QUEERED BY THE NEW YORK SPEECH

Washington Managers of the Cam-Candidate on the Gold Democrat tions from the people.

> Bureau of The Tribune. 501 14th stret, New York,

Washington, Aug. 21, Byan has certainly passed the zenlth of his popularity. His speech in New York fell flat, not only there, where it was delivered, but throughout the entire country. It was intended to electrify the country, and instead it has measured up the man.

The Democratic managers here, with keen disappointment, are beginning to realize this. But Faulkner and Mc-Millin, who are the big guns at the congressional layout are of the opinion that the speech will read well. The question is, will it ever be read? The campaign committee, as yet, have been unable to get it in palmphlet form. They have had no monney to do it with. The Western mine-owners, for Editor of The Tribune: all their talk and writing, have not given up anything as yet, and the greatest bitterness is expressed toward them by the Democratic managers.

Poor old Senator Stewart, the "wicked mime," has done all the "putting up" so far, and now he is balking. He would be forthcoming. In order to make good his oath, and in order to spare his own pocket book, he is going through the West soon for the purhis share.

sound money literature over the counto the West. There is no doubt about advisability of free trade as formerly glory in congress are becoming to him now, in the sent of his own country. East has been a failure. Out West, where vaudeville atractions are rare, he to the East, but he has no use for it now. It is one of the pieces of stage furniture he has discarded as not being a necessary accessory.

NO USE FOR FREAKS.

The east has been glutted with freaks, and Bryan's novelty show is playing Ancient Hibernian, the Ancient Briton, out. It will not run the sixty days which the Teuton, the Hebrew and others, are usually accorded to the poorest attractions. The fact of the matter is Bryan's performances are not what they were advertised. By successive playbills the people have been lead to pride concerning all, and that consists are usually accorded to the poorest attractions. The fact of their anticological pride concerning all, and that consists are usually accorded to the poorest at this great republic, might with equal pride point to the history of their anticological pride concerning all, and that consists are not what are the properties of the price of the are usually accorded to the poorest atexpect something entirely different. in knowing that on this side of the There is nothing so fickle as a theaelement that flocked to hear the presidential prodigy at first. They are now "on to" the game and don't think Mr. Bryan worth the price of admission. The more he speaks now the flatter he will fall.

The effect of the disappointment in his New York speech can already be calculated. As long as he was unheard and therefore unknown the Tammany tiger reared with enthusiasm. Now Tammany is by no means solid and united. The political situation in the great New York organization is very badly mixed. Instead of Tammany sending a united delegation to the state convention as it has always done, its delegation to Buffalo will be split, and a portion of it will be for sound money and unalterably opposed to the Chicago platform. At the congressional conventions it has aiready been decided not to attempt to force the nomination of silver men in sound money districts. This will necessitate a general change in the slate. It begins to look as if the Buffalo convention might accept the presidential ticket only on the ground of regularity, but reject the entire Chicago platform and reaffirm the sound

This change of programme has all came about since Bryan's trip to New York. This is what the Democratic managers here are seeing only too clear.

There is not a better political pulse here the Bryan enthusiasm is decidedly on the wane. The clerks in the departclamoring like geese and parrots for Bryan have settled down to duil routine again with the avowed intention of standard of the commercial world. sawing wood in their characteristic departmental way. These aforesaid clerks know pretty early in the game on which side their bread is buttered, and they will risk no throws on Bryan. national executive committees have arranged to open their headquarters in Wermley's hotel, adoining those of the Democratic congressional committee and the branch headquarters of the Democratic national committee. This will place all the silver headquarters under one roof, and enable the respective managers to work in harmony. Chairman Lane, of the silver com-mittee, it is understood, will devote most of his time to raising funds. Senator Faulkner, chairman of the Democratic congressional committee, does not hesitate to say that the sources of paign Are in Despair -- Senator revenue in past campaigns, principally Stewart Is Balking .- Ex-Chairman in New York city, will not respond to Harrity Mentioned as Presidential calls this year, and that the committee will have to depend on small contribu-

The names mostly spoken of in con-nection with the third party nomination at Indianapolis next month are ex-National Chairman Harrity for president, and ex-Governor Buckner, of Kentucky, and National Committee-man Daniel Lawler, of Minnesota, for vice president. It is argued that Mr. Harrity would be very strong in the East and that Buckner would carry Kentucky and other Southern States and that Lawler would run well in the northwest.

POLITICAL REFLECTIONS.

While we are thus eulogizing the Scotch-Irish or the Irish-Scotch, the posal of all her citizens. With such conditions before us, the wisdom of the people should move them in the most perpetuation of American institutions, and protection of home industries. In now before the people of the United States two great "Scotch-Irish" or 'Irish-Scotch' Americans seeking the honors of the presidency, and each deirous to assume the responsibility of the executive duties of the national administration. McKinley, the head of Republican party, and Bryan, the choice of the Democratic National convention. Their an-cestery, respectively, is not the question. They are both of good families and men of sterling worth in their own capacities. But the choice of administration, the governmental affairs of the nation, the money basis and proection of American industries are the chief points for consideration and require Republican success. These points are the direct concern of the mechanic money declaration made at Saratoga in and every workman, and the issue should be fully considered by every citizen, and the monetary question, which might not be clearly understood by some, should be clearly and ably discussed during the campaign by and it is giving them a powerful heap of campaign orators. PLAIN TALK TO FARMERS.

By SECRETARY OF AGRICULTURE MORTON.

We are told that plutocrats, or money lords, of the country are endeavoring to crush the "plain people," and that we are debtors ground under the heel of the eastern creditor. Is it probable that owners of money are endeavorng to bring about a state of affairs which shall ruin those who already owe them money and prevent their ever recovering their loans? Having established silver as our measure of value and medium of exchange, all who buy of us will pay us in silver, all of whom we buy, will demand of us gold, and we will pay the premium on Today Mexico is on a silver basis. A draft on New York, which is the equivalent of gold, is worth a premium of 87 per cent. The reason of this premium is that Mexico must pay the difference between her dollars, not floated at a parity with gold, and our dollars, which up to this time have been held at that parity by the pledge of the government, by the action of the present secretary of the treasury and by the courage of Grover Cleveland, president of the United States.

Peril of a Silver Basis.

Illustrative of this money fallacy is the position of the man who works, who sells service, or the results of services. In Mexico the imports are enhanced in value because the importer pays a sufficient price to cover the probable fluctuations of silver in the London market. The exporter buys as cheaply as possible to meet the same fluctations. So a silver country is between the upper and the nether millstone. The imports are enhanced and its exports are diminished in value.

A maxim which is almost an axiom in political economy is found in McLeod and reads thus: "The relation of supply to demand is the sole regulator of value." This rule is inflexible, inexorable and always vigorously operative. It applies to sait, starch, silver, gold, soap, horses and oats. In fact, it applies to every salable thing on the face of the civilized globe, and this accounts for the decline in the commodity of silver. Modern methods of treating ores have increased the supply of silver until it is all out of proportion with the natural demand for silver, and the Bland-Allison act and the Sherman act show that artifical demand cannot be created under any circumstances so as to uphold the ancient price of that metal.

Neither national metallism, as it is termed, by the United States nor bimetallism agreed on by all the civilized powers of the earth can fix and maintain the price of silver in gold at one ounce of the latter to sixteen ounces of the former, when it is exchanged everyhere as bullion at 32 to 1. Will the advocates of the free coinage of silver at sixteen to one tell us how the silver standard can benefit both the producers and consumers of farm products and simultaneously raise the value of silver for the mine owner and lower the value of the dollar for Figures for the Farmers.

The debtor class is not made up of farmers, mechanics and laborers. Briefly, the condition of the American farmer is shown by the fact that he owns 4,564,641 farms, valued at more than $13,000,000,000 in aggregate, and at an average of $2,999 each. The household of the farmer averages $500. The rural population of the United States last year fed the urban population, furnishing them cereals, meats, vegetables, fruits, eggs, milk butter, cheese and poultry. This urban population is 58 per cent, of all the people of the United States. Thus it is seen that the 42 per cent. who live upon farms, after feeding and clothing themselves, fed more than 40,000,000 of the denizens of villages and cities. They did not furnish this food gratuitously, and they will not furnish it at a loss.

During the same year the United States exported in products and domestic commodities and merchandise a valuation of $793,000,000. The value of the agricultural products included in that sum was $553,215,317. It is seen by the above that the American farmer fed himself and clothed his family, then fed all the villages and population of the union, and after that sold in the world's markets more than $500,000,000 worth of surplus food products. How then can the 42 per cent. of the people of the United States which feeds the remaining 58 per cent, and then furnishes more than 69 per cent, of the total exports of the country be making less profits than those whom they feed when the latter supply 31 per cent, of American exports?

Concerning the Scotch-Irish clan-apit Returnic to the period of the Revolutionary war, we find the names of men of Celtle origin, who had taken a prominent part in the war. But we cannot say with any degree of certainty that they were "Scotch-Irish" or Irish-Scotch particularly, though some writ ers claim that they were either Irish or Scotch descent. We are inclined to think that they were among those heroes of the Revolution, Welsh or Welsh descent. For instance, the Irish claim that Paul Jones was of Irish descent and General Morgan also, But the fact should not be overlooked that the names, Jones, Davis, Morgan, Lewis, such as clearly understand it; but Hopkins, Williams, McWilliams, Philthis important question.
