

OPENING OF THE OHIO CAMPAIGN

the great body of the creditors of our country are among the thrifty, industrious and intelligent men and women of every community. One great body of creditors here is the 170,000 Union soldiers, their widows and orphans, who are creditors of the United States to the amount of over $100,000,000 a year for services and sacrifices in the Union army. It would be an act of perfidy and meanness beyond conception for the great country to pay them with money of less purchasing power than gold coin merely because the overproduction of silver in the United States has reduced the market value of silver bullion contained in a silver dollar.

There is another class of creditors that the free coinage of silver will greatly injure. It is the creditors in savings institutions and kindred organizations, who, according to official statistics, number nearly 5,000,000 people, and whose assets amount to more than eighteen hundred million dollars. Will you cheat them by reducing the value and purchasing power of their dollars to fifty-three cents? Free coinage will also wipe out nearly one-half the value of life insurances which prudent people of the United States have made to secure, in case of their death, some support and protection to wife and children. It will affect injuriously the multitude of clerks and employees who depend upon monthly pay and will reduce the purchasing power of all salaries of officers and employes in the public service of the United States and of every state, county, city, or township in this great land.

But by far the greatest injury resulting from the free coinage of silver will fall upon workmen and upon the masses who are based upon money of the highest value, upon gold coin of standard value. Under free coinage of silver the value of the silver dollar will fall to fifty-three cents in gold, or, as I have already said, the hundred cents of the gold dollar will be worth 194 cents of the silver dollar. Will you estimate the injury to the workman who can and ought to demand equal silver for his daily wages to be equal to the purchasing power of his present wages? The struggle between the workman and employer will then commence, and no one knows better than the workman how difficult it is to get an advance. We have struck for a cent or two, though when the workman gets his pay in gold coin he is equivalent but what will be the condition when he is paid in silver? He will receive nearly one-half as much money for less purchasing power? Every sentiment of justice will be on the side of the workman in his struggle for more money, or all the evils which a government can inflict, none can be greater than cheap money, whether of gold or silver.

The free coinage of silver is an invitation not only to American miners, but to all miners or holders of silver in the world, to deposit their silver in the United States. It is a silver dollar for every 42 1/2 grains of standard silver deposited. But that silver is worth in the market only 32 cents. The free coinage of silver is an invitation to the owners of silver mines at nearly double its market value when we have such a vast hoard of it as we do now. The only object and effect of this measure will be to degrade the dollar, to lessen its purchasing power, to nearly one-half, to enable debtors to pay their debts at 53 cents for a dollar, and to cheat the public creditors who hold our bonds. If this policy should be carried out, the nations of the earth as a bankrupt, closing its business at 53 cents on the dollar.

There is nothing more of meanness in this free coinage of silver. The United States has always paid its bonds in gold coin or its equivalent. In the darkest hours of our civil war, when the value of our bonds fell to a few cents, in gold, or its equivalent. All of the war debt has been paid in this way. A portion of it was paid by the issue of bonds at a lower rate of interest, but we exacted from the purchasers of these bonds gold coin or its equivalent even while our bonds were below par. It is one of the objects of those who advocate the free coinage of silver to force the government to pay these bonds in silver and reduce the value of the same to express this opinion of a measure favored by many good people, but I cannot regard it in any other light but as both a fraud and a robbery on the part of those who are committed by a great, rich and free people. A citizen who should commit such an offense would be punished by the courts or denounced as a traitor to his nation like ours is beyond the power of any tribunal but conscience and God.

FORAKER DEFENDS THE COURTS When Senator Sherman finished G. B. Bushnell introduced Senator-elect J. B. Foraker. The cheering which greeted him lasted two or three minutes. When he mentioned the "United States" in his opening remarks the scene which followed was in a short time like the one in the St. Louis convention when his nominating speech.

Mr. Foraker said: For the succession Republican majority in this state and throughout the country have been overwhelming. What has happened since the elections of last year to change the position of the people as then reported? In administration, nothing. In legislation, nothing. Nobody pretends that Mr. Cleveland or anybody else has done anything in the name of Democracy to relieve the people from the account of which it was condemned last year. Why, then, should there be any contest for the position of this year? The answer is, there is a new issue. The money question has been brought to the front, and we are to determine whether or not we will retain the gold standard.

The Republican party has not changed its position. It stands exactly where it has been standing heretofore. Briefly and simply stated, it is in opposition to what we propose to maintain when we have until we can get something better. What we have is the single gold standard. What we propose to maintain is the gold and silver standard. We propose to secure this by international agreement, the only possible way to secure it, in our judgment, and we are in favor of it. Our position is not, therefore, one of hostility to silver, as has been claimed, but one that demands such a use and treatment of silver as will maintain it in honorable parity with gold.

Now I want to call your attention to another plank in the Democratic platform. It is that which assails and seeks to destroy the Supreme court of the United States. The assault upon the Supreme court is an account of its decision that an income tax is unconstitutional. How does it matter what the excuse, the fact remains that the highest tribunal in America has been openly and deliberately assailed by political party in its political platform.

But they do not stop with this assault upon the Supreme court. They go further. They arraign all the judges of our federal courts who can forget the year 1861, angered and maddened by their wrongs, real and imaginary, the striking rioters in the city of Chicago undertook by violence to suppress the civil liberties, interfere with the operation of interstate commerce, and prevent the carrying of the mails to the United States. This declaration of this platform has reference to this incident. Read in the light of this it is the purpose of the Democratic party, as declared in this platform, to give us not only free trade and free silver, but to give also free license to every man who sees fit to take the scepter into his own hands, and, defying the constituted authorities, to institute riot and anarchy, bloodshed and violence, for law and order, peace and prosperity.

I appeal to every man who has heretofore called himself a Democrat to forget his party affiliations of the past and remember only that he is an American. The duty of the hour is a duty to coun-

DOCTOR NANSEN'S OWN ACCOUNT

In the evening a tremendous audience gathered to listen to General Woodford. His campaigning here in the greenback craze and since is vividly remembered in Ohio, and he was greeted enthusiastically. Gen. Woodford in his speech gave a history of inflation in this and other countries, and the failure in every case, and then took of free coinage.

General Woodford declared that all the power of the government, strong as it is, could not compel a single owner of gold bullion or of silver bullion to bring his bullion to be melted, if he could make two cents on the dollar by selling it in the market or by shipping it to Europe. He said: "I can never arrange it so that a man shall be obliged to lend you a thousand dollars in specie to be repaid by a thousand dollars in paper, or a thousand dollars in gold to be repaid by a thousand dollars in silver. If a man does not believe in your paper or your silver, he will hold fast to his gold. When men begin to melt their gold, it will be to demand that they will hide their specie in the cellar. They will ship their specie across the sea. They will emigrate. They will save themselves, for it is as certain as human life that no man will willingly and knowingly surrender to another man one dollar of value in exchange for that which he knows is worth only ninety cents. This is human nature. You cannot change it. You can theorize about it, but you cannot get away from it.

My countrymen, let us brush away all theories and all fancies. Let us look facts squarely in the face. Let us remember that there are some things which government cannot do and some things which government cannot create. Government cannot create life. Government cannot create death. Government cannot make two and two is four forever. Neither the czar of all the Russians nor the most eloquent citizen of Nebraska, backed by all the Populists and Democrats of this land, can ever change the laws of arithmetic, the laws of trade, or the laws of gravitation.

BATHING SUIT WAS TOO SCANTY.

Aged Capitalist Arrested by Prudish Eau Claire Officials. Eau Claire, Wis., Aug. 16.—David Broese, a capitalist and real estate dealer, nearly 60 years of age, was arraigned in the municipal court yesterday on the charge of violating a city ordinance by bathing in the Chippewa river in a scanty costume. He pleaded not guilty and the case was adjourned one week. When Broese appeared in court he brought along his bathing trunks. He said: "I have traveled the country from one end to the other, and gone bathing with bankers and fair ladies, and many of them were less costumed than I did. The air has caused a sensation. Broese is one of the oldest residents of this section, but his heaviest interests are in the state of Washington.

TIRED SALESWOMEN.

EMPLOYERS SHOULD BE MORE CONSIDERATE. Interesting Statement by a Young Lady in Brooklyn.

In the vast retail establishments of large cities, many women are employed as saleswomen. Men formerly held the positions that women now hold, and while women's sensibility is less strong than men's they are expected to do the same work. Their duties compel them to be on their feet from morning to night, and many of them, in a short time, contract these distressing complaints called "female diseases."

Then occur irregularities, suppressed or painful menstruation, weakness, indigestion, leucorrhoea, general debility and nervous prostration. They are beset with such symptoms as dizziness, faintness, lassitude, extreme nervousness, irritability, nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholy, "all-gone" and "want-to-be-left-alone" feelings, blues and hopelessness.

In such cases there is one tried and true remedy. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once removes such troubles. The following is a sample: "My dear Mrs. Pinkham—After writing you, and before your answer came, I was too miserable to go to the store, and so lost my position. That was five weeks ago. I am now back again in my old place, and never feel so well in all my life. The bearing-down pains and whites have left me, and I am not a bit nervous or blue. Life looks brighter to me. I don't get tired, my temper is real sweet, and I could scream right out sometimes for joy. Your Vegetable Compound is my stand-by. You don't know how thankful I am to you for saving me from suffering. Every woman in my position should know of your wonderful remedy. I never saw you, but love you for being so good to me."—W. 6th Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

English Capital for American Investments. Important to Americans seeking English capital for new enterprises. A list containing the names and addresses of 500 successful promoters who have placed over $100,000,000 sterling in foreign investments within the last six years, and on August 12 we discovered land extending from southeast to northwest. The country became more and more puzzling as we went on. We were in longitude east of Austria Sound, but if this was correct, we were now traveling straight across Wilcox Land and Dove Glacier without seeing any land near us.

LIVED ON BEAR MEAT AND BIRCH BARK. "On Aug. 28 we reached a spot in 81 1/2 degrees north and 56 degrees east, evidently well suited to wintering, and it was now too late for the voyage to Spitzbergen I considered it wisest to stop and prepare for winter. We shot bears and walrus and built a hut of stones, earth and moss, making the roof of walrus hide, tied down with ropes and covered with snow. We used the blubber for cooking, light and heat. The bear meat and the blubber were our only food for ten months. The bear skin, wintered, however, passed well, and we were both in good health. We were with sunshine and with much open water to the southwest. We hoped to have an easy voyage to Spitzbergen over the ice of ice and open water. We were obliged to manufacture new clothes from blankets and a new sleeping bag from bear skin. Our provisions were raw bear meat and blubber.

On May 19 we were at last ready to start. We came to open water on May 23, in 81 1/2 N., but were retarded by storms until June 2. A little south of 81 degrees we found land extending westward and open water which reached west-northwest along a northern coast. But we were forced to travel southward over the ice through a broad sound.

"We came on June 12 to the south side of the island and found much open water trending eastward. We sailed in the direction of the open water in order to proceed across Spitzbergen from the most westward cape, but Payer's map was misleading."

Dr. Nansen's account concludes as follows, after touching upon the details of his fine voyage with Jackson, which have already been called for.

"We left Franz Josef Land in the steamer Windward on August 7 and had a short and very pleasant passage, thanks to the mastery with which Captain Brown brought his ship through the ice, and thence in the open sea to Valdo."

CHARGED WITH A TRIPLE MURDER. Celia Rose Alleged to Have Poisoned Her Parents and Brother.

Mansfield, Ohio, Aug. 16.—Celia Rose was arraigned yesterday in the home of John Older, near Newville, this county on warrants sworn out for arrest by Prosecuting Attorney Douglas, charging her with poisoning her father, mother and brother with arsenic, placed in schmierkase. The prosecuting attorney has proof of a confession she made a few days ago to a friend admitting the deed.

She was brought to Mansfield, and at the hearing before Squire Smith pleaded not guilty, waived examination and was bound over to court to await the action of the grand jury. She made two attempts on her mother's life. She is 23 years of age, and is not altogether bright.
