I thank those of all parties who have been willing for a moment to forget differences that exist between us and join in celebrating this fact that at last the administration of great statesmen has passed away. I shall mingle my ashes with the dust of this beloved state. (Applause.)

The attitude of Democracy of the state of New York in the coming campaign will be left to the convention to decide. Senator Hill has decided to remain silent until the convention meets.

FUSION PROBABLE.

Populists Are Willing to Unite with Democrats Under Conditions.

St. Louis, July 17.—"If the Democrats will give us our share of the electors there will be no difficulty in the way of united action for silver," said Sergeant-at-Arms McDowell, of the Populist convention, when discussing the situation in a group of party friends today.

The attitude of Democracy of the state of New York in the coming campaign will be left to the convention to decide. Senator Hill has decided to remain silent until the convention meets.

THE NEWS THIS MORNING.

Weather Indications Today:

Fair: Possibly Showers.

Populists who are arriving that some sort of unity of action is necessary and most of them turn to electoral fusion as the best method of maintaining party organization and at the same time striking a good blow for silver party.

NEW MINE FOREMEN.

Certificates Granted by the Examining Board at Hazleton.

Hazleton, Pa., July 17.—The examining board, which grants certificates to mine foremen, passed the following successfully:

B. J. Carr, Eckley; John Evans, Hazlebrook; Anthony Reilly, Hazleton; Joseph S. Shaw, Upper Lehighton; William Edwards, Audenreld; Charles N. Harvey, Eckley; John M. Williams, McDowell; Daniel Craig, Eckley; Henry M. Sheers, Hazleton; Joseph Birbeck, Silver Brook; Thomas H. Rawlings, Audenreld; John Gillespie, Driftwood; Joseph S. Robertson, Minniesville; Patrick Kelley, Beaver Meadow; Arthur Watkins, Lansford; James Shovlin, Driftwood; C. L. Hoover, Sandy Run.

LINCOLN DELIRIOUS.

Candidate Bryan Is Greeted with Tin Horns and Calliope--People Shoot Themselves Hoarse.

Lincoln, Neb., July 17.—Tonight Lincoln is delirious. The delirium began when the train bearing the nominee was sighted by the thousands gathered in and about the railway station. How many thousands were there it would be difficult to estimate. Men, women and children with tin horns, which they blew lustily, steam calliope whistled, canons, firecrackers and everything else that could be conveniently handled helped turn the vicinity of the steel like a wave of the sea and again began to hoist and throw stones.

SECOND CHARGE MADE.

When the workmen had been taken away and the troops were returning to their quarters at the works, another ventge rally was made upon Company F. Again a charge was made and cold steel was driven home so that many of the rioters had to be helped away. At this time some one sent in a general alarm to the police station and every patrol wagon was soon dashing through the streets causing the wildest rumors among thousands on their way home from work.

There was no need of the police reinforcements and the crowd, which had been swelled to 15,000 began to melt away. It looked as if the trouble was ended, but at seven o'clock an assault was made on a soldier who was passing along Wilson avenue. He fought desperately as did also a policeman who hurried to his aid. A squad of troops came to their rescue but not before the two had been beaten into insensibility. Again the patrol wagons rushed to the scene and had all they could do to force a passage through the angry mob.

Everything is now in readiness to repeat an outbreak which is expected during the night.

There were many women in the mob and they were apparently the most bitter and as they refused to move some of them are injured by bayonet thrusts. The situation at midnight is very ominous and the streets about the vicinity of the works are being patrolled by soldiers and police.

VENEZUELAN CASE.

Thirteen Letters Made Public by the State Department--The First Official Disclosures.

Washington, July 17.—The efforts of the United States and Great Britain to agree upon a general arbitration for the settlement of all the controversies through the establishment of a permanent tribunal, as well as the progress of diplomatic negotiations towards solving the Venezuelan problem are set forth in thirteen communiqués made public by the state department tonight. While they constitute the first authoritative disclosures upon the subject, they do not exhaust the entire story.

Little substantial progress towards a general arbitration treaty is disclosed by the documents. An outline in part of the proposed procedure is laid down and the views of the two governments are so explicitly set out that future discussions may be confined towards narrowing the few divergencies of method.

The further fact is made apparent that the United States has not relaxed its vigilance in demanding a just settlement of the Venezuelan boundary question and has rejected the British proposals for arbitrating that dispute under terms involving the surrender of part of Venezuela's claims.

Little substantial progress towards a general arbitration treaty is disclosed by the documents. An outline in part of the proposed procedure is laid down and the views of the two governments are so explicitly set out that future discussions may be confined towards narrowing the few divergencies of method.

The further fact is made apparent that the United States has not relaxed its vigilance in demanding a just settlement of the Venezuelan boundary question and has rejected the British proposals for arbitrating that dispute under terms involving the surrender of part of Venezuela's claims.

Little substantial progress towards a general arbitration treaty is disclosed by the documents. An outline in part of the proposed procedure is laid down and the views of the two governments are so explicitly set out that future discussions may be confined towards narrowing the few divergencies of method.

The further fact is made apparent that the United States has not relaxed its vigilance in demanding a just settlement of the Venezuelan boundary question and has rejected the British proposals for arbitrating that dispute under terms involving the surrender of part of Venezuela's claims.

Little substantial progress towards a general arbitration treaty is disclosed by the documents. An outline in part of the proposed procedure is laid down and the views of the two governments are so explicitly set out that future discussions may be confined towards narrowing the few divergencies of method.

The further fact is made apparent that the United States has not relaxed its vigilance in demanding a just settlement of the Venezuelan boundary question and has rejected the British proposals for arbitrating that dispute under terms involving the surrender of part of Venezuela's claims.

Little substantial progress towards a general arbitration treaty is disclosed by the documents. An outline in part of the proposed procedure is laid down and the views of the two governments are so explicitly set out that future discussions may be confined towards narrowing the few divergencies of method.

The further fact is made apparent that the United States has not relaxed its vigilance in demanding a just settlement of the Venezuelan boundary question and has rejected the British proposals for arbitrating that dispute under terms involving the surrender of part of Venezuela's claims.

Little substantial progress towards a general arbitration treaty is disclosed by the documents. An outline in part of the proposed procedure is laid down and the views of the two governments are so explicitly set out that future discussions may be confined towards narrowing the few divergencies of method.

The further fact is made apparent that the United States has not relaxed its vigilance in demanding a just settlement of the Venezuelan boundary question and has rejected the British proposals for arbitrating that dispute under terms involving the surrender of part of Venezuela's claims.

Little substantial progress towards a general arbitration treaty is disclosed by the documents. An outline in part of the proposed procedure is laid down and the views of the two governments are so explicitly set out that future discussions may be confined towards narrowing the few divergencies of method.

The further fact is made apparent that the United States has not relaxed its vigilance in demanding a just settlement of the Venezuelan boundary question and has rejected the British proposals for arbitrating that dispute under terms involving the surrender of part of Venezuela's claims.

Little substantial progress towards a general arbitration treaty is disclosed by the documents. An outline in part of the proposed procedure is laid down and the views of the two governments are so explicitly set out that future discussions may be confined towards narrowing the few divergencies of method.

The further fact is made apparent that the United States has not relaxed its vigilance in demanding a just settlement of the Venezuelan boundary question and has rejected the British proposals for arbitrating that dispute under terms involving the surrender of part of Venezuela's claims.

Little substantial progress towards a general arbitration treaty is disclosed by the documents. An outline in part of the proposed procedure is laid down and the views of the two governments are so explicitly set out that future discussions may be confined towards narrowing the few divergencies of method.

The further fact is made apparent that the United States has not relaxed its vigilance in demanding a just settlement of the Venezuelan boundary question and has rejected the British proposals for arbitrating that dispute under terms involving the surrender of part of Venezuela's claims.

Little substantial progress towards a general arbitration treaty is disclosed by the documents. An outline in part of the proposed procedure is laid down and the views of the two governments are so explicitly set out that future discussions may be confined towards narrowing the few divergencies of method.

The further fact is made apparent that the United States has not relaxed its vigilance in demanding a just settlement of the Venezuelan boundary question and has rejected the British proposals for arbitrating that dispute under terms involving the surrender of part of Venezuela's claims.

Little substantial progress towards a general arbitration treaty is disclosed by the documents. An outline in part of the proposed procedure is laid down and the views of the two governments are so explicitly set out that future discussions may be confined towards narrowing the few divergencies of method.

The further fact is made apparent that the United States has not relaxed its vigilance in demanding a just settlement of the Venezuelan boundary question and has rejected the British proposals for arbitrating that dispute under terms involving the surrender of part of Venezuela's claims.

Little substantial progress towards a general arbitration treaty is disclosed by the documents. An outline in part of the proposed procedure is laid down and the views of the two governments are so explicitly set out that future discussions may be confined towards narrowing the few divergencies of method.

The further fact is made apparent that the United States has not relaxed its vigilance in demanding a just settlement of the Venezuelan boundary question and has rejected the British proposals for arbitrating that dispute under terms involving the surrender of part of Venezuela's claims.

Little substantial progress towards a general arbitration treaty is disclosed by the documents. An outline in part of the proposed procedure is laid down and the views of the two governments are so explicitly set out that future discussions may be confined towards narrowing the few divergencies of method.

The further fact is made apparent that the United States has not relaxed its vigilance in demanding a just settlement of the Venezuelan boundary question and has rejected the British proposals for arbitrating that dispute under terms involving the surrender of part of Venezuela's claims.

Little substantial progress towards a general arbitration treaty is disclosed by the documents. An outline in part of the proposed procedure is laid down and the views of the two governments are so explicitly set out that future discussions may be confined towards narrowing the few divergencies of method.

The further fact is made apparent that the United States has not relaxed its vigilance in demanding a just settlement of the Venezuelan boundary question and has rejected the British proposals for arbitrating that dispute under terms involving the surrender of part of Venezuela's claims.

Little substantial progress towards a general arbitration treaty is disclosed by the documents. An outline in part of the proposed procedure is laid down and the views of the two governments are so explicitly set out that future discussions may be confined towards narrowing the few divergencies of method.

The further fact is made apparent that the United States has not relaxed its vigilance in demanding a just settlement of the Venezuelan boundary question and has rejected the British proposals for arbitrating that dispute under terms involving the surrender of part of Venezuela's claims.

Little substantial progress towards a general arbitration treaty is disclosed by the documents. An outline in part of the proposed procedure is laid down and the views of the two governments are so explicitly