M'KINLEY'S SPEECH TO COLORED MEN

An Able and Spirited Address to the L'Ouverture Rifles of Cleveland.

PROGRESS OF THE RACE REVIEWED

He Pays a Compliment to the Industry and Patriotism of the Black Man and Reviews the Achievements of the Ruce--Honest Dollars Are Commended.

Canton, Ohio, Aug. 19.-Major Mc-Kinley made one of his spirited cam-paign speeches yesterday to the delegation of colored militia men from Cieveland who paid him a visit.

Major McKinley was in excellent spirits. Replying to Mr. Smith and acknowledging the compliment of honorary membership in the L'Ouverture

MAJOR M'KINLEY'S SPEECH.

"Mr. Smith, and my fellow-citizens: It gives me extreme pleasure to meet and greet this company of rifles and my colored fellow-citizens of the city of Cleveland and of northern Ohlo and I rejoice to learn from your eloquent spokesman that your race this year, as in the years of the past, stands faithfully to the Republican cause, which I believe is the cause of the country. (Applause.)

"I do not forget, no man can forget, whether in war or in peace, the race which you represent never turned its back on the glorious stars and stripes (Applause and cries of 'Hurrah for Mc-Kinley's When the civil war commenced no man could tell what its outupon your race. There were those who believed that it must result in the abolition of human slavery. There were those that believed otherwise.

"The result was the immortal proclamation of emancipation by the best friend you ever had, Abraham Lincoln (tremendous cheering), whose name you will cherish and revere forever and for-

"James G. Blaine once said that the first instinct of an American was equality-equality of right, equality of privithe property of the second section of the lege, equality of political power. sentiment long ago found expression in the constitution of the United States, and the people of this country placed in that instrument where it had never tive young men. There was never a been before, and where, under God, it shall ever remain, civil and political greater efforts in its behalf than it demanded equality to every citizen, everywhere beneath the flag. (Applause.)

PROGRESS OF COLORED RACE. "I congratulate you, gentlemen, upon the splendid progress that your race has made since emancipation. You have done better; you have advanced more rapidly than it was believed possible at the time; you have improved greatly the educational advantages which you north and south, are accumulating property, and today you stand as among great republic. (Applause.) "I congratulate you from the bottom of my heart on the advancement you alroady made, and I sincerely wish for you and your race, fellowcitizens of a common country, the highest realization of your hopes and of your prayers. (Great cheering.)

"We are now engaged in a political contest, and your presence in such vast numbers here today evidences the interest which you have in the public questions that are now engaging the attention of the American people. NO FIFTY-THREE-CENT DOLLARS

"We have a great country, and we must keep it great. The position which the United States must occupy, both in wages and inflistries and in the integrity of its finances and currency, must be at the head of the nations of the earth. (Loud applause). To that place of honor the people of the country must restore it this year. They have the opportunity that they have wished for since 1892; will they meet it in this year 1896. (Cries of "They will.") "We want in the United States neither cheap money nor cheap labor. (Cheering). We will have neither the one nor the other, (Applause). We said: must not forget that nothing is cheap to the American people which comes from abroad when it entails idleness upon our own laborers. (Tremendous

"We are opposed to any policy which increases the number of unemployed in the United States even if it does give us cheaper foreign goods, and we are opposed to any policy which affects American manhood, that we may have cheaper products made either at home or abroad. (Applause).

"Having reduced the pay of labor, it is now proposed to reduce the value of the money in which labor is paid. (Laughter). This money question presents itself to me in this homely fashion; If free coinage of silver means : 53-cent dollar, then it is not an honest dollar. (Applause). If free coinage means a 100-cent dollar equal to the gold dollar, as some of its advocates assert, we will not then have cheep dollars, but dollars just like these we now have, and they will be as hard to get, in which case free coinage will not help the debtor or make it easier for his debts. LABOR AND CAPITAL.

"My countrymen, the most un-Amerlean of all appeals of those observable in this campaign is the one which seeks to array labor against capital, employer against employed. It is most unpatriotic and is fraught with the greatest peril to all concerned.

"We are all political equals here, equal in privilee and opportunity, dependent upon each other, and the prosperity of the one is the prosperity of the other. (Applause.) It is as Mr. Lincoln said to toga, the committee from the Workingman's association of New York in the campaign of 1864: 'Property is the fruit of labor, Property is desirable. That some should be rich shows that others may no man who is homeless pull down the mal letter to the chairman positively de-house of another, but let him work diligently and build one for himself, thus, by example, assuring that his own shall

REED TO THE LINCOLN CLUB. Young Republicans of Maine Are

Treated to a Spicy Speech, Portland, Maine, Aug. 19.-The Lin coln club had an auspicious flag raising tonight, opening the local campaign Two flags were run out. Then a proression was formed and marched to the Portland club, where another flag was run out as the procession passed. They then marched to the house of Hon. T.

B. Reed, where the band played and Mr.

Reed came out and spoke as follows:

"Gentlemen of the Lincoln club and fellow citizens: I beg to assure you that I have a high appreciation of the compliment of this visit, but I must say that no compliment to myself, even from so good a source as the Lincoln club would have brought me here this evening, had I not something to say to you tonight. What I would say to you will be no part of the campaign of edu-cation, for I think that by this time the Lincoln club knows it all. (Laughthe Lincoln club knows it all. (Laugh-ter). You are not, however, like a sil-ver man of my acquaintance who knows all about the silver question and something more. (Laughter). I come to bring you words of cheer, en couragement and exhortation. In the political affairs of this nation Maine is an important state and has been so since 1840 and will continue to be so. We are not like Oregon, the first state to speak which gives forth its utter-ance before public opinion has had time to be fixed, nor like Vermont, which is utterly steadfast, nor like Alabama where a fair expression of the public mind cannot be had, and where an honest election is not even a memory. We speak in the midst of the fight and the thought and determination of our people representative of the sentiments of the people of the United States, for we have sent our sons into all parts of the nation, and what we say in come would be in regard to its effect September they will say louder in November. Here in this district we have a plain case. The candidate who has been nominated by the Democratic party is an estimable gentleman and he has stated plainly where he is and you know where you are. I am not personally particular about a larger unifority. (Laughter). I have in the past been satisfied with what you have given me. But the country looks to you to say the right thing and say it londer. (Cheers). We are not lighting any losing battle, (Cheers). For the cause of gentine bimetallism there is much to be said but this thing which is now proposed is against all that makes free peace and comfort and prosperity of this country. The senator said today:

"Mr. Bryan's word is enough for me, and I shall be glad to say as much to the people of the country in my next public address. Mr. Bryan has denied the charge which was made by a Democratic newspaper and I have no hesitation in believing him."

As to Senator Stewart, the Nebraska senator said: "Senator Stewart has arrived at that stage of political second childhood which entitles him to great consideration and sympathy, and I don't think anything more need be said on that score."

Upper Red Hook, N. Y., Aug. 19. Without expectation or preparation, William J. Bryan made a speech at Rhine-beck tonight, in which he touched on matters of interest in the campaign. It was the first political talk Mr. Bryan had given since his notification, a week ago today, with the exception of a few words at Poughkeepsie.

At 2 o'clock Mr. and Mrs. Bryan and Mr. and Mrs. Perrine, their host, left Upper Red Hook in a covered wagon to drive over to Ellerslie, Governor Morton's home. With them went the Misses Perrine and a number of friends in vehicles and on bicycles. Others joined them along the road and by the time Ellerslie was reached, the procession was quite formidable. The route was through Red Hook, or the lower village, past the estates of John Jacob Astor. John Armstrong Chanler and other persons of wealth, and through Rhine Cliffe to Governor Morton's celebrated stock farm. Mr. Bryan and his friends inspected the stock stable and dairy houses under escort of Governor Mor ton's superintendent, who had been instructed from Albany by the governor's private secretary, Colonel Ashley ve Cole, to show the candidate every attention if he came Leaving Ellerslie, Mr. Bryan and his party visited the estate of Colonel Jacob Ruppert, the brewer, and then started for Rhinebeck, where they were to have supper. On the way Mr. Bryan was waylaid by Rev. Mr. Richards, pastor of the Hillside Methodist church, and invited to visit the church fair in progress in a tent nearby. Mr. Bryan paid $2 for the admission of the party and made liberal purchases of ice cream and

MR. BRYAN'S REMARKS. To this Mr. Bryan replied:

Mr. Chairman, Ladies and Gentlemen I am not here tonight to make you a political speech. I am in your midst to

We believe that while the struggle for gold goes on other things must become cheap, that as we increase the demand for that one thing must decrease the price of all those things that we change for gold, and we believe that this failing of prices, compelled by legislation, is destructive of the energies, the industries and the hope of the toiling masses of the United States and all over the world.
