THE SCRANTON TRIBUNE-SATURDAY MORNING, AUGUST 1, 1896.

WEST SIDE EVENTS.

fwo Horses Owned by M. F. Wymbs Badly Roasted at the Dumping Ground on Providence Road.

Two horses owned by M. F. Wymbs, the Jackson street undertaker and liveryman, were burned in a peculiar way yesterday. One animal, a handsome black, was shot yesterday, and the other may have to be dispatched to end its sufferings. George Jones, driver for Mr. Wymbs, was carting dirt yesterday to the common dumping ground, along the Providence road at a place where the ball park was.

Everybody uses the place to get rid of garbage, old papers, etc. After the rubbish is dumped it is customary to fire the stuff. Yesterday morning a teamster dumped a load of ashes over the burning material. This acted as a cover and when Jones drove his horses up to the garbage ground the off horse stepped upon and sank through the ashes. The other horse was also pulled in and there they lay helpless while the flames from bencath ate into the flesh. The driver sprang from his seat and cut the traces but the two horses were so tightly embedded in the stuff that they could not at first be moved out. Several men lent assistance, and after a quarter hour's work the two snorting animals were pulled out. They were led home, their sides peeling from the effect of the heat.

The horses were led to the barn and a representative of Hewitt ended the sufferings of one, and the other will doubtless follow. Several hundred dollars will cover the loss. Mr. Wymbs is in New York.

LIEUT. WILLIAMS SUGGESTS.

Every night after 12 o'clock people with prescriptions are around looking for a druggist. Nearly all West Side pharmacists are averse to responding to the night bell, and the person with a prescription has to hunt up the most obliging. Lieutenant Williams, who sees all these searchers and often lends a hand, has suggested a plan whereby the difficulty will be remedied. Williams thinks that the drug stores should keep open "on turns." Davies one week. Jenkins & Musgrave another, then Decker, Morgan, Shryer, etc. This, the lleutenant thinks, would pay and do away with much bother.

STEALING LADDERS, ETC.

Petty thieves are around. Contractors and builders are the sufferers. Howley Bros., of the central city, lost a long ladder which was placed against a house on Eynon street; Williams, of Jackson street, had a new fire pot and a quantity of soldering taken from a house down near Patagonia; Contractor Hugh A. Howell last week lost a costly extension ladder, which was in the yard of a house on Hampton street. The thieves are a gang of young men. and, as names are known, arrests are not improbable.
