A CRUEL HUSBAND.

Frank B. Kellam Accused of Abusing His Wife Shamefully.

There came with tears in her eyes to Alderman Miller's office yesterday afternoon a woman apparently broken-hearted, who swore out a warrant for her husband, Frank B. Kellam, of the West Side, on three charges, assault and battery, threatening to kill and cruelty. The faithless husband was held in $900 bail for his appearance at court. The warrant was served by Special Officer Byars.

Mrs. Kellam swore that her health is affected by these charges, assault and battery, and that she has been home last Sunday and kicked her. They are a young couple and have two bright children. Kellam was formerly a butcher, but is now employed as a carpenter by Capwell Bros.

WORK STOPPED AT THE TWIN SHAFT

Mine Inspector McDonald Considered Slope Too Dangerous.

TRYING TO GET GAS OUT OF THE MINE

Three Fire Bosses Engaged in That Task Last Night--Probability That Rescue Work Will Never Be Resumed--Condition of Affairs at Present in the Shaft Where the Men Were Working.

By order of Mine Inspector McDonald the work of searching for the men entombed in the Twin shaft was abandoned yesterday, for the present, at least.

Until Tuesday the rescue shifts were forcing a passageway six feet high and about five feet wide through the mass of coal and rock that filled No. 3 slope, and they had little difficulty in preventing the rock above the six foot point from coming down until they got the timbers in place.

Tuesday they encountered looser rock and coal, and it was found impossible to keep it from tumbling down. It all had to be cleared out, leaving the height of the slope from twelve to fifteen feet. The solid timbering of the same height as the rest of the slope was put in, but this left an open space from six to nine feet between the top of the timbers and the roof. In a large quantity of gas from the old workings gathered yesterday. The danger from a fall of roof was also increased, as there was nothing to directly support the roof, and in case of a squeeze it would come down, smash the timbering that constitutes the roof of the slope, and probably cause the loss of other lives.

SIZE OF SHIFTS REDUCED.

Seven men have been employed on each of the eight hour shifts, but yesterday morning it was considered expedient to reduce each shift to four men. The presence of the gas and the inability of more than four men to work to advantage in the slope at one time led to the reduction of the number of men on each shift. There was also a rearrangement of the schedule of wages.

During the morning Mine Inspector McDonald was apprised of the condition of affairs in the shaft and at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon went down into it to make a personal examination of the workings. He decided that the danger attending the work of rescue was too great and ordered the men out of the mines until such time as the gas can be cleared out and some means devised of making the roof above the timbering in the slope at least reasonably safe. When that will be no one can tell at this time.

Last night the only persons in the mine were three fire bosses, who were engaged in devising some means of using all the air to drive the gas out through the shaft. Gates were being erected and other means employed to attain this end.

PROBABLY THE END.

The owners of the mine have shown a strong desire to continue the work of endeavoring to find the bodies of the men but in view of the new development of hunting for the bodies will not begin until the bottom of the slope is reached. A simple calculation shows that according to the rate of progress in the past, it would take months to reach the bottom.

It is now thirty-two days since the cave-in occurred, and during that time less than half the distance down No. 3 slope has been dug out. The real work of hunting for the bodies will not begin until the bottom of the slope is reached. A simple calculation shows that according to the rate of progress in the past, it would take months to reach the bottom.

The following appeal has been prepared by the Twin shaft relief committee to be presented to the several captains of the state militia, asking for aid:

This association has undertaken to provide for those unfortunate widows and orphans, (referring to the disaster), and ask your aid by presenting this cause to your company when the members receive their pay for camp duty. It has been suggested that if $1 per man was contributed it would reach a handsome sum and be a monument to the charity of the National Guard of the state of Pennsylvania.

The citizens of Hazleton have organized for the purpose of collecting funds. An executive committee has been appointed, and a systematic effort to raise funds will be made.

This morning a requiem mass will be celebrated in Holy Rosary church, Providence, for the men entombed in the mine. Friday morning a similar mass will be celebrated in St. John's church, Pittston.

An entertainment will be given at Durys on Aug. 25 by the Durys Hose company for the benefit of the Pittston sufferers.

THERE'S FUN IN STORE.

Saturday Night's Session of Select Council Promises to Be Li ety.

There seems likely to be more liveliness at Saturday night's adjourned meeting of select council. In addition to a volume of concurrent business and ordinances on third reading, the meeting will consider matters which recently have kept the municipal atmosphere pretty well stirred.

non-partisan. While the board has a majority of Democrats it is a unit on non-partisanship.

A petition is to be named by the mayor to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Joseph Taylor. If the scurrilous over recent police appointments is any criterion, the same kind of a muss may be expected in the present instance. The appointee's identity is a matter of speculation.

It seems as though the appointment of several sewer inspectors would be needed to fill the lively programme. Anyhow, the nominations of several will be made by the mayor and some of these may round out what promises to be a turbulent meeting.

The whole bill of fare is one well calculated to bring to the surface a renewal of the heated debates, bittings and the like, which have attended recent councilmanic sittings.

MARRIED THIRTY-THREE YEARS.

Mrs. Catherine Clapp Now Wants a Divorce on Ground of Cruelty.

Mrs. Catherine Clapp, of Jackson street and Hyde Park avenue, represented by Attorneys Taylor & Lewis, filed a petition in court yesterday afternoon for a divorce from her husband, Joseph W. Clapp.

They were married on April 9, 1863, and lived together until May 10 of the present year. It is alleged on the part of the libellant that her husband's cruelty was so fierce that she was forced to withdraw from home and care no longer live with him. Clapp is in the green grocery business.

THREE PERSONS INJURED.

Serious Runaway Accident on the West Side--Father and Two Sons Thrown Out of a Wagon.

E. E. Rozelle, aged 55 years, and his sons, Bert Rozelle, aged 27, and Willie Rozelle, aged 7, were badly injured last evening at 6 o'clock by the runaway of a horse which they were driving down South Main avenue, West Side.

The elder Rozelle and the boy are now at the Lackawanna hospital. They are recovered, though their injuries are serious. The boy had a bad cut on the forehead, where his weight fell when the horse struck the pavement, and the father is suffering from body bruises and an injury to the hip, while both may be hurt internally.

The elder Rozelle came here Monday from his home at Brooklyn, Susquehanna county, with a wagon load of marketable chickens. He and the two sons started out yesterday, and had nearly all of them. They were coming down the avenue on the return to Fairchild's hotel, and when passing Williams' confectionery store one side of the wagon shaft broke off. The swerve of the big team, while the weight fell, was on the one side, threw Bert Rozelle, who had the reins, to the pavement.

The hind wheel ran over his right leg and he lay there stunned, while the horse started ahead at a mad pace, the elder Rozelle and the little boy hanging from the seat. He was passing the residence of George Benore, on South Main avenue, the wagon tipped and tumbled over, landing the two occupants with force upon the pave. Father and son were carried from the street and were placed upon the lawn of the Benore home, where they were being treated by the Lackawanna hospital ambulance company to that institution. The horse fell when the wagon tipped and the runaway was at an end.

Bert Rozelle was somewhat bruised and injured but was able to walk about.

MOTHERS WORRY

Heat Plays Havoc with Babies' Appetite.

A Starved Condition Invites Cholera Infantum.

Strength Must Not Fail from Lack of Food.

Lactated Food Has Saved Thousands of Lives.

A Diet That is Retained by Most Sensitive Stomachs.

Summer lays a fearful responsibility upon the mind of every thoughtful parent.

Every intelligent mother must feel how completely the lives of her little ones are in her own hands for weal or woe. Ignorance of the perils that threaten the young children in summer cannot fail to bring disaster.

They are happily fewer and fewer parents every year who remain ignorant of the fact that cholera infantum carries off more than a fifth of all the babies born during the summer. Thousands of little ones have gone bravely through the summer thus far without a day's sickness because they have been kept well nourished and free from any possibility of contagion by a rich diet of lactated food. From the many large charitable institutions where babies are reared on an exclusive diet of lactated food not a single death from cholera infantum or from diarrhea has been thus far reported. This is a remarkable record. Lactated food saves myriads of precious lives, not only during the hot months, but all the year round.

A strange ignorance exists among certain parents that diarrhea is natural during teething, and that the weight of the use of it ever since. Mrs. Horace Kellogg, of Vanceboro, Me., writes her experience with a teething infant.

"Shortly after my baby was born, I commenced feeding her on cows milk, but it did not seem to agree with her, so seeing your offer to send a can of lactated food for trial, I sent for a can and gave it to her. The result was so satisfactory that I have continued the use of it ever since. She is now ten months old, has four teeth, and has not had a sick day since using the food.
