WEST SIDE EVENTS.

Meeting of the Members of the Franklin Engine Company--- It Will Not Disband Says Foreman Beavers.

The Franklin company met last night in regular and secret session. Foreman James Beavers would give out nothing concerning the trouble in the company over permanent man Sproats. The most conclusive thing, and the only statement, he made was: "The com-pany will not disband."

After the meeting there was a slight altercation between one of the members of the company and a West Side business man. This was outside of the engine house. Forces are at work to smooth over the present difficulty. At the meeting last night the company threw aside all personal feeling and united in subscribing $15 dollars from the company's treasury towards the disaster fund, F. P. Hutchinson and George W. Chase were appointed a committee to assist in bringing the next firemen's convention to Scranton.

MISS PRICE'S FUNERAL.

A fitting tribute to an effective life and a testimonial to the regret feit by mourning friends was the funeral of Miss Lizzie Price yesterday aftermoon. The assemblage at the family home was very large and there was undoubted sincerity expressed, though no words were spoken. Miss Price, in life, was beloved by her fellow-workers and Mears' & Hagen's establishment, where she was employed, was represented at the funeral by many of the clerks. Nearly every member of the Congregational church, where the deceased was a prominent figure, attended the funeral. The pastor of the church, Rev. T. Bell, efficlated, assisted by Rev. D. Jones of the Welsh Calvernistic church. Mr. Jones prayed and offered comfort to the relatives in a brief Welsh talk. Mr. Bell spoke feelingly of the life that gone. He testified to the deceased's Christian virtues, and told of her work in church circles. The Plymouth church choir, of which Miss Price was a member, sang the funeral music. The members present were: Misson Sadie Edwards, Emma Morris, Agues Joseph, Gladys Joseph, Lufu James, Vannie Williams, Annie Wilkins; Will Phillips, Richard Phillips, Gomer Reese, David Owens. Ellas Evans, charister, superintended the singing, The remains rested in a beautiful white casket, emblematic of the dead young woman's pure life. Around it were banked a wreath of flowers. Some of the floral gifts were: Gates ajar and casket bouquet, from Mears & Hagen. casket bouquets, The Ivy Lodge club of Lake Winola, Miss Jennie Lewis and others, Miss Jennie Daniels and Charles E. Daniels, Joseph Reynolds and family, Mrs. Williams and son, Elias E. Eavns and family, Miss Mary Owens and David Owens, two flora! wreaths, Miss Margaret Phillips. The flowers were carried by Walter Wilkins and Price Thomas. The clerks from Mears & Hagen's occupied carriages in the cortege, which was a very large one. The pall beaters were: John Reynolds, John J. Davies, Thomas Blynon, Charles E. Daniels. Arthur D. Eanning and John D. Hughes. Interment was made in Washburn Street cemetery. HONEST ABE WAS SCARED.

Poor Abe Bloch, ambitious and earnest, about three weeks ago began duty as night frankfurter clerk at the Jack son street hotel on wheels, and yesterday morning he was so scared by a prac tical loke that he threw up the lob and has not handled a frankfurter since Abe speaks English about as perfectly as he does any other of the seven languages he does not know. And his troubles began when the street cleaners hose bursted at 2 o'clock yesterday morning and the water flooded his hotel. Then he threw several newmown oaths, of English parentage, at the street cleaners. He was in a terribly nervous state when a few minutes afterward he went to Undertaker Price's barn to get the horse which nightly hauls the lunch wagon to its daily berth. There was an ice box near where

Abe had to visit and in this ice box the employes of the barn had placed a stuffed thing which looked like a man It had a dust brush for hair, and a pair of rubber boots with a white sheet com-pleted the deathly object. When Abe saw it he grew sick at heart and hastened quickly away. A police officer had to get the horse out of the barn. Abe wouldn't go near it and a new face beamed from the lunch wagon last

MILLION patriotic voters have recognized the confusion of our public politics, and are determined toin form themselves, and stand like patriots in the hour of their peril and vote to the best of their knowledge, for the best interests of the common people of the whole country. It means further that every voter wants to know, not only the doctrines of his own party, but the views of all other parties and the reason for the differences-Gold, Silver, Tariff and Free Trade. To this end we have secured a complete handbook of public political information, edited by Lawrence F. Prescott, WHICH WE WILL PRESENT TO
