BUTLER TRIES TO DOWN WATSON

He Would Sacrafice the Populist to Aid the Chicago Ticket.

LARGE ASSORTMENT OF CANDIDATES BRYAN TO TALK AT WASHINGTON vited guests will come with her to be

Bureau of The Tribune. 501 14th St., N. W.,

Washington, Sept. 10. Senator Butler, the head and front of the Populist committee, bitterly opposes Sewall's withdrawing from the Democratic ticket. He has agreed to call Tom Watson down for his attacks on the Maine gentleman, and in such a way as to weaken the influence of Watson wherever he may go. Butler, as all politicians of his stripe, is seeking the advancement of self, and he has thrown his political chances in with those of Bryan, and in fact with the whole Chicago ticket, platform and all. From the very first, that is since the second St. Louis convention, it has been clearly discernable to the man up a tree the Chicago ticket, and was sacrificing Watson to do so. At the time this arrangement was perfected between Jones and Butler, it was made known in these dispatches. Butler was to throw all the Populist support he could to Bryan and Sewall, in return for which he was to name a cabinet officer and control the patronage of North Carolina, should Bryan be elected. Then again as part and parcel of the programme, Butler, who is chairman of the Notification committee, was to fail to notify Bryan. He also intended to snub Watson, but that gentleman has been able to force a notification to himself by mail. Butler had hoped to hang by the heels on the political fence until November. But Watson has rounded up his forces and following so effectually that Butler will now be compelled to show his hand.

Watson is a vindictive creature. On the whole, too, he is pretty honest. He is certainly more honest than Butler. If Watson had consented to stay in Georgia, as Butler wanted him to do, and so advised, all would have gone well enough. It was Butler's idea to get Watson properly fixed in some good office after all was over, for which Wat son was to throw to Sewall any electors he might have bagged in the present political shake-up.

Here is where Watson's honesty has become dangerous. He will not make terms with Jones and would rather be side-tracked by Butler. He has gone into Texas and encouraged fusion with the Republicans there. So successful has he been that Democrats from that state are fearful lest it be lost to them. He now intends to go into other states and shatter fusion of Democrats and Populists wherever he can.

Butler, to discount Watson's influence, is going to call him down. He struck a note of warning in an official failures at New Orleans cause teminterview wherein he refused to believe that Watson had been correctly quoted in his remarks about Sewall and the and some spring wheat states and Chicago ticket in general. As soon as Watson verifies his former attacks by profitable to sell at present, the nummaking others, the said Butler will pro- ber of manufacturing works and mines ceed to take the wind out of the Geor- in operation does not gain, but rather

Watson is showing Sewall's record up ditions diminish for a time the buying better than the Republicans have been power occasionally resisted by strikes, able to do. It is a fact that Sewall is and all these conditions diminish for willing to withdraw. He is not in ac- a time the buying power of the people. cord with the Chicago platform and While many think general improvemoreover he doesn't like the crowd he is with. Butler holds the key to the situation now. If he can muzzle Watson and so weaken his influence as to keep it from jeopardizing Democratic success, Sewall will be prevailed upon to stay on the ticket, sacrificing his reputation for the chances of the of-

One thing is certain when Watson sees there is a chance for him he will do his utmost to defeat Bryan and Sewall, preferring to see McKinley and Hobart elected than the triumph of those who have betrayed him.

AN ASSORTMENT OF TICKETS.

There are more presidential tickets in the field this year than ever before. There is a "large and varied assortment," to use an old expression, sufficiently varied to suit any complexion of tastes. There are six presidential tickets now in the field-McKinley and Hobart, Bryan and Sewall, Bryan and Watson, Primer and Buckner, Leering and Johnson, and Bentley and South-

In all our previous political history there has been no such multiplicity of national tickets. The nearest approach to it was in 1860, when there were four nation came into power between noon. only two presidential tickets in the shouting people. field at this time, with Bryan at the head of one and McKinley at the head of the other. The other three tickets can serve no other immediate purpose, in the end, than to assist in giving victory to one of these two. Sound money men fully understand and appreciate the sentiment which causes so many staunch Democrats to hall the Indian- swamp, but both soon came to a standapolis ticket with enthusiasm, and to throughout the country.

When Henry B. Payne, who died at his home in Cleveland, O., on Wednesday, was in the senate, he was one of up a tree in the fair grounds, and were the most dignified members of that wild until the sheriff arrived and body. He was a gentleman of the old chained them. "Jim" was severely bitschool and had only a few intimate as- ten by hornets and is in a very ugly sociates. He and Senator Evarts of mood tonight. New York were very chummy. were opposite in politics, but that did not interfere with their personal relations. They were always together They invariably lunched together in the senate restaurant, and both usually ate the same food. They were both very fond of mush and milk. The waiter soon got to know what they wanted, and Proprietor Page of the Senate Cafe had two large bowls made especially for of a peculiar-phenomenon which is these two old cronies. They seldom ate anything else for their mid-day lunch. It is said that Senator Evarts. tho was brought up in New York city. had never eaten corn gruel until Ser ator Payne came to the senate. The and was "brought up" on this very se ductive dish. The first day he took mush and milk. The dish was practically unknown or was one of the things that had long since been marked off the senatorial bill of fare, and Senator the name is not a matter of imagina-pressed himself. Proprietor Page at nce ordered a sack of corn meal, and today mush and milk is one of the most popular dishes in the Senate

Restaurant. Ex-Senator Blair, of New Hampshire, now a representative from that state, is in the city. He predicts a majority of from 15,000 to 20,000 for McKinley in the Granite State this year.

Candidate Bryan is booked to make a speech in Washington on Saturday, Six Presidential Candidates Now in Sept. 19th. He will have a large and the Field -- Billy Bryan Will Waste | ience, but what he expects to gain by One Day in Washington -- Prospects his one night stand in this city is more than anybody can imagine. At least of Large Republican Majorities in nine-tenths of his hearers will be non-New Hampshire and the Western voters, and 90 per cent. of the remaining one-tenth will vote for McKinley. It will be one day of wind lost for the boy orator to speak here, and from the looks of things he cannot afford to waste words or time in this campaign. But as he is already beaten, what's the difference where he speaks?

Mr. Thomas Alvord, Jr., Washington correspondent of the New York World. who has been in the middle western states, Indiana, Illinois, Iowa and Wisconsin-for the past two months, has returned to this city. Mr. Alvord has always been a Democrat. He was sent out west by the World to take a personal inventory of the political situation. He canvassed the states above mentioned very cheerfully and is con-vinced that they will go for McKinley by large majorities. So certain is he that Indiana and Illinois will go Rethat Butler was aiding in the election of publican that he offers to bet $100 to $10 on either state. Mr. Alvord thinks, however, that Governor Altgeld will be re-elected, but the electoral vote of Illinois will go for McKinley by at least 50,000. He says Iowa and Wisconsin will go for the Ohio candidate by increased majorities. He predicts Bryan's defeat in the country by an overwhelming ma-jority. Other correspondents who have been in the same states make the same prediction.

The gold mine owner, who so gencrously contributed $10,000 to the Bryan campaign fund is none other than Senator Jones of Nevada. Jones is an Englishman by birth, made his fortune in silver mining, but has now invested large fortunes in gold mines for himself. He is director for certain estates in some of the largest silver mines in the

She comes like the royal princess of splendor that she is, in her own palace car, built ex-pressly for her and called "The Lillian Russell." In this car she will lodge and take her meals during the forty George W. Leaderer, of the Messrs. Canary and Lederer who staged the production will accompany

"An American Beauty" is the apt title of the new work. It is by Hugh Morton and Gustave Kerker. It is said to be a departure from the ordinary comic opera and is declared to be the best medium that Miss Russell ever had for the exhibition of her talents, It will be a costly production, the scenery of which there are two full car loads, being of the most elegant description and the costumes being from Worth and Felix of Paris. The principals and chorus number seventyfive. Among the former their are the most noted soloists and comedians of our time. Miss Russell says she is imply delighted with her new role. It gives her more freedom than former productions and affords ample opportunities for her to shine as a comedienne. Everyone will be anxious to see this beautiful woman in a new character. Souvenirs will be given to ladies on the opening night.

Lillian Russell and company will arrive in the city this evening in a special train over the Lehigh Valley railroad and will give the first performance of "An American Beauty," at the Frothingham. The "American Beauty" company includes six comedians and a host of fair young vocalists. Manager George W. Lederer, of the Casino, accompanies the company and the new opera will be staged under his personal direction.

A new bidder for popular priced favor this season is the Susia Kirwin Opera company, which began its tour at Washington on Aug. 29, and is already booked solid for fifty-two weeks. Susie Kirwin, of course, is the leading light, with Carla Englander, who has in New York in German pany of forty, carrying complete speclal scenery and a new wardrobe. The repertoire will include "Carmen," "Mignon," "Queen's Lace Handker-chief," "Madame Favart," and a triple bill of the "Offenbach" order yet to be arranged. A unique feature is a carefully planned departure from conventionality in the chorus, which Miss Kinwin intends to make a most attractive adjunct. To this end the chorus girls are chosen only from those who have never been on the stage, and they must be, above all things, pretty Marches and dances will be arranged for them, and the selection of inexperlenced once is undertaken, it is said, "in the hope of securing a chorus that will not insist upon standing idly in

This season promises to be an eventful one regarding music in Scranton Among these who have lately come to this city are Mr. and Mrs. Thiele, who are among the foremost members of the excellent faculty of the famous Scharwanka Conservatory of Music, New York. But not alone are they experienced teachers, but are artists as well, and of no mean reputation, for Mrs. Thiele's pure soprano voice has been heard in concert with such great artists as Frl. Aus der Ohe, Prof. Scharwenka, William Scherwood America's greatest planist, and many others. Mr. Thiele, who succeeds the much lamented Herr Kopff as teacher here, has played the violin with the inimitable great diva, Mme. Christin Neilsson, the Mendelssohn quintette of Boston, and others all over this country and Australia. It is to be hoped that they will be heard in conjunction with some of the above named artists in Scranton this winter. Mr. and Mrs. Thiele open their school of music at 529 Spruce street, Monday, Sept. 14, where they will receive their pupils, and all persons who are interested in good equalled in the city.

Miss Florence Urban, daughter of Rev. A. L. Urban, the former assistant rector of St. Luke's Parish, Scranton, recently passed a highly creditable examination in music by Dr. H. A. Clarke the eminent theorist and mu-sician of Philadelphia. Through Dr. Clarke's advice she will compete for a scholarship in The Broad Street Con-servatory of Music, Philadelphia this fall.
