THE STORM'S PATH IN PENNSYLVANIA

Loss of Life and Property from the Cyclone at Pittsburg.

LIST OF THE KILLED AND INJURED

Terrible Experience of a Camping Party--Houses Were Unroofed and Wrecked--Railroad Traffic Halted--A Brave Girl Saves a Train Load of Passengers from Disaster.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 28.—While there have been storms and floods in this vicinity in past years that have caused greater fatalities, it is doubtful if the cyclone which struck Western Pennsylvania last evening was not the greatest in its history in its widespread destruction of property. Two lives were lost, one man fatally hurt, and a number of people seriously injured. The dead are: John Fleggs, of 11 Pine street; Albert, of 11 Pine street; George Miller, 225 Main street, back broken, will die. The more seriously injured are: Jacob Metz, East street; Frank Ott, 12 Pine street; Harry Haddell, Chestnut street; Charles Coston, 23 Perry street; Thomas Colwell, East Ohio; Samuel Smith, Center street; John Fleggs and George Miller, with several companions, were in camp on the banks of the Allegheny river near Ashtown. Their tents were sheltered under a large sycamore tree. Either the lightning or the wind tore a huge limb from the tree and it dropped directly upon the tent in which the club had sought shelter. Fleggs' skull was crushed. Miller was flung to the earth and his back broken. Five other members of the party were held to the ground under the heavy limb, all severely injured. The more fortunate companions came to their feet and summoned medical assistance. John Arthurler met his death while striving to reach a place of shelter from the hurricane on Second avenue, near Greenfield avenue. Just as he reached with his team a heavy sign was torn from its fastenings and crushed him down into his wagon. Death was instantaneous, his skull having been crushed and his neck broken.

PALE IN TEMPERATURE

During the brief period of the first rainfall the temperature dropped 21 degrees. For three minutes the wind reached a velocity of thirty miles an hour, driving the rain in sheets. It was this gust of wind that wrecked so much property. The estimate of the total damage run anywhere from $100,000 to $1,000,000 in Allegheny county.

At McDonald, Pa., last night the rain fall was unprecedented. Small runs were quickly turned to raging rivers, which swept all before them. The streets of Meadville were swept clean of boardwalks, which lodged against a bridge spanning an ordinarily small creek just below town. This backed up the water until the lower portion of McDonald was for a time inundated. No lives were lost, but the damage to property was heavy. Several coal mines in the vicinity of McDonald were flooded. Near Coalt, three miles southeast, six bodies have been recovered from the shanties in Coalt valley. Oil wells and shanties, occupied by oil workers and producers, are thickly strewn along the Allegheny valley. The houses were swept away, carrying with it his wife, aged 50 years; his son James, aged 8, and daughter Margaret, aged 30 years. Miss Jane Holmes, aged 18, daughter of a miner; Cleo Beam, J. C. Haden and Charles Williamson, oil producers, were also drowned. All of the bodies have been recovered save that of Miss McKinley. A house occupied by sixteen miners near the Bentley mines, six miles from McDonald, was swept away and all of the inmates were drowned. Five of the bodies have been recovered. One man was rescued alive from the branches of a tree in which he had lodged. He had not yet regained consciousness when last heard from. All of the men were foreigners, mostly Italians, employed in the mines of the W. P. Bond Co., and the Ridgeway Bishop Coal company. The damage to mine and oil property was widespread.

IN THE MILL DISTRICTS.

In the mill districts along the Allegheny river 25 large smoke stacks were toppled over by the force of the wind, and in a number of instances wrecking the buildings in which they fell. Scarcely had the thoroughfares been made passable and delayed cars began to go, when the night deluge came on. This, in point of downpour, was even worse than the evening flood. The high wind was absent, however, but the heavens were almost continuously lit with terrifying flashes of lightning and the roll of thunder was continuous. The storm continued with slowly diminishing energy until midnight. At noon today the body of an unknown man, evidently a victim of last night's storm, was found in the Ohio river just below the city.

REPORTS FROM THE DISTRICTS SURROUNDING THE CITIES DETAIL THE DESTRUCTION OF BUILDINGS, DEATH OF FARM STOCK AND MUCH DAMAGE TO CROPS AND FRUIT.

At Cokeville, on the Baltimore and Ohio, Wheeling division, a small bridge was swept away, and a slide covered the tracks at Finleyville. This division will be open for through traffic soon. The rivers took an upward turn early

SPAIN HOUNDS THE FILIBUSTERERS

Big Rewards Are Offered or Aid in Capturing Them.

$33,000 OFFERED FOR ONE VESSEL

General Linares' Force Meets with Serious Losses in Battle--Went in Pursuit of Calixto Garcia--Movement of Cuba's Forces Indicates a New Plan to Cross the Trocha.

Havana, July 28.—The Official Gazette today published a decree offering a reward of $33,000 to anyone enabling the Spanish cruisers to effect the seizure of filibustering steamers and offering a further reward of $5,000 to any person enabling the Spanish cruisers to capture filibustering sailing vessels of over 200 tons. It is added that the captains of filibustering vessels seized will be considered as enjoying immunity.

General Linares, in command of the Spanish troops in the Guanajay district of the Province of Pinar del Rio, is moving his forces along the north coast and toward Mariel, the northern extremity of the military line across that province. Antonio Maceo is said to be moving his forces along the north coast and toward Mariel, which leads people to believe that he contemplates attempting to cross the military line near Mariel, and that General Linares is taking steps to prevent him from so doing.

A numerous band of insurgents under Zayas, all well armed, is reported to be moving in the vicinity of the plantation of Eduardo in the Guine de Meleana district of the Province of Matanzas, and to intend making a feint attack upon the southern portion of the military line and from the eastward in order to enable Maceo to deliver his attack from the westward by abstracting the attention of the Spanish troops. Firing has been heard at several points along the military line, and it is believed to have been caused by further efforts of the insurgents to draw upon them the attention of as many Spanish troops as possible, while Maceo's forces continue their movements toward Mariel.

An important engagement has been fought between General Linares and the insurgent forces under Calixto Garcia in which the Spanish losses were admittedly heavy. General Linares set out from Ramon de los Yaguas on July 23, having learned that the forces under Calixto Garcia, Cebreco and Periquito Perez, 2,000 strong, were encamped between Perseverancia and Santiaago coming up with the insurgents about 4 o'clock in the afternoon. He opened fire, and the engagement soon became general. General Linares took their camp and they fell back to Santiaago, fighting as they went. There the insurgents entrenched themselves. Early on the 24th the insurgents undertook an offensive movement by attempting to turn the right wing of the Spanish column. They attacked with vigor, and hard fighting ensued. They made an obstinate stand and refused to give back before the Spanish. The attack was finally repulsed by a bayonet charge by the Spaniards, led by Colonel Bagan, with the result that while Lieutenant of Cavalry Mazo and thirty-five soldiers were wounded, eighteen of them seriously. The insurgents are reported to have left seven killed and wounded. In the encampment of the insurgents was found a letter from Calixto Garcia in which he announced the death of Jose Maceo. This was in the form of an official document.

BRYAN IS STILL SILENT.

The Windy Candidate Now Contents Himself with Shaking Hands.

Lincoln, Neb., July 28.—Senator Pottawmott, coming up with the insurgents, was the only prominent caller at the Bryan residence today. He spent some hours with the nominee talking over the political situation. Mr. Bryan is still silent as to his intention with regard to the Populist nomination. The candidate here suffers as to what he will do, but the general understanding is that no decision will be reached until after Senator Jones, of Arkansas, chairman of the Democratic national committee, has consulted with the Populist leaders as to the best course to pursue in the event of Mr. Bryan's expression to the national Democratic committee his desire to be guided by their advice, and while he has his own opinions, he appears willing to allow his political advisers to arrange matters.

Mr. Bryan spent a short time at Democratic headquarters this afternoon, but did nothing beyond shaking hands with a number of persons there.

BLAIR-CAMBRIA CONFERENCE.

Candidacy of John Wanamaker Receives Favorable Consideration.

Altoona, Pa., July 28.—The Republican state senatorial conference for the Blair-Cambria district convened this afternoon. The candidates were Dr. E. J. Appleby, of Blair and J. Steinman, of Cambria. Six ballots were taken. All of them resulted:

Appleby 3, Steinman 2, and the conference adjourned until nine o'clock tonight. Dr. Appleby favors the candidacy of John Wanamaker for the United States senate, while Mr. Steinman said he was not opposed to Mr. Wanamaker for United States senator, but he was not for anybody for that office and would not commit himself to say until he learned the sentiment of his constituents. He emphatically denied that he was for Pentecost.

GOVERNOR HASTINGS FOR U. S. SENATOR

Report Put in Circulation That He is to Be a Candidate.

HE MAY HAVE QUAY'S SUPPORT

According to a Philadelphia Paper, William Connell Was Instrumental in Bringing the Two Leaders Together and Establishing Peace Between Them.

Philadelphia, July 28.—The Evening Bulletin says: It may be interesting to the various candidates to succeed Don Cameron as United States senator to learn that if arrangements entered into some months ago are honorably observed Governor Hastings stands a good chance of being the winner. The story current today in political circles is that Colonel Quay pledged the governor's support, as a part of a bargain consummated last fall, the terms of which are still binding.

Some time after the bitter fight between the two candidates for the chairmanship last summer a peace was established between Senator Quay on the one part and Governor Hastings and his friends throughout the state, with the exception of those in Philadelphia and Allegheny, on the other. There were various conditions involved in this understanding, the one having the principal bearing on this subject being that Senator Quay would lend his support to the governor for United States senator.

THE DEAL.

Of course the junior senator did not pledge this assistance without getting something in return. The intermediary in the negotiations is said to have been William Connell, of Lackawanna, and the agreement entered into by the contracting parties was that among other things Senator Quay would have conferred with the governor for the national convention so far as that could be contributed to by Mr. Connell, the governor himself, Secretary of State Reed, Leader Leisenring in Luzerne, Colonel Gilkeson, in Bucks, and others of the governor's friends.

In accordance with this arrangement, Senator Quay did get these delegates, with one exception. Colonel Gilkeson was unable to carry out the part of the bargain entrusted to him, and, as it is well known, Mr. Eastburn, of Bucks county, the delegate in question, was not found among the senators following at the St. Louis convention.

THE BARGAIN IN FORCE.

Friends of Governor Hastings maintain that this understanding is still in force. At one stage it would have been abrogated, in the event of the governor succeeding by Senator Quay's influence in obtaining the nomination at St. Louis for vice president. But the strength of the McKinley forces against this plan as it did various other candidates by Senator Quay and the other anti-McKinley leaders.

It is well known that all attempts to draw from Senator Quay an expression of preference in regard to Senator Cameron's successor have been futile. While certain candidates are impressed that Senator Quay looks favorably upon their aspirations, it is certain that he has not in so many words given any of them either verbal or written assurances of support, although it is quite possible that he may have left the whole thing, so far as they are concerned, an open question. If he is actually pledged to the governor, as the governor's friends say he is, that at once explains his non-committal attitude towards the other candidates.

THE HARRISBURG VIEW.

Harrisburg, July 28.—There was a revival here today of the story that Governor Hastings would probably be a candidate for United States Senator to succeed Don Cameron, and that he would have Senator Quay's support. None of the friends of either Quay or Hastings who are here would admit that they had any knowledge of the matter.

Another General Mylin, who accompanied Senator Quay to Florida last spring, says that the senator never mentioned the matter to him, and that he is entirely in the dark as to the senator's wishes concerning who shall succeed Don Cameron. "It is true," he said, "that I have heard on Capital Hill the name of Hastings mentioned for United States senator but never an intimation has come from Quay as to who he would like to see get the prize."

State Treasurer Haywood, another close friend of Quay, and the man whose interview in Washington was the means of bringing Quay out for the Presidential nomination, says that the senator has never intimated to him his choice for the United States senatorship, and he has an idea that if Quay had a preference he should at least communicate it to his friends, that they might get to work. "These far," said Mr. Haywood, "I have done no work for anybody and have not taken a hand in any of the legislative contests."

State Chairman Eikh, who has been with Senator Quay within the past week, is inclined to believe that the senator has not yet designated who he will support for the United States senatorship. He says that Quay has not given him the least hint as to whom he will support.

Governor Hastings is out of town and all his close political friends are away. Private Secretary Heiler, when asked about the matter, declined to say anything. Senator Quay is expected here to see the governor on Thursday, and it is possible that this contemplated visit is responsible for a revival of the rumor of his candidacy for senator.

Another Objector Holman.

Rockland, Me., July 28.—C. J. Holman, delegate to the Democratic national convention, has issued a circular calling upon all Democrats of Maine, who repudiate the action of the Chicago convention, to confer with him at once regarding the calling of a state convention to act in harmony with the bolting sound money Democrats of other states, particularly of Illinois.

Herald's Weather Forecast.

New York, July 29.—In the Middle States today, clear, less sultry weather, light and fresh southwesterly winds and slightly lower temperature will prevail. On Thursday fair and slightly warmer weather will prevail, with light variable winds, mostly southerly.

ANARCHISTS REJECTED.

Turned Down by the International Socialist Trades Congress at London--Lively Debates.

London, July 28.—The International Socialist trades congress met in St. Martin's town hall today and the question of the admission of the Anarchists as delegates which yesterday precipitated a free fight and caused the chairman to declare the congress adjourned, was again taken up for final action. The chair today was occupied by Herr Singer, the well known Socialist member of the German Reichstag, who speaks English, and after the usual preliminaries the congress took up the question of the admission of the Anarchists, against which a large majority vote was cast yesterday. Speeches for and against their recognition as delegates were made by Jean Jaures, a radical Socialist member of the French chamber of deputies; Tom Mann, who was formerly a member of the house of commons and several other properly accredited delegates. The speakers were very much excited, and declared with equal spirit that the admission of Anarchists would have the effect of leading the general public to believe that the Socialists favored the Anarchist propaganda, which the speakers contended was not the case. Eventually another vote was taken and it was finally decided that the admission of Anarchists should not be admitted. The congress then proceeded to the discussion of other questions.

ANARCHISTS REJECTED.

The anarchist would-be delegates were outside the hall waiting for a decision, and when it was announced to them they became highly indignant. It was finally decided to force an entrance into the hall, and the decision was no sooner arrived at than it was carried out. A rush was made for the doors, and the crowd of anarchists made their way to the gallery. There arose a perfect babel of tongues, Russian, Polish, French, German, Italian, Spanish and English, that the intruders should be put out.

Finally, when the voice of a speaker could be heard above the din, Tom Mann and James Kier Hardie addressed the speaker in a friendly manner, and one of the anarchists. Other speakers opposed the proposition, and the argument waxed until it appeared that there was a decidedly favorable chance of yesterday's disgraceful scene being repeated.

Herr Singer finally succeeded in obtaining a little order and it was then agreed that properly accredited anarchists should be admitted, but should be allowed to take no part in the debates. Later another vote was taken and it was decided to uphold the Zurich resolution, which, in effect, declares that anarchists shall not be admitted. There the question remains at present.

Killed by Lightning.

Philadelphia, July 28.—A violent storm of rain, accompanied by much thunder and lightning, visited Hottelville yesterday. The lightning struck and instantly killed Frank Frankhaush and severely injured seven children who were attending school in the Swedish church, the lightning entering one of the windows.

Treasury Gold Reserve.

Washington, July 28.—The treasury gold reserve at the close of business today was $101,822,225. The day's withdrawals were $25,230. Additional offers of gold aggregating $1,000,000 were made and accepted today.
