WEST SIDE EVENTS.

Board of Trade Elects Alfred Twining Its Secretary and Transacts Other Live Business.

When the Franklins were stamping about at their meeting the West Side board of trade was beginning to petition the mayor to stop the stamping. In addition to acting on the fire company trouble the board transacted much important business, all of which made up a lively meeting.

Secretary Daniels resigned his position and Alfred Twining, who was not present, was elected to the office by acclamation. The election was undoubtedly the best that could be made. Twining is in constant touch with matters that interest the West Side, he is a fearless writer, and controls a channel for his views. He is also a member of the board and can give two members the benefit of his daily observation. All in all, Mr. Twining will make just the kind of secretary that the board needs—a hustler.

The board directed its street and bridges committee to look after the bad streets on this side. Among the many are: Ninth street, Swetland street and Washburn street. There is a bad rut at the corner of Main avenue and Washburn street and on the last named thoroughfare a pile of stones has been carelessly heaped, thus interfering with traffic. Lusorne street and Main avenue intersection needs a cross walk. These will be brought to the attention of the authorities.

The board started a movement to get a chemical fire company for the West Side and the park committee was asked to meet the city park commissioners and bring about the much wanted breathing spot. Joseph Ansley was elected to membership in the board.

WOMAN WAS ASSAULTED.

Two cases of assault and battery were heard before Alderman Moses last evening. On Monday of this week Joe Lebecky, a Pole, struck Mrs. Ludwig Terthly with his fist. The woman was so badly injured that she could not leave her bed to attend the hearing last night. Her husband appeared as prosecutor. Lebecky was held under $300 bail to appear at court. The people live on Continental between Lehigh and David Morgan for assault. It was said at the hearing that Morgan struck Jenkins in the eye on South Main avenue, Monday night. The case was settled.

P. O. S. OF A CONVENTION.

Hundreds were converted during their meetings recently held at Carbondale. They close tonight a very successful campaign in Forest City. A service preparatory to their work in the tent will be conducted in the Hampton Street church by the pastor this evening at 7.30 o'clock.

The board of trade will meet at Storrs' hall, Alder street, Friday evening, providing a quorum materializes. One by one the active members are dropping off in their attendance, and it has been left to six or eight to keep the board from disintegrating during the past year. When the board was active in bringing new industries to the South Side, it was considered an honor to belong to it, and its sphere of usefulness is as broad now as it was then, but no interest is taken in the meetings.

HER TONGUE WAS TOO READY.

It is alleged the officer grasped young Westcott and threw him through a window, seriously injuring him. The boy lay where he fell for some time. ## AMUSEMENTS.

Manager Davis experiences no little pride in announcing as his attraction for three days, beginning tomorrow, Rice and Barton's Gaiety Spectacular Extravaganza company. Rice and Barton are acknowledged stars, and they will appear in an entirely new entertainment, supported by artists of high rank and rare versatility, including a chorus of pretty vocalists and dancers. The extravaganza, staged and mounted with absolute perfection, is a variety of the times, and replete with a variety of the most novel features, including a series of elaborate scenes, in which the artist and the costume divide the honors, as well as incidents in which comedy reigns supreme.

It is expected that the engagement of Miss Margaret Fuller at the Academy of Music on Friday will be highly successful. Miss Fuller is said to be endowed with a fine appearance, attractive features, a musical voice and strong dramatic talent. Her play is a new one, written especially for her, and it is interesting and absorbing in the dramatic and heart interests which run through it. As a star Miss Fuller is unknown to American audiences, but for several years she has toured Great Britain with more than a measure of financial success. This is her first tour of America. She will be supported by Mr. Henry Jewett and a company of actors.

Harry Clay Blaney, who is the leading comedian with "A Boy Wanted," was riding in the country with a prominent lawyer the other day and after a few hours' ride stopped at a hotel. While seated on the porch a grizzled old farmer who was seated nearby invited Harry to take a stroll. As they went along, the old man occasionally looked at Harry's crooked legs meandering down the road. At length he said: "Well, young man, when was a boy I was a trifle bow-legged myself and my dad made me tote sticks on the inside of my legs so as to straighten 'em, but I reckon that you was brought up a-straddle a barrel, because you're more bow-legged than a chicken's wish-bone. He will be at the Academy on Saturday."

MR. DUREN'S FACE.

It Brought Him a Letter Not Fully Addressed.

That Fred Durre, hotelkeeper, counsellor and general good fellow, is well known, is a fact, and a recent happening more than carries out the truth of the assertion. A few days ago Mr. Durre was handed by the postman an envelope dated Birmingham, N. Y. The striking peculiarity of this particular envelope was that it bore only the words: "Scranton, Pa." Yet it reached the right man.

The secret of the delivery can be seen on the left end of the envelope, where a newspaper cut of Mr. Durre had been pasted by the Parlor City sender. The features were so generally known, and especially to the mail force, that the letter journeyed as easily as if the whole address was there.

WREN'S NEST IN HIS CUFFS.

Little Mother Bird Puts Detachable Linen to a New Use.

From the New York Press.

Over in Montrose there is a foreman of a large hotel who has a collection of "pigeon holes" back of his desk. One day he pulled off his cuffs, rolled them up and placed them in the aforesaid pigeon holes.

Soon a little wren flew through the window of the office and decided that inside the rolled cuffs would be a good nesting place. She was not disturbed, and is now sitting on her little nest, the little window being left open for her. No one is allowed to molest the bird or disturb its nest.

MARKETS AND STOCKS.

Wall Street Review.

New York, Sept. 8.—Speculation at the Stock exchange during the early trading was in favor of the bulls. Traders were working for lower prices on theory that a reaction was overdue and they met with a fair degree of success in certain parts of the list, notably Manhattan. In the first half hour or so of business prices declined anywhere from 1/4 to 3/8 per cent. Manhattan was freely sold and sustained the heaviest loss, falling to 1/8 against 3/4 at the close on Saturday. Manhattan's weakness affected the entire list, but the losses were generally confined to the first half hour. The official announcement was made that the directors of the Manhattan had declared the regular dividend of 1/4 per cent. The Western Union executive committee have also recommended the payment of the regular quarterly dividend. Another favorable development was the statement of the St. Paul road for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1896, against a deficit of $100,725 in 1895. The developments referred to started up business in the market. In the last hour of business and prices bounded up rapidly. A sharp demand to cover short contracts prevailed at this time and commission houses were busy. The advance which followed ranged from 1/4 to 3/8 per cent. Manhattan rose 3/8, Sugar 3/4, Burlington and Quincy 3/4, Chicago Gas, Chicago Gas, Rock Island 3/4, General Electric 1/2, Louisville and Nashville 1/2, Tennessee Coal and Western Union 1/2. Speculation closed strong with prices at or near the top figures of the day. Not changes show advances of 1/4 to 1 per cent. on the day. Total sales were 191,035 shares. Furnished by WILLIAM LINN, ALLEN & CO., stock brokers, Mears building, rooms 706-707.
