DEBATE ON THE MONEY QUESTION

120 Wyoming Ave. Ex-Judge W. H. Stanton and Attorney James J. H. Hamilton Argue.

THEY TOOK THE OPPOSITE SIDES to use.

Mr. Hamilton Upheld the Position of

Idea -- Part of Mr. Hamilton's Ar-A most interesting debate took place

Saturday on the "Money Question," tween ex-Judge W. H. Stanton and Attorney James J. H. Hamilton, of this both speakers. Mr. Hamilton opened the debate by asking his hearers to give the ques tions at issue in this campaign their careful, earnest and conscientious study, come to an honest conclusion, and then as free men cast their ballots according to the convictions of their so that the silver dollar will be as calculated as the cold what he are the cold what he calculated the convictions of their so that the silver dollar will be as calculated as the calculated the calculated the convictions of their so that the silver dollar will be as Re-Building own conscience "unawed by influence and unbribed by gain." He made a lucid and comprehensive statement of lucid and will take just as much labor much and will take just as much labor. the position of the Republican party by free coinage except the millionaire in this campaign that is worthy of the perusal of every voter. Mr. Hamilton said in part:

The currency of the United States onsists of over $600,000,000 of gold, $550,-000,000 f silver. Nearly $500,000,000 of trensury notes and greenbacks, and over $200,000,000 of national bank notes. In certificates of deposit showing that the bearer thereof has a certain num-her of gold or silver dollars as the case may be, on deposit with the treasury of the United States which will be paid on presentation of the certificate. These certificates are issued merely for the accommodation and convenience of the seople, being more convenient for all usiness purposes than the coin itself.

SIMPLY PROMISSORY NOTES. Our greenbacks are simply the prom issory notes of the United States. They are not money, but the promise of pay money. They pass current at their face not from any intrinsic value of their own, but because they have behind them the honor and credit of the gov-ernment. If, when you present a green-back to the treasury of the United States he refuses to pay it or is unable to do so, or cannot give you 100 cents in payment of it, you would at once say, "this concern is insolvent."

When a merchant cannot pay his notes or refuses to do so, a judgment is obtained, execution issues and the sheriff seizes his goods and closes up his business. A sheriff's writ will not issue against the United States, but when they cease to pay their debts in good honest dollars worth one hundred cents, their promissory notes and obli gations fall for a discount and will no gations iall for a discount and will not pass current at their face, just as they did during the Rebellion when the greenback fell to thirty-seven cents. It is, therefore, the policy of the gov-ernment to maintain all its currency, paper, silver, and gold, at a parity, and this is done by requiring the United States treasurer by law to redeem the greenbacks in gold, and to exchange gold for silver wherever twenty dollars of the latter, or any multiple there of shall be presented. This is the reason why our silver dollars, while worth only fifty-three cents as bullion, pass current at their face. Just as soon as they cannot be exchanged for gold, dollar for dollar, they will fall to their bullion value of all these different items of our cur rency, it has been found necessary to keep a redemption fund of gold on hand in the treasury, and for this purpose $100,000,000 has been considered sufficent. This fund is called the gold re-serve. Under Republican administrations, with proper tariffs, we have had no difficulty in raising sufficient rev-enues to pay the expenses of the government to reduce the public debt, and maintain this gold reserve. But for the ernment have not been sufficient to pay its expenses. The latter have exceeded 000,000 per annum. Last month the defleit was $13,000,000. The government's obligations were presented for payment, the gold reserve educed, and the government compelled to sell its bonds and thus increase the public debt for the purpose of paying expenses and maintaining the gold re-serve. If the revenues of the govern-ment were sufficient, this would not be necessary, and the financial problem would be practically solved. It is for this reason that a discussion of the money question necessarily involves a discussion of the tariff. We insist that a tariff should be levied sufficient for the needs of the government, and that this tariff shall be laid with a view to the protection of American labor.

THE GOLD RESERVE. Now in order to maintain the parity

WHAT DEMOCRATS SAY. Our Democratic friends allege that the act of 1873 demonetized silver, de-creased our circulation by half, and lowered prices. Previous to the pass-age of that act there had been coined in the United States during the entire history of the government only 8,000,000 silver dollars, and these, owing to the fact that the discovery of the gold fields of California in 1849 and the de-velopment of the Australia gold fields and the consequent increase in the out-put of gold had caused it to fall in prices, were, as the dearer metal always prices, were, as the dearer metal always is and always will be, driven to foreign lands. They were taken to France where the ratio of coinage was only 15½ to 1 and sold to the French mint at a profit of the seller of the difference between the two ratios. The country was thus depleted of silver, so that at the passage of the act of 1873 we had in the entire United States only between $90 and 1,000 silver dollars.

between 800 and 1,000 sliver dollars.

Since that time we have bought and coined $550,000,000 in sliver of which $431,000,000 are in dollars which, not-withstanding their depreciated value as buillion in the world's markets, are made legal tender at their face. Does this look as though we had demone-tized silver? In the twenty years suc-ceeding the passage of the act of 1873, we coined fifty-four times as many silver dollars as during the entire eighty-one years preceeding.

Not only this; but by making silver a legal tender at its face, and coining it at less than its value, we have given it the advantage of gold; for gold is coined at its bullion value, and is not a legal tender at its face but only for its value; so when the gold coin is abandoned or worn off it ceases to be legal tender at its face, and even the United States government will take it only by weight.

The reason of this is that the coining of it has added nothing to its value, of it has added nothing to its value, but it is merely the government's guar-anty of the purity and weight of the metal when milled. Thus we have in all these years given silver the ad-vantage of gold, and our opponents would have you belive that demons-tized twenty- three years ago. But if we have true and independent free coinage of silver, the silver dollar will no longer be payable in gold or ex-changeable therefor as now, and it wil lor should cease to be legal tender at its face and become so for only its bullion value.

In other words it must stand upon its own bottom and not upon a gold basis. This, free coinage necessarily implies. Now, if our friends are really in favor of a bimetallic currency, why do they not advocate the coinage of silver at its actual value, as was done before 1873? No one would object to this unless on account of the bulkiness of the coin which would make it almost impossible

WHAT BRYAN ASKS.

This, however, is the ony way that we can have free coinage of silver and the Republican Party in this Cam-paign and Judge Stanton Told of that whenever two metals have been the Beauties of the Free Coinage less than its value, the dearer metal has been forced from circulation.

Mr. Bryan asked all debtors to vote for free silver because they will then be able to pay their debts with cheaper dollars than those received when the debt was contracted. In almost the same breath he says that the effect of free coinage will not be to cheapen the silver dollar but to "bull" the prices of tegrity between man and man. Its in-justice will work both ways. Your wages, whether you work in the mine owners of silver mines who will thus be furnished with a market for the output of their mines at twice the present market value.

WHAT YOU WOULD DO.

addition to these we have silver and gold certificates which are, in effect, certificates of deposit showing feet, producers of silver the sum of $150,600,000 to $200,000,000 per year. Are you willing to do this?

And now, as I close, let me urge upon you by your votes to preserve our pri-vate integrity and our public honor, so that it may never be said that either our nation or its citzens have repudiated their contracts. Some of those whom I see before me wore the blue and bared their breasts to protect our country from those who sought her destruction than thirty years ago.

May I not ask you to again thrust yourselves between her and those who seek her dishonor, and to preserve now as you did then, her flag so that it may remain with not a stripe dimmed nor a star blotted out, but its colors bright, fadeless and beautiful as the brilliant colors of the rainbow mixed in the alemble of the Almighty and painted upon the clouds of glory by the hand of the Infinite Artist of Life and Light.

BOY FELL INTO A SAND PIT

Anthony, the 15-year-old son of Mr and Mrs. Anthony J. Rogan, of 1862 Yard street, Providence, may die from a double accident, which befel him. He was buried in a sand put Friday, and one of the men digging to extricate him sunk him spade into the boy's head and caused a scalp wound, running from the top of the head to the base of the skull. The wound is a very dangerous one and may result fatally.

The boy was sitting near the edge of the pit, which is not far from his home. and he fell into it accidentally, a great quantity of sand covering him. alarm was at once given by the other boys who were near by, and immediately men set to work to dig for him. In their eagerness to get him out alive the men worked with all their might, and one of the spades struck him on the

WAGON RUN DOWN BY TROLLEY CAR

Frightful Accident at Dutch Gap Last Evening.

ONE KILLED AND THREE INJURED

Horse Shied and Plunged Across the Track Directly in Front of a Rapidly Approaching Peckville Car -- The Four Occupants Had No Time to Jump and All Were Caught in the Peckville car No. 8 crashed into a vagon containing four Slavonians, two men and two women, near Parket street, at 6.15 o'clock last evening, killing one of the women, Mrs. Mary Kawalchiek, of 427 South Washington avenue; seriously if not fatally injuring her niece, Miss Mary Simpka, of Buffalo, and causing painful injuries to her husband, John Kawalchick, and a friend of the family, George Hackulich, also of South Washington avenue.

Their horse shied just as the car was within a few feet of them and plunged across the tracks. The rear part of the wagon was struck by the car and the occupants were hurled in all directions. Mrs. Wawalchick fell across one of the rails and the wheels passed over her left leg becerating it in a terrible manner and almost completely severing it between the ankle and knee She also sustained a frightful scalp wound, and being a woman of 260 pounds no doubt suffered what at all events would have proved a fatal shock. She died at the Lackawanna hospital at 11.40 p. m.

The Simpka girl was hurled forward about twenty feet landing on her left side and fracturing two of her ribs just to the rear and slightly below the arm-pit. She had great difficulty in breathing and it is feared the ends of the fractured ribs press against or possibly have punctured her lung. She is nineteen years of age and a large, fine looking girl.

Enwalchick and Hackulich, who occupled the front seat escaped with omparatively slight injuries. The husband was so frantic with grief that he would not allow the doctors to examine him but judging from the way he limped and exclamations of pain which occasionally dropped from his lips he is badly bruised about the hips. An examination of Hackulich showed that his shoulder was painfully bruised and lacerated.

SIMPKA GIRL'S CONDITION.

Nothing definite can be told of the Simpka girl's condition until today. She was in too great pain last night, and too nervous to permit of any extended examination so the doctors decided to pu it off until this morning. They are satisfied that two of her ribs are broken, but as to whether or not this will entail any very serious results they could not say. She is at the house of George Shiras, near where the calamity occurred and where she was immediately re-

The greatest excitement prevailed immediately following the accident and the witnesses were consequently in no condition to calmly note things. There are as a result various stories of the occurence, all differing more or less as to details. All desinterested witnesses, however, agree that the motorman was only blamable as far as the speed of his car was concerned. All agree that the car was moving very rapidly and circumstances would tend to show this to be true. The accident occurred midway between Parker and Deacon streets Wales, and came to this country in 1865. on an almost level stretch of road. The The funeral will be held this aftercars generally attain a very good speed run rapidly along this particular piece interment will be made in Washburn of the road. The car which caused yesterday's sad calamity it seems was no exception. The motorman, Peter Alles, and Conductor George Ferry both de clare that they were going only at a moderate speed, but eye witnesses of the occurrence aver that the speed was very rapid. The Kawalchicks and their guests were returning from a visit among Peckville friends and were jogging along at an easy galt when they reached the place where the accident occurred The approaching car caused their horse to become a little uneasy, but it appears Kawalchick, who was driving was not expecting that the horse would become frightened and consequently was not prepared to check him whe he suddenly swerved and plunged across the track.

ONLY A CAR LENGTH AWAY.

The car it would appear was not more than a length away when the horse made its mad jump. Before any of the occupants had time to think much less leap the car was upon them The car was reversed at the first sign of the impending accident and was brought to a stop about twenty paces from where the wagon was struck. The fender and headlight of the car were broken and the wugon was demolished. but the horse escaped without scratch.

Mrs. Kawalchick was carried into Lloyd's drug store and the Lackawanna hospital ambulance summoned. While waiting for the arrival of the ambu lance the injured woman was cared for Koehler says that he was down in the by Doctors Lloyd and Lackey. Miss lower part of the town, in the region of Simpka was carired into George Shi-Franklin avenue, when he was ap- ras' house on the other side of the proached by a young man with a story street and the same physicians attended her.

At the hospital Doctors L. H. Gibbs Blanchard and Fish did all in their power for the unfortunate woman, but nue, Koehler says, the man with the after an hour's work unfailing symptoms showed that death was nigh and they left her to the ministrations of her pastor, Rev. Nicephor Chanath, of the Greek Catholic church, who remained with her until her death at twelve ninutes of twelve.

The motorman and conductor were placed under arrest by Lieutenant Spellman of the North End precinct. He permitted them to run their car back to the central city and telegraphed for an officer to meet them at the dispatcher's office. They were taken to the central police station but after being detained about an hour were released on the recognizance of General Manager Frank Sillman, ir., and Special Agent P. W. Gallagher.

The dead woman was 40 years of age and the mother of one boy, John Kawalchik, age 19. The Kawalchiks keep a milk depot at 427 South Washingto avenue and are quite well-to-do.

Accident on Laurel Hill Line.

An accident happened on the Laurel Hill line about 9 o'clock in the evening in which two women were slightly injured. Two cars were ascending the grade which leads up from Clay ave nue at the end of the level stretch, and when the first car got near the top of the hill the power gave out and the brakes could not hold the car.

It ran backward and bumped into the second car, shaking up the passengers on both. The second car was derailed and the wreck car had to come to re place it. Mrs. Letchworth, of Dunmore learned were bruised slightly, and aside from these two cases no other injuries were reported.

The hearing took place in the arbitration room of the court house Mr. Flaherty was building a house or Penn avenue adjoining the plaintiffs' and they claim that he was making use of the ten-foot reservation in the construction of a bay window, although the deed of the lot expressly specifies that he can use it only for porch, yard or shrubbery. Architect Worden tes-tified that he drew the plans and that it is only a bay window. The hearing will be resumed at 9 o'clock Thursday morning.

CHIEF HAS A CLUE.

Arrest Made in Connection with the Baby Outrage.

Edward Mawson, of Scranton street, was arrested Saturday by Chief Robling on suspicion of being connected with the West Mountain baby outrage. The chief refuses to divulge any of the evidence he claims to have against Mawson, excepting that his sister-inlaw gave information that Mrs. Maw son gave birth to a child last week which was buried without a permit. Mawson was arraigned before Alderman Howe, who in view of the light nature of the evidence, allowed him to go under the nominal bail of $200. The child is still alive and Dr. O'Malley says he is quite sure it will recover.
