Mrs. H. L. Ames, of William street, Providence, left home Monday, and her busband believes she was induced to do so by Charles Decker, of Edwardsdale. His belief is that they are together and he has had warrants issued for their arrest and will endeavor to run them down.

In conversation with a Tribune reporter vesterday Mr. Ames said it was not the first time Decker had made trouble for him. About two years ago he resided at Edwardsville, where his wife and Decker became acquainted. They became fast friends and when soon after he (Ames) was called away from home for a time his wife and Decker were almost inseparable during his absence, Upon his return he forgave his wife after she had promised to mend her ways and soon afterwards he took her to this city to live. Decker still pursued her. Last Monday he called at short time. Soon after Decker departed. Ames says, his wife left the house saying she was going to the milk depot. did not return and upon investigation he found that she had left town with Decker. Supporters of Former Pastor Held a in Opposition to Anti-Aust Faction. Father Aust Went to New York Monday and will Return Today.

Rev. Richard A. Aust is no longer pastor of St. Mary's Polish Catholic church on the South Side; his successor, Rev. Father Dombienski, of Hazleion, was appointed yesterday by Rt. ackawanna Rev. Bishop O'Hara. The new paster will assume charge immediately, and will officiate at the masses and services next Sunday. Father Aust is not in the city; he has been away since Mon-day in New York, but he will return today, and it is not known what his plans are. The trouble is far from being over yet.

J. A. Lipinski, Joseph Nytch, Leor Olchefski, Martin Rabega, Michael Sni-ter, Mathias Sufka and Ladislaw Sniter tited upon Bishop O'Hara yesterday to learn his ultimatum with regard to Father Aust. They would be satisfied with nothing short of his removal. Bishop Hoban was present also. Li-pinski, et. al., had reached the episcopal esidence only a short while before about two dozen young men came to plead Father Aust's case. They were ed by Joseph Galbiesh and William Cabo, and told the bishop they came to represent the younger element. They aid that there is a large majority of the congregation in favor of seeing Father Aust remain in charge of the parish, and they hoped the bishop would respect the wishes of this number, instead of listening to the voice of a mi-

NO MONEY FOR EXPENSES.

They said, too, that they were inormed on trustworthy authority that the other faction intends when Father Aust is gone, to run the parish and make the church treasury stand the expenses incurred in the agitation against Father Aust. It all amounts to over $500 and is made up of the claims of the persons who served on the various committees going to see the bishop, here and at Ashley, and going to see Cardinal Satolli at Baltimore, and the fines paid by the rioters.

Bishop O'Hara assured them that the anti-Aust faction will not get one penny out of the church treasury to defray their expenses. The young men said they are willing to abide by the decision of the bishop in sending Father Dombienski to them, but they answered The bend of H. S. Gardner, tax collector him that the anti-Aust faction will reseive no quarter from them.

The two bishops had made up their minds what to do in the matter, and when the decisions was announced

Just as the business was about to begin a man edged his way through a pole on the end of which were two dead herring, attached to the pole by pieces of string. He spoke out loud that the anti-Faust faction is about as done for in the parish as the fish. There was great cheering and shouting at this allegorical display. The chairman called for the sentiment of the men and a great number of speeches were made. The chairman announced that the membership of the congregation is about 1,000 and that at most the anti-Aust crowd does not number more than 200. There were not more than 400 present, but the chairman said that didn't matter; a large number did not know the meeting was to be held, others could not come, but he was sure that there are 800 in sympathy with the priest.

COMMITTEE NAMED.

They say they will be able to do this as they have 800 out of 1,000. Some suggested building another church and having Father Aust as their pastor, giving the present property with its $9,600 or more of debts to the other side. #### DAY OF ATONEMENT.

Services Began Last Night in the Linden Street Synagogue---They Will Be Continued Today.

At sunset last evening began the Day of Atonement, one of the most hallowed of holy days to the Jewish faith, yet a day, which in its significance and teaching to the Jews, is conceived in its true meaning by but a comparatively small number of persons of other faiths It is a period for partial fasting and almost continuous worship and spiritual communion with God,

In the Linden Street synagogue last night a two-hour service was held, beginning at 7 oclock. Today, from 10 o'clock until sunset, a continuous service will be held, including two sermon by Rabbi J. Feuerlicht.

Last night Mr. Feuerlicht preached from the text; "How long will you halt between two opinions." It concerned the rebuilding of the altar, the "altar" having reference to humanity's faithfulness to God. The service, as will today's, was nearly all in the English tongue, and was according to the prayer book recently adopted by the Conference of American Rabbis,

The text of the sermon to be delivered about noon today will be "The atonement of the priest for himself, for his household and for the whole congregation of Israel." The text of the 4 o'clock sermon will be "I am a Hebrew," the words of Jonah.

Atonement to the Jew does not wholly mean the making of amends for his own sins to God; it, rather, signifies communion with God with a prayerful desire for Him to forgive the world, it being one of the tenets of the faith that the neighbor and the fellowman of the Already much of the looks upon it as "the entrance of God into humanity . . . making the huthe crowd bearing aloft above his head | der of the whole spirit and body to God; man race one with himself:" a surren a reconciliation of God to man.

The day and its observance does not imply penance, though one interpretation of the word "atonement" must in dicate to the contrary.

Every place of business in the city onducted by a Hebrew will be closed until this evening. There will be very few of the faith who do not at one time or another during the day attend the synagogue service; many will remain throughout the day, occasionally, perhaps, seeking the street for a short walk and fresh air.

THEY WILL HEAR MR. GREEN.

Many Manufacturers will Attend the Board of Trade Meeting.

Many manufacturers of this city and vicinity will probably take advantage of the general invitation extended by the board of trade to hear the address of C. A. Green, of the Philadelphia museums, in the board rooms next Monday evening. Special invitations have been extended to the members of the Pittston and Carbondale boards.

The city of Philadelphia has appropriated over $1,000,000 for the erection and maintenance of the Museums. which is a bureau for gathering manufacturing statistics and samples of raw material from all over the world. and furnishing technical information to manufacturers free of charge. Mr. Green is thoroughly acquainted with all branches of the work. In addition to his address, he will show illustrated samples of manufactured goods of foreign countries. The addresses will occupy three-quarters of an hour.

At this meeting a complete state ment of the Twin shaft fund will be made, along with the report of the auditors, James A. Linen, H. J. Ander-son and W. H. Peck. The fund and Mr. Paine was bound in the same amounted to $16,381.50.

Turnpike Company's Secretary and Five Workmen Arrested.

ANOTHER SEASON OF LITIGATION

The Long Standing Difficulty Between the City and Providence and Abington Turnpike Company is Due for Another Airing in Court -- Excitement on West Market Street Yesterday .- Hearing this Morning.

In response to a telegram to his summering place on the New England coast, Street Commissioner Kinsley came home yesterday afternoon, and went up to West Market street and placed Secretary H. E. Paine and five of the Turnpike company's workmen under arrest. The prisoners were hauled before Alderman Millar in the patrol wagon and bound over for a hearing at 9 o'clock this morning. The charge against them is repairing a public street without a permit.

There is more in this than would appear in the mere charge. The confpany is bound by its charter to keep the road in repair. The city, in consideration of the removal of the toll gate, without the city limits assumed this responsibility in 1888. The city failed to make satisfactory repairs. the Turnpike company did the work itself, the city was sued for the cost and after long drawn-out litigation in the local and Supreme courts the company got a verdict for $2,200.

On the appeal of the case, Justice Williams handed down an opinion, which, according to the construction the city puts on it, makes the street sole property of the city, but which, according to the Turnpike company's reading, is a decision to the effect that they still own the street, and that the contract of 1888 is still binding. There were several skirmishes over the matter recently, and a number of conferences looking to an amicable arrangement of the existing dif-

WANT ROAD REPAIRED. The Turnpike people demanded that the city proceed at once to repair the street threatening to do it themseles at the city's expense, as in the previous instance, if the repairs were not myle forthwith. The city sent a gang of men to make the repairs on the first of the present month, but it seems their work was of such a character as to cause the Turnpike people to believe it was a mere pretext, to make evidence for the impending litigation, and on Monday last they sent a gang of their own men, inder Secretary Paine, to make repairs that were repairs. Upon hearing of this Foreman George Perigo, who was acting as street commissioner in Mr. Kinsley's absence, notified the mayor, and his honor in turn called in the city's special attorney, S. B. Price. The conference resulted in Mr. Perigo being directed to order Secretary Paine and his men to cease work under pain of arrest. Mr. atonement was flagellation, blood sacri- Perigo, upon performing his mission, was told to go to grass, or, to be more exact, to a place where it is said good intentions take the place of asphalt and vitrified brick. Mr. Perigo didn't go, but instead went to the telegraph office and wired his chief to come home at once, indicating in the telegram what

After a short consultation with Mayor Balley he started for West Market street in his carriage, leaving Foreman Perigo to bring up some officers and the patrol wagon. At a point in the road, about 500 feet this side of a culvert over Leggett's creek, the street commissioner came upon Secretary Paine and his five workmen building a macadam roadbed, Mr. Kinsley ordered them to stop. Mr. Paine told him go to, Mr. Kinsley threatened arrest, Mr. Paine asked for his warrant, Mr.

Kinsley told him it wasn't necessary to have one. Mr. Paine contended that it was. One word led to another and before either man had recovered his temper, things were said which men only say when in the heat of passion. In the midst of their debate the patrol wagon, with Foreman Perigo and Patrolmen Goerlitz, Palmer and Saltry hove in sight. "Get in there," ordered Mr. Kinsley With a little urging from the officers the five workmen climbed in. "You, too," rejoined Mr. Kinsley addressing the Turnpike secretary. "I'll come down in my carriage; you needn't fear but that I'll be on hand." "I'll make sure you'll be on hand. You go down in the patrol wagon with Sullenly Mr. Paine climbed in, and amidst the jeers and shouts of the bigger half of the Third ward the "hurry-up" and its freight started off for the central city. Mr. Kinsley was at Alderman Millar's office when the prisoners were marfurthering international commerce shaled in and was seemingly in a better mood than when he was up at the turnplke. He spoke, or rather attempted to speak, to Mr. Paine several times, but Mr. Paine never heard him. HEARING THIS MORNING.

Mr. Kinsley made his charge, and it was then agreed to adjourn until 9 o'clock this morning, as neither side had counsel on hand. The workmen were held in their own manner to be on hand at the hearing this morning. The names of the arrested workmen are Frank Stoder, Thomas McDonald, James McMahon and William Henry Diggs, colored. All took their arrest in a good humored way, with the exception of Stoder. He said he was 78 years of age and had never been deprived of his liberty before. He was jealous of his record and was sorry that it should be broken in his declining years,
