A SERIOUS CAVE-IN.

Another Fall of Earth Takes Place Near Higgins' Store.

Another fall of earth occurred on the road between Higgins' store and the residence of Samuel Lee, on the South Side, last Monday night. This depression is a continuation of an extensive cave-in, which led to the closing of the road by the mine department some time ago. The fall is on a twenty-foot deep, and is a part of the "Burton Heading," in the Powderly mine.

The Early Closing Movement.

A committee of clerks have found the business men of the city willing to heed their reasonable request to have the hour of closing their stores eight o'clock each evening except during busy week. It is thought that this effort will be more successful than many former attempts to secure this desirable result. Commencing next week the stores will close at eight o'clock.

FOREST CITY.

A petition is being circulated for an improvement in the mail service in this place. The present service gives us but one mail from the north at 3.47 p. m., and but one departure of mail for the north, and that at an early hour in the day at 6.37 a. m. The request is, that an additional mail service be placed on Train No. 20 (the Erie Flyer) due here from the north at 8.36 a. m., thereby bringing all western mail, also an additional mail on Train No. 23 (Flyer), due here at 6.29 p. m., thus giving an opportunity to forward mail north at this time. The petition has been signed by all of Forest City's prominent business men, and probably through the efforts of Postmaster Cunningham a change will be effected.

FREE COINAGE CATECHISM.

Questions and Answers Which Appeal to the Understanding. From the New York Evening Post.

Q. Where are the latest official figures of the world's gold production for 1896, published last week, since this Catechism was begun.

Q. What does this estimate show the world's total gold production to be? A. $220,000,000, or $17,000,000 more than in 1895.

Q. Compare this total with previous years. A. The world's average annual production of gold, between 1870 and 1890, was $115,000,000; of silver $1,857,500; total $206,357,500, or less by $12,900,000 than this year's estimated production.

Q. How can you prove that fact? A. By the annual coinage statements of the leading gold-producing and gold-importing nations, all of which show a steady increase. By the amount of gold in the world's great depositories, which has increased with equal rapidity. These are perfectly trustworthy signs.

Q. Is it not true that most of the new supply is "cornered" by the Rothschilds? A. There is not the slightest reason for supposing such a thing.

Q. But if the world's gold supply has been increased rapidly and is not "cornered," why has it grown harder every year for our government to maintain its own gold reserve? A. Because of the silver coinage movement in this country.

Q. How can that movement affect our gold reserve? A. First, by forcing so much silver into circulation that it is no longer to the government. Second, by the threat that the free coinage party will redeem the government notes and drive silver into circulation, which causes holders of the notes to present them now for gold.

Q. Why should such holders present their government notes for redemption now? A. For the same reason that made people, in the old state bank days, rush in for redemption of the notes of a bank which was likely to stop payment.

Q. Are there not other nations than our own whose currency requires a large gold reserve? A. There are. Germany, France and England.

Q. Do not these countries have the same trouble with their gold reserve as our Treasury does? A. No. In the best of the gold reserve in each of these countries is larger than necessary, and is constantly increasing.

Q. Why is their situation so different from ours? A. Because there has been no doubt of the money standard in Germany, France or England.

Q. But has not the United States always had a gold standard in her gold for its currency? A. It has not.

Q. When did it get gold easily? A. Between 1834, when the gold standard was adopted, and 1849, when paper money was substituted and the gold standard abandoned.

Q. Did gold flow in readily at any other time? A. It did.

Q. What followed the resumption of specie payments by the United States in 1875, which was accepted by the world as our redemption of the gold standard.

Q. What followed the resumption of specie payments? A. Within two years

$174,000,000 gold was sent to us from Europe. Q. But surely this gold did not go into the Treasury? A. More of it than the Treasury needs went into it. Q. How do you know that? A. As early as September 19, 1875, the secretary of the treasury announced that "gold coin, which the government had accumulated in the treasury," and authorized the use of gold in regular treasury expenditures.

Q. Were those two years a period of prosperity? A. For this country a period of unparalleled prosperity.

Q. How long did this prosperity last? A. Until the silver coinage movement was again threatening our maintenance of the gold standard.

Q. What happened then? A. Gold payments into the treasury almost ceased, and gold withdrawals through redemption of government notes grew larger.

Q. Suppose all the gold in the Treasury reserve were to be used up; what would happen? A. The government could not pay gold coin to the holders of its notes.

Q. What difference would that make to a holder of a government note—say of a dollar bill—who did not care to use gold? A. His dollar bill would depreciate along with all other government notes. Since it no longer could exchange for a dollar in gold, it would no longer buy what a dollar in gold would buy.

Q. Were there such depreciations show itself? A. By an artificial and general rise in prices, without a rise in wages and salaries.

Q. Has this ever actually happened? A. During our civil war, when the gold standard was abandoned, the government paper money depreciated to 50 per cent. of its gold value, the gold premium rose above 100, and there was a frightful advance in prices.

Q. Then would suspension of gold payment on government notes injure all holders of such notes? A. Still more so, later it would cheat every man with a dollar bill in his pocket.
