THERE'S A REMEDY FOR THE DISTRESS

Present Financial Crisis Considered by Rev. Dr. C. M. Giffin.

SERMON ON A POPULAR SUBJECT

Nation's Difficulty Brought About by Is the Remedy -- American People

The sermon in Elm Park church last night was characteristic of the pastor, Rev. Dr. C. M. Giffin, In text, theme and subject matter it had to do particularly with the present financial distress from a preacher's standpoint, but was calculated to interest the professed and non-professed Christian

Dr. Giffin's argument was that there was too much supposed political science and its consequent bickerings and too fittle brotherhood and cheer. He em. that makes it possible to recover from any kind of national misfortune and argued that the present financial and political crisis had been brought about y too much haste and too little modertion. He was sanguine that all present troubles would be soon righted. "And now I exhort you to be of good cheer; for there shall be no loss of any man's life among you, but on the ship. Acts xxvii: 22, was the text. He said, in part: CAST ASIDE FEAR. In case of great distress, critical situations, the presence of impending calamity, there is one thing that must be cast aside—fear. At such times cheer is the duty of the hour, and it is Paul's suggestion that I am going to throw out to you tonight. It is not a violent remedy; it is a peaceful one and is in keeping with a minister's duty—that of being a peacemaker, not a greate disturber.

After the secanon the announcements were made by Rev. Father Moffitt. Masses this morning will be at 6 and 7 o'clock; tomorrow morning at 5, 7 and 8 o'clock; confessions to duty—that of being a peacemaker, not a peace disturber.

I am not going to tell you the theoretical remedy; we must leave that to the political scientists, though among their number there seems to be too many counsellors and not enough comforters. In behalf of my class I shall surgest the advice of Paul and not of supposed statesmen. He was not a mariner, but he was a good counseilor, Various remedies, technical, most of them are mentioned, but we must turn aside from all of them at the start and "be of good cheer."

First, it is necessary to find the cause. If the cause was God's will there would be no need for trying to trace it, but the condition of this case is very much like a physical pain; we get the pain and we scurry around after the doctor to find out what is means. It is the most file kind of nonsense to imagine that the thing which has been must have been. That's plain, isn't it? To make it plainer; it is nonsense to suppose a thing which has been must have been if the cause can be removed, if that is possible there is no wisdom in saying that the cause was a result of a natural law.

wisdom in saying that the cause was a result of a natural law.

IT'S RANK IDIOCY.

Yet we find people—I don't know what to call them—who say, "Well, it is something that could not have been prevented; let the storm rage in all its fury; I will weather it as best I may." Rank bidocy!"

We are here to say in just a few simple words just how this present state of unrest was brought about. There has been a lack of moderation. The sober thought of the American pulpit has said to you long ago, "Move slowly." Americans, however, don't like moderation. "Impartence" is a natural characteristic; there is too much of foolish dash, rush and push; too much of foolish dash, rush and push; too much foolhardy headlongness without a proper and previous study of consequences. The best way out of it is "prudence;" perhaps a better way of puting it would be by using the word "conomy" in its broad sense, economy of resources, of energy, of thought, of wealth if you please. A wise expenditure on a certain outlays is commendable, but too much hanging on to what we have got through fear of the future is reprehensible.

Things might have been worse; there is a deal of consolation in that, Some one says, "it couldn't be worse." So? You say, "it couldn't be worse." So? You say I don't know what I am talking about: o'clock in the Linden street synagogue.

FORTY HOURS' DEVOTIONS.

Side, Yesterday Morning.

Forty Hours' Devotion was begun at Rev. J. A. Moffitt, was celebrant, Rev. H. P. Burke was deacon, and Rev. D. W. McCarthy, of Minooka, was subdeacon. There was such a large congation present that over 200 worshippers had to kneel on the steps of the church and in the yard. Rev. T. F. Kernan, of Parsons, was necessary to set aside last night for the men and tonight for women because the church is too small for the large congregation. Rev. Father Kernan's text was, "Have Pity on Thy Own Soul," Eccleoften have heard of King Solomon, he say that each one lisenting to him is FARR CAPTURED richer than ever King Solomon was they would be startled. What! I as rich as that king? One would ask who is clad in garments of poverty and at times has not half enough to eat.

UNDERVALUE OUR SOULS. But it is true, said the speaker, for we have immortal souls, and if we are startled at placing our wealth above Solomon's, it is only because we have undervalued our souls. How does God value the soul, God who is omnipotent and the ruler of the boundless uni-Luck of Moderation -- Casting Aside verse? Despite all their crimes and even though they were labsing into idoltary, still God Can Rise Above Any Great Trouble. selected them as His chosen people gave them innumerable gifts, took them from the darkness of slavery and bondage and established them in the happiness and peace of the Promised Land. Not for all the gold, silver and preclous stones of King Solomon or of the world, or of a thousand worlds, would God shed even one drop of blood; but for even one soul He was willing to shed the last drop. It is wise to learn from an enemy. The devil is the greatest enemy of human souls. St. Peter says he goes about like a roaring lion seeking whom he may devour; a hunphasized the peculiar American trait gry lion seeking for souls, and the devil would give all the wealth of the world to damn one soul.

- LAYS WARY TRAPS. He lays wary traps to enmesh them, through pride, through covetousness, fame, honor, and the vanieties of the world. A man will make the excuse that he has no time to attend to his religious duties, but the same man has time for worldly pursuits, amusements, pleasures, and so on, but no time for his soul. The speaker urged his hear-

You say I don't know what I am talking about; I say you don't know what you're talk; ing about. If a furnace spark burns a serious and painful wound in your linger, that's bad; but if it burns your eye out that's worse, isn't it? We can lessen our distresses and bring cheer to our souls in standing by one another; defeat selfishness; on board the ship let the sailors, the passengers and the soldiers stand by together. Brotherhood is not idle talk in times like these. I tell you these are times when the poor emphasize the fact, through a condition brought about through the forced hurry of business and linance, that they are the brothers of the rich. I'm not endorsing communism, though; if the fact that they are the brothers of the rich. That's sense, that's brotherhood, it is very man who is willing to work, but every man who is willing to work, but there's flower who is a church suitable to the needs of the people. His labors have been so successful that the outlook for a church free of debt within a few years is bright.

Miss Elsie A. C. VanDervoort, the contraile, who has returned from her vacation, passed with her parents in Mt. Vernow, There's pinching in the houses the great satisfaction of living for them and making your and their lives a success, and finally there's chough left on which to begin a song. "Be of good cheer."

I know that there are many wealthy men who cannot get money from the banks on any kind of security. Such is the consequence of hick of moderation and it gives the laborer who cannot get credit at the corner grocery a chance to get even and grind the capitalist.

Put your face toward God and be thankful. It will soon be over. I am not telling how, but I know how. I am preaching citizenship, patriotism, brotherhood.

CANNOT BE CRUSHED.

The great American people may be crowded down, but they cennot be completely crushed. We are of the Angio-Saxon race, never subdued and never will be subdued. It is an always evident truth that the fittest will survive. We are a concern rich enough to give food to all the poor, strong enough to endure and hopeful enough to tack on our front door a sign telling that business will resume tomorrow.

Praise God for all this, Do not profanc the qualities and the power he has given you. Be moderate; cast aside fear, and "be of good cheer" and all will be well.

Lively Contests in the First Legislative District Saturday.

FIVE CANDIDATES IN THE FIELD rope, by means of the life belt.

Of the Thirty-six Delegates in the District Mr. Farr Figures That Twenty-one Have Been Elected to Support Him -- Convention Will Be Held Tomorrow Afternoon in St. David's Datt.

This is the result as nearly as can ascertained of the Republican primaries conducted Saturday afternoon in the First legislative district to elect delegates who will tomorrow nominate a candidate for the state legisla-

Mr. Farr's victory is noteworthy. He had four opponents each of whom was well-known and well fitted for the duties of the office. Besides this, Mr. Farr has served three terms in the legislature and the North End was clamoring for the plum this time.

The interest which Saturday's primaries aroused in the district has seldom, if ever, been equalled. In nearly every district there were five sets of delegates and each polling booth had quite an army of workers. A strong, persistent fight was kept up from 4 p. m., when the polls opened, until 7 p. m., the closing hour. At many of the districts conveyances to bring out the crippled, the thoughtless, or the tired, were used. Politicians in the district, of every station, were concerned in the battle, and many business and professional men were, also, arrayed on one side or the other. The poll was a

Twelve-Year-Old Boy Comes Hithe on a Lark,

While standing on the corner of Lackawanna and Penn avenues yesterday afternoon about 4 o'clock Patrolman Sloat had his attention attracted to a lad of about twelve years who was spending money at a peanut stand John R. Farr, 21 Isane Jones 11; with the freedom of a prince. After M. E. Sanders, 5; E. E. Robathan, 6; watching him for some time he said watching him for some time he said the lad flashed a roll of bills and thinking it rather suspicious that a youngster should be going about with so much money in his pocket, he called him over and started to question him. The result was the discovery that the boy is undoubtedly a runaway and that he stole a large amount of money from his home,

He said his name was Charles Van Horn, son of Edward Van Horn, a truck farmer of Dorrancetown, Luzerne county. His father, according to the story he told Captain Edwards, gave him a roll of money and permission to come to Scranton and spend a few days. He came on the trolley cars as far as Duryea, walked to Mudtown and from there rode to Scranton in company with a boy who works in H. E. Kulp's livery. This latter boy, who is 17 years of age and gives the name of Frank Shear, was caught in Riley Edward's stable as he was putting up his horse. He and the Van Horn boy were put in different rooms and questioned alternately. Their stories conflicted in so many details that the police were assured that they were up to some wrong doing and decided to hold them

The Van Horn boy had $24.90 on his person. He bought a whip for fifty ents on the road to Scranton and gave Shear $2 for driving him from Mudtown. The police communicated with the Van Horn boy's father and also with Shear's employer, Liveryman Kulp.
