WOMAN'S INTUITION.

There is a rather odd but nevertheless true story connected with the winning of the bicycle claimed off by St. Brenden's council, Y. M. C. Wednesday night. Miss Jessie Burnett, the lucky person said all along that she was going to win the wheel and felt so confident of success that her friends continually jested her about it. On the day of the excursion she was out of town and for a hour a couple of her friends had a telegram telling her she had won the wheel. She was much elated when she returned and learned that the drawing had been postponed, particularly so because she had invited the friends whom she was visiting to attend a party which the proposers of the drawing in celebration of her good luck. Again on August 5 to which date the drawing was postponed, she was out of town and again her friends telegraphed to her in a number of telegram that she was the winner of the wheel.

The number of telegrams had a tendency to lead her to believe the announcement but she made sure to extend no party invitations this time. Upon this date the drawing was postponed to a certainty that she was indeed the winner of the wheel. She gave a idea of her mind to her Jester friends and told them that if she even did win the wheel she didn't want them to spend her savings. As fate would have it one of the Jesters was present at the drawing on Wednesday night and being known to be a friend of the lucky girl was delegated to approach her to change the subject. He hesitated at first about continuing the mission but finally agreed and bethed the sled bidding to Miss Burnett of her home. She of course would not believe him and was somewhat annoyed when he neglected that what he told was the truth. Just as she had succeeded in convincing her friend to change the subject a member of the family who had heard of the result of the drawing from officers of the institution came in and corroborated the story. Miss Burnett's party will come off on scheduled time. The Jokers have been forgiven and will be at the party.

FARRELL AT LIBERTY AGAIN.

He is the Desperate Fellow who Shot at Detective Roche.

James B. Farrell was discharged from the eastern penitentiary yesterday, having served two terms of imprisonment to which he was sentenced on Dec. 13, 1892, for shooting Archibald.

One of the first things Farrell entered upon his release was a visit to the office of Frank Goodman, of Franklin avenue, for the purpose of stealing. He was arrested and taken before Alderman Detocine, who committed him to jail. As the prisoner was leaving the alderman's office on Lackawanna avenue along with Detective David Roche he broke away from him, drew a revolver and fired at him at close range in the hallway.

Farrell did not injure the detective, but succeeded in galling the street and was only recaptured after a desperate chase. Lieutenant Michael Spellman running him to earth in a field near the base park.

When arraigned in court Farrell was adjudged guilty of housebreaking and felonious attempt. On the first charge he was sentenced to two years imprisonment by Judge Archibald, and on the second to one year and eleven months' imprisonment, the term to begin at the expiration of the first. A few months were stricken off the term for good behavior.

His Wife Intured White Getting off of Troley Car.

On that day Mrs. Lynch was returning to her home from the central city and, while getting off the trolley car near Farther street, the car was started and Mrs. Lynch was thrown heavily to the ground, so she alleged, and sustained injuries which her husband says are permanent in their nature.

He says in his declaration, filed by Attorneys Hubbard and Yoshihara, that he expended a large amount of money in medical attention for his wife and has been greatly injured by the loss of her services. For these reasons he asks damages in the sum of $5,000.
