

Scranton

Examiner

TWELVE PAGES--84 COLUMNS.

SCRANTON, PA., SATURDAY MORNING, AUGUST 29, 1896.

TWO CENTS A COPY

A Dress Goods Stock

Opening Days of a New Season

possesses the rare charm of novelty which few care to set aside lightly...

Thursday, Aug. 27th And Continue For One Week

In Addition

To the new weaves named below, we will show a full line of domestic and staple cloths such as are always in demand.

New Novelties

Include

Wool Broadcloths, Illuminated Epingles, Silk and Wool Corduroys, Diamond Honeycombs, Reufers Checks, Knotted Diagonals, Wool Crepes, Scotch Terylts, Mosaic Plaids, Harris Tweeds, Persian Jacquards, Persian Brocades, Persian Antiques, Persian Bronzes, Persian Damasses, Persian Louisines, Etamine Fancies, Mohair Venturals, Crochet Suitings, Fancy Whip Cord, Lizard Suitings, Fancy Nigger Heads, Fall Bark Suitings, Browned Cloth, Metallic Repps, Illuminated Poplins, Zebelines, Fancy Mosaics, Honey Comb Suitings, New Knotted Effects, Galashiele Mixtures, Heathen Chevots, etc., etc.

Bright

Plaids

For fancy waist and children's wear come many new effects, and the most popular weaves are Rough Mohair, Poplins, Cashmires, Serges, Ottomans, and crocheted effects.

The Leading Feature

In this display will be exclusive novelties which cannot be found elsewhere, and all are welcome to roam at will through this great department during the opening days.

GLOBE WAREHOUSE

WAR SHIP WILL BE SENT TO TURKEY

The Hancock Has Been Selected to Pass the Bosphorus.

MR. TERRELL SNUBBED BY THE PORTE

No Satisfaction Received Concerning the Outrages at Harpoot--Mavroyeni Bey's Cool Letter to Secretary Olney Concerning the Passage of the Hancock--The Government Evidently Means Business.

Washington, Aug. 28.--The president has decided to send a war ship to Constantinople, and the little cadet practice ship Hancock has been selected as the first American national vessel since the ratification of the treaty of Berlin to pass the Bosphorus and anchor in the Golden Horn opposite the gardens of the Yagallo.

The navy department is in a state of suppressed excitement today, on account of preliminary orders to fit the vessel for a foreign cruise, and although officials have been placed to unusual secrecy over the immediate cause of the departure, it is well known that extraordinary efforts are being made to expedite the dispatch of the vessel from Annapolis, where the cadets have just disembarked from the summer cruise, and the instruction officers have been ordered ashore to the naval academy.

Within a day or two, under temporary orders, a new complement of officers and men, it is understood, will man the ship, and she will go to the Norfolk or New York navy yard to make ready for a duty she was never designed to undertake. Congress authorized her construction solely as a practice cruiser for the education of naval cadets. The administration having reached the decision, however, that the presence of a United States war vessel was imperatively demanded at Constantinople to perform duty similar to that of the gunboats which maintained there by Great Britain and other European powers, and the Turkish laws forbidding a vessel of over six guns to enter the Bosphorus, the Hancock alone was found available for the service required. She has four guns, and, therefore, is under no obligation to receive permission to pass the forts, as would be the case of all other American war ships save the Concord, now out of commission, and the Bennington, attached to the Pacific station, both of which have six guns, and the dispatch boat Dolphin, which has two guns.

It is understood that at Constantinople, Mr. Terrell's suggestion the step now to be taken has been under contemplation for some time and is not due to any sudden and unforeseen complication.

DESCRIPTION OF THE HANCOCK. The cruiser Hancock, was laid down in 1891 by Moore & Sons, at Elizabeth, N. J., and went into use three years ago. She cost $250,000 and is only 839 tons displacement, being 187 feet 6 inches long, 32 broad, with a draught of 11 feet 6 inches. Her horse power on trial was 1,214 and her speed 14.37 knots. She can only carry 200 tons of coal, and must therefore make port frequently on a cruise. Her main battery consists of four 4-inch rapid fire rifles and a number of small secondary weapons and two torpedo tubes. She carries ten officers and 120 men. In all respects she is a warship of the highest class.

His excellency, Tewfik Pasha, has just informed me that the sublime Porte regrets that it cannot comply with Mr. Terrell's request for permission for the Hancock to pass through the strait, that vessel having been authorized to remain at the disposal of the United States legation at Constantinople.

ORIENTAL BLUFF

Turkish Legation, Washington, Jan. 16, 1896. Mr. Secretary of State: Tewfik Pasha, has just informed me that the sublime Porte regrets that it cannot comply with Mr. Terrell's request for permission for the Hancock to pass through the strait, that vessel having been authorized to remain at the disposal of the United States legation at Constantinople.

If any reply was made to this letter, or if any correspondence followed or preceded it, that correspondence is not obtainable. It is believed in naval circles here that the preliminary orders sending the Hancock to Constantinople constitute the first step in the administration programme to compel Turkey to respect the pre-emptory demand for full and immediate satisfaction for $100,000 indemnity made last November for the destruction of the American college and the property at Harpoot and a similar demand for the burning of the college at Marash. It is believed this will be enforced before the close of the present year even if it is necessary to detach all the battleships and big cruisers from Admiral Bunce's fleet for the purpose.

SCHOOL BOY'S ROMANCE

It Ended in Marrying the Girl Who Chased Him to Chicago. Chicago, Ill., Aug. 28.--Charles Slogenhop, a boy of 18, and Catherine Deer were married at the Harrison street station this morning by Justice Richardson. The young couple are from Altoona, Pa., and up to a few months ago Charles was the boy who was chief engineer in a big manufacturing plant there. Charles and Catherine were companions from childhood. She was the daughter of the foreman of the mill at which Slogenhop, sr., was employed and is a very pretty girl.

THEY SCORN FUSION.

The Indianapolis Gold Democrats Propose to Nominate a Ticket of Their Own.

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 28.--Neither Bourke Cockran nor D. B. Hill will attend the gold democratic convention which meets in Indianapolis next week. Their failure to do so is attributable to the political mix up in their own state. Hill was certainly not to be defined until after the Buffalo convention, where, if he succeeds in himself securing the reins, he will dictate a policy. While the managers of the gold Democrats have wished heartily for the attendance of Cockran, it is now said that they have decided to make overtures for him to accept the temporary chairmanship. This honor seems certain now to prove a friendly mantle to ex-Governor R. P. Flower, of New York. L. C. Krauthoff, of Missouri, member of the national executive committee, arrived in Indianapolis today and will hereafter assist in the preparations for the convention.

In regard to the statement of the Pennsylvania gentleman that "Mark Hanna be called to the Indianapolis convention and be offered the support of the Democracy," it is understood that Mr. Bryan before going to Kinley, provided the tariff plank of the Republican platform be tempered down and Mr. Carlisle be substituted for vice president in the place of Mr. Hobart," he said: Mr. Carr ought to know that such a thing would mean the election of Mr. Bryan before you could show your eye. The public ought to know by this time that we are coming here for the purpose of nominating a ticket of our own. There will be no endorsement of any other ticket or platform than that nominated by the convention.

MURDER OF A FAMILY.

Mrs. Charles W. Green and Her Three Children Are Found Dead at Their Home.

Kansas City, Aug. 28.--At noon today the family of Charles W. Green, traveling passenger on the Big Four railway, consisting of Mrs. Green and three children, a boy, aged 12, a girl, aged 9, and a little girl of 6, were found dead in their home, 59 West Thirty-fourth street. All the little ones were in their beds and the mother lay dead in a doorway with a revolver by her side. The murder or suicide is supposed to have occurred Wednesday morning about 2 o'clock as at that hour neighbors heard pistol shots near the Green home but no investigation was made until the non-appearance of the Green family led to an inquiry. Mr. Green left this city a week ago last Tuesday to go on a trip to Salt Lake City with Mr. Lynch, assistant general passenger agent of the Big Four. Thursday morning one of the neighbor's children went to the Green home to find it empty. He could not find anybody at the house and told his parents. They thought it strange but did nothing until morning when there were still no signs of life about the house. Repeated knocks at the door failing to bring a response a ladder was raised to a second story window and one of the neighbors went in and the dead bodies of the family were found.

Mrs. Green had not undressed for bed and it was evident that she had put on the children to bed, and waiting until they were asleep and then sent them into a room. The explanation for the terrible crime is that Mrs. Green was crazy. Mr. Green is now on his way from Salt Lake. His friends say his home life was especially happy.

DROWNED IN A FIT.

John Evans, of Seelyville, Found Dead in Water 20 Inches Deep. Special to the Scranton Tribune.

Seelyville, Aug. 28.--John Evans, while fishing in a little pool of water under the barn was drowned. He was subject to fits and it is supposed that he fell into the water when attacked by a spasm.

He left the house about 6.30 in the morning, to look at the poles that he had set the night before. He was found by the hired boy lying on his face in about twenty inches of water.

Coroner Foster was called and empaneled a jury as follows: Henry Ludwig, George Griener, Edward Ordnung, Bottle Moser. A verdict of accidental death was rendered. The deceased was 29 years old, and leaves a wife and two children.

LI HUNG CHANG AT NEW YORK

The Greatest Chinaman on Earth is Now Guest of the Nation.

BROUGHT HIS YELLOW VEST ALONG

World Renowned Oriental Diplomat is Greeted with Booming Cannons and Gay Decorations--The Viceroy is Pleased with the Reception Given--Quartered at the Waldorf.

New York, Aug. 28.--Li Hung Chang, viceroy of China, ambassador extraordinary to Russia, and world renowned diplomat, arrived in New York today and became the guest of the nation. The stately St. Louis passed Fire Island at 10.25 a. m. with the distinguished visitor on board. The American built greyhound of the seas made the trip from Southampton in six days and three hours. She was saluted by the tooting of whistles, tugs and steamers as she passed up the lower bay, and entered the narrows.

It was 10.40 when the St. Louis came abreast of Quarantine. Shortly before the warships of the North Atlantic squadron had formed in an indented double line, through the center of which the St. Louis was to pass. This arrangement was to allow a clear vision of each man of war by the visiting Chinese. The sea was calm and escorted through the lower bay by quite a flotilla, composed of yachts, tugs and excursion boats. Whistles were blown, cannon fired and the people aboard the different crafts shouted words of welcome to Li Hung Chang and his party. When the steamship was sighted by the warships the men were at once called to quarters on the quarter deck where they held their position until the St. Louis had passed as a mark of respect to the Oriental visitor. After General Ruger and party stepped aboard the St. Louis at 12.45 p. m. they went immediately to the drawing room where they met the president, vice president and the cabinet. Li was in his state room and word was sent to him that the government representatives were ready to meet him. About the big liner were gathered crafts of every description, crowded with people anxious to get a glimpse of the celebrated Chinaman. Whistles were kept going, yachts boomed cannonades and on some of the tug firecrackers were sent off. Coming by Fort Wadsworth, a salute was fired as the St. Louis passed through the warships, the flagship New York firing a salute of 19 guns, which the English lord high admiral's official recognition.

THE VICEROY WELCOMED.

Li Hung Chang, after a delay of fifteen minutes, was conducted to the ship by the vice president Wright and his interpreter and General Ruger, who sat at once presented to General Ruger, who said: "I am directed by the president of the United States to meet you and extend to you the freedom of the nation. I hope to see you in New York. The Viceroy bowed his head and said: "I thank you for the courtesy." Li was dressed in the highest of Chinese distinctions, the famous yellow jacket with its accompanying ornament, the peacock feather, all of which he wore. He was wearing a dark blue broadcloth suit, opening on to one of pale blue, which was turned aside to display the yellow riding jacket, which was completely white with red designs. The peacock feather hung from a red-topped button-crowned mandarin in the hat and drooped down to the back of his neck.

Li was formally presented to all present in the drawing room. He shook hands with them all. He was asked if he would like to slip out on to the deck and look at the harbor as the ship sailed up, but he motioned that he preferred to sit down and talk with those present.

General Ruger took a seat to his left and the interpreter to the right. The Viceroy, in a democratic position, threw one knee over the other and began to ask questions. He would like to know if the president of the republic was in New York. He was told that he was, and that he would be there tomorrow. To this the Viceroy bowed his head in acknowledgment.

TALK WITH GENERAL WILSON.

Li Hung Chang has a remarkable faculty for remembering faces. Among the party who went down to meet him was General James H. Wilson. It was many years since the two men had met. "Your moustache was black when I saw you last," said he, "and now it is gray. How is that?" "That was a good many years ago," said the general. "Ah, so it was," said Li, and then followed his usual question: "How old are you?" "where do you live?" "what's your income?" etc. The Viceroy asked for John W. Foster, and when told he was not aboard the party who went down to meet him was General James H. Wilson. It was many years since the two men had met. "Your moustache was black when I saw you last," said he, "and now it is gray. How is that?" "That was a good many years ago," said the general. "Ah, so it was," said Li, and then followed his usual question: "How old are you?" "where do you live?" "what's your income?" etc.

become wealthy, the active ones become patriotic. "How old are you?" asked General Ruger. "About sixty," replied the general slightly blushing. "You look younger, how is that?" "Good habits and plenty of sleep," said the general, adding "you do not look 75 years of age."

At this remark Li broke into a hearty laugh and a pleased expression crept over his face. All the way up the bay the viceroy kept firing his pointed fingers to all who attempted conversation with him, much to the amusement of the group gathered about.

Li had a comparatively pleasant trip. He remained in staterooms most of the time but found time each afternoon to mingle with some of his fellow passengers. He was greatly liked aboard. He attended a concert given aboard the ship and at its conclusion presented himself to the Abbott sisters who were among the entertaining artists.

LI PREFERRED TO WALK. It was 1.20 when the steamer touched the pier. Li's sedan chair was gotten ready for him but he turned to the men and said: "I do not need it. I prefer to walk upon American shores."

At 1.30, accompanied by the official escort, he left the steamer by a private gangway, and was greeted by the naval militia who beat a welcoming tune upon drums. The party descended from the upper pier by elevator, which was elaborately decorated with Chinese colors, to the floor below, where a company of the naval reserves formed a cordon. Here eight carriages were in waiting for the foreigners. There was a delay of half an hour in getting away. In the meantime an immense crowd had gathered outside the American line dock at the foot of Fulton street. A large force of police was on hand and they had all that support, connected with the honor, which will come from all classes of our fellow citizens everywhere, will give to the national ticket and to our party a triumph, the like of which we have not known for many years. (Applause.) We cannot overestimate the value of our young men in politics, and I would not have believed, had I not seen the evidence, that they were not practical politicians. (Laughter.) My experience with them is that they have been politicians of the most practical sort.

Gentlemen, you never had a worthier cause to strive for than you have this year. The financial honor of the country and the prosperity of all its people are enough to inspire every American heart to the best possible effort. (Laughter.) I have seen somewhere an inquiry: "What is the United States' established financial system of its own; is it too weak and dependent to do that?" I answer: "The United States has a financial policy which in the main it has been pursuing since the beginning of the government and which it does not mean to change until it can find a better one. Those who make the inquiry are usually against our American policy of finance and they are insisting that we shall adopt the financial policy of China and Mexico. I hope it will not be thought an evidence of lack of national spirit and national independence that we decline to adopt their proposition. (Great applause.) I thank you for this call and am gratified by any unusual incident which you bring to me from your great national body. (Applause). The speech was warmly applauded.

ADDRESS TO UNITED BRETHREN.

At four o'clock a large delegation of United Brethren clergymen who are attending a conference here, called on Major McKinley. Bishop J. H. Mills, of Oregon, stood in behalf of the clergymen and Major McKinley in response said: "It gives me sincere pleasure to respond to this call of greetings and congratulations. I am duly appreciative of the message of good will which you so kindly bring from the great religious body you represent. It is a good omen when religious teachers are alive to the question of affecting the public welfare. Nothing is more worthy of your study and consideration than those questions which tend to make the country great, prosperous and religious. Civic virtue is a good thing for the preacher always, but a better thing for every citizen to guard in his daily life. Good citizenship lies at the foundation of our true greatness as a free government. Those who preach it are in this and in all other respects the better citizen the better a free government and its laws. It is a gratifying fact as your states that in our form of government character counts not so much, the lack of it amounts to almost disqualification of public trust. Whatever man's individual opinions on moral questions may be, whether good or bad, whatever may be their party affiliations, all prefer that public officials shall be of high character. They may be headless of virtue and caroles in their own lives, but they insist that those who are to execute the public will be the men of unquestioned integrity. Public opinion demands this and happily all political parties respect it. I wish for every religious body and every other agency whose object is to elevate mankind the fullest measure of success. No nobler cause could engage your faculties. I trust that your conference here will be productive of good and that your stay here will bring pleasure to you as I am sure it has brought pleasure to our people and to our city. I will be glad to meet and to greet each one of you who have honored me today, and I thank you over and over again for the courtesy of the compliment of this call." (Great applause.) Major McKinley received even more messages of congratulation concerning his letter of acceptance today than yesterday.

BUTCHERIES IN TURKEY.

Between Three and Four Thousand Armenians Slaughtered. London, Aug. 28.--A dispatch to the Daily News from Constantinople says that fearful scenes were enacted there Wednesday night. Mobs of the worst character looted shops and residences and murdered everybody whom they suspected of being an Armenian or a sympathizer with the Armenians.

A moderate estimate places the number killed at between 3,000 and 4,000.

Gold Coming Our Way.

New York, Aug. 28.--The total known amount of gold now on European steamers sailing for New York, or already engaged for exportation are as follows: Lazard Freres, $5,000,000; Heidebach, Kochelmeier & Co., $2,000,000; Kunn, Loeb & Co., $1,000,000; Ladenburg, Thalman & Co., $500,000; L. Von Hoffman, $500,000; J. & W. Seligman & Co., $200,000; and Private Stations, $200,000. Total, $10,400,000.

Objections to Rutledge.

Harrisburg, Aug. 28.--John J. Monagan has filed objections in the Dauphin county court to the certificate of nomination filed by William N. Rutledge, at the state department building, in the Pennsylvania election for the legislature in the 27th Legislature district.

TWO SPEECHES BY MAJOR MCKINLEY

They Were Among the Most Eloquent of the Campaign.

COMPLIMENTS YOUNG REPUBLICANS

The Effectiveness of the Work of the Republican League Receives Proper Recognition--A Cordial Speech to the United Brethren. Many Letters of Congratulation Received.

Canton, Aug. 28.--Major McKinley made two speeches today and they were both short. His first visitors were a committee representing the executive committee of the National Republican League. They came fresh from the enthusiastic meeting at Milwaukee. The committee gathered in Major McKinley's library and after they had been presented to him, John Goodnoe, of Minnesota, the spokesman, in a short speech assured the Major of the earnest support of every member of the league. In response Major McKinley made one of the most impressive little speeches to which he has given utterance since this campaign. He spoke with wonderful force and earnestness. He said: "Mr. Goodnoe and Gentlemen: It gives me great pleasure to greet at my home this large committee representing the young Republicans of the United States. I know some of your worth and work. I know how, in former campaigns, the splendid services of the young Republicans of the country have contributed to bring to us most signal triumphs. I am glad to hear from your spokesman, fresh from your national convention, that the Republican party and the Republican cause this year are to have your united, aggressive and unflinching support; and I am sure, with that support, connected with the support which will come from all classes of our fellow citizens everywhere, will give to the national ticket and to our party a triumph, the like of which we have not known for many years. (Applause.) We cannot overestimate the value of our young men in politics, and I would not have believed, had I not seen the evidence, that they were not practical politicians. (Laughter.) My experience with them is that they have been politicians of the most practical sort.

Gentlemen, you never had a worthier cause to strive for than you have this year. The financial honor of the country and the prosperity of all its people are enough to inspire every American heart to the best possible effort. (Laughter.) I have seen somewhere an inquiry: "What is the United States' established financial system of its own; is it too weak and dependent to do that?" I answer: "The United States has a financial policy which in the main it has been pursuing since the beginning of the government and which it does not mean to change until it can find a better one. Those who make the inquiry are usually against our American policy of finance and they are insisting that we shall adopt the financial policy of China and Mexico. I hope it will not be thought an evidence of lack of national spirit and national independence that we decline to adopt their proposition. (Great applause.) I thank you for this call and am gratified by any unusual incident which you bring to me from your great national body. (Applause). The speech was warmly applauded.

ADDRESS TO UNITED BRETHREN.

At four o'clock a large delegation of United Brethren clergymen who are attending a conference here, called on Major McKinley. Bishop J. H. Mills, of Oregon, stood in behalf of the clergymen and Major McKinley in response said: "It gives me sincere pleasure to respond to this call of greetings and congratulations. I am duly appreciative of the message of good will which you so kindly bring from the great religious body you represent. It is a good omen when religious teachers are alive to the question of affecting the public welfare. Nothing is more worthy of your study and consideration than those questions which tend to make the country great, prosperous and religious. Civic virtue is a good thing for the preacher always, but a better thing for every citizen to guard in his daily life. Good citizenship lies at the foundation of our true greatness as a free government. Those who preach it are in this and in all other respects the better citizen the better a free government and its laws. It is a gratifying fact as your states that in our form of government character counts not so much, the lack of it amounts to almost disqualification of public trust. Whatever man's individual opinions on moral questions may be, whether good or bad, whatever may be their party affiliations, all prefer that public officials shall be of high character. They may be headless of virtue and caroles in their own lives, but they insist that those who are to execute the public will be the men of unquestioned integrity. Public opinion demands this and happily all political parties respect it. I wish for every religious body and every other agency whose object is to elevate mankind the fullest measure of success. No nobler cause could engage your faculties. I trust that your conference here will be productive of good and that your stay here will bring pleasure to you as I am sure it has brought pleasure to our people and to our city. I will be glad to meet and to greet each one of you who have honored me today, and I thank you over and over again for the courtesy of the compliment of this call." (Great applause.) Major McKinley received even more messages of congratulation concerning his letter of acceptance today than yesterday.

THE NEWS THIS MORNING.

Weather Indications Today: fair; Northwesterly Winds.

- 1 War Ship Will Be Sent to Turkey. Li Hung Chang at New York.
2 Whitney's Budget of News.
3 (Local)--Defeat and Dumb Every Four Years. County Bonds to Be Issued.
4 Editorial. Comments of the Press.
5 (Local)--Foul Attempt at Murder. Another Scheme for the Yagallo. After the Bottlers.
6 (Local)--Society Gossip. Church Doings and Religious Talks.
7 News of the Suburbs. The party who went down to meet him was General James H. Wilson. Markets and Stocks.
8 Base Ball and Other Sports. Some Mean Tricks on Young Players.
9 An American View of Canada. Already Ready to Harness Niagara.
10 (Story)--"The Way of the Transgressor." Rare Bones These.
11 Hopes Hang on Oxygen Lens. Interesting Letter on Welsh Topics.
12 News Up and Down the Valley.

Herold's Weather Forecast.

New York, Aug. 28.--In the Middle States today fair and cool weather, light variable winds, followed by rising temperature. Sunday, fair to partly cloudy, warmer, southwesterly winds, followed by heavy rain or thunder storms in the lake regions, possibly extending eastward to the coast by night.

Objections to Rutledge.

Harrisburg, Aug. 28.--John J. Monagan has filed objections in the Dauphin county court to the certificate of nomination filed by William N. Rutledge, at the state department building, in the Pennsylvania election for the legislature in the 27th Legislature district.

FINLEY'S

Wednesday, AUG. 26TH

WE Open Our New Stock OF Fall Dress Goods

COMPRISING THE Latest Novelties in Black and Colored Dress Goods

Designs are exclusive and an early inspection will insure choice of patterns.

510 AND 512 LACKAWANNA AVENUE

Always Busy. Cool Shoes for Hot Feet.

Our 5c. Outing Shoes sale begins today and every day in August for

The Boys and Girls.

LEWIS, REILLY & DAVIES

A LARGE AND WELL SELECTED STOCK OF FINE JEWELRY

CAN BE SEEN AT 408 SPRUCE STREET

When you pay for Jewelry you might as well get the best. A fine line of Novelties for Ladies and Gentlemen.

W. J. Weichel 408 Spruce St.

MATTHEWS BROTHERS

Atlantic Lead, French Zinc, Enamel Paints, Carriage Paints, Reynolds' Pure Colors, Reynolds' Wood Finish, Crockett's Preservative.

Ready Mixed Tinted Gloss Paints, Strictly Pure Linseed Oil, Guaranteed