Death of Miss Lizzie Price at the Home of Her Parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Price.

Miss Lizzie Price died yesterday morning before daylight at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Price, of 915 Eynon street. The deceased was generally known throughout the West Side as one of the prominent members and workers in the Plymouth Congregational church. She had been sick but one week and pre-vious to that time her friends never noticed a show of the appending death. so well in health did she seem. The blow is thus more greatly felt. The departed was born in Scranton twenty-seven years ago and she had resided here since, making many friends, chiefly in the ranks of church-goers. Her church was her only diversion; she devoted most of the moments, used by some for pleasure, for the good of herself and the erring. Up to the time of her illness Miss Price was a saleslady at Mears & Hagen's store, where she was a favorite with employers and employes. Miss Jennie Price, sister of the deceased, was at Lake Winola, on a vacation trip, when the sad news reached her. The funeral arrangements had not been made last night.

Thirteen-year-old Dannle Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Davis of 156 South Filmore avenue, lost his left arm Saturday by an accident on the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western railroad. Young Davis with a number of companions were swimming in a place near the Brisbin breaker. At 10 o'clock a. m. the boys started for home and boarded a passing coal train, bound for Scranton. All succeeded in making the trip except Davis, who was thrown to the ground, his left arm resting on the rail while the cars passed over it. The boy was taken to his home where in the afternoon Dra. THE GREAT CAMPAIGN MILLION patriotic voters have recognized the confusion of our public politics, and are determined toinform themselves, and stand like patriots in the hour of their peril and vote to the best of their knowledge, for the best interests of the common people of the whole country. It means further that every voter wants to know, not only the doctrines of his own party, but the views of all other parties and the reason for the differences--Gold, Silver, Tariff and Free Trade. To this end we have secured a complete handbook of public political information, edited by Lawrence F, Prescott, WHICH WE WILL PRESENT TO THE PURCHASER OF ANY MEN'S SUIT.
