VERY LIVELY FIGHTING.

Teek Place Saturday Night at Washington Avenue and Hickory Street. Four Arrests Were Made.

Every Saturday night, as a rule, there is a fight in, around or about South Washington avenue and Hickory street. Last Saturday night it assumed the proportions of a riot. The belligerents were the rag-tag and bobtail of the two factions of the Police. The anti-Katke faction held a meeting at the saloon. Several of the other crowd got around after the meeting was over and attempted to mingle with the anti. The result was, as may be supposed, a free fight. Twenty or thirty men were engaged and blood flowed.

In the midst of the scrimmage Special Officer Lawrence Duhig appeared on the scene and attempted to interpose the majesty of the law. The special officer and the majesty of the law were used to sweep the floor with it. It might have gone ill with the special officer and his patrolmen, Ridgeway and Parry arrived on the scene and quelled the disturbance.
As a result of the figure which beer glasses, cuspidors, knives and policemen clubs cut in the affair there were many badly bruised and battered patrolmen. Special Officer Duhig was also pretty badly used up. The two patrolmen managed to arrest four of the belligerents. They were Mike Blanton, George Melyburn, Marsha Stonefort and John Butka. Matyhora was cut about the head so severely that Police Surgeon Dalton was called to attend him. The others also bore painful marks of the scrimmage. Blanton, who was recognized as the man who struck Special Officer Duhig over the head with a beer tap, paid a fine of $10 and had to pay $5 more to reimburse the officer for his broken hat. Matyhora and Butka were fined $10 apiece. Stonefort, who, it afterwards developed, tried to protect the officer, was discharged without a fine. Friends came around and settled the score for the other three and they went their way.

FUNERAL OF ENGINEER CODDINGTON.

Immense Outpouring of Fellow-Workmen, Friends and Neighbors.
The funeral of Arthur Coddington, the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western engineer killed in the wreck at Conklin, N. Y., Friday morning, took place at Halstead yesterday and was attended by the largest throng that ever composed a funeral cortege in that part of the country. Over 700 men, members of various organizations, marched at the head of a procession of 62 carriages, and besides these there were fully 500 other mourners and sympathizers. Friends and neighbors. The deceased had worked all his life in the northern division and so general was the desire among railroad men all along the route to attend the funeral that special trains were run from this city to Elmira to accommodate them.
The pallbearers and flower bearers were chosen from the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, Brotherhood of Railway Conductors, Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, Catholic Mutual Benefit Association of Great Bend; Ancient Order of Hibernians, of Great Bend, all of which organizations walked in the funeral procession.
The services were conducted in St. Lawrence's church, Great Bend, by the pastor, Rev. Father Fagin, who paid an eloquent tribute to the departed whose worth was attested by the great outpouring of those who lined the route. His fellow workmen and neighbors, to pay a last sad tribute to his memory.

WILLIAM J. ROBB DEAD.

Died at His Residence on Linden Street After Two Weeks' Illness.
William J. Robb, proprietor of the Crystal Palace, 211 Lackawanna avenue, died at his residence, 208 Linden street, at 4 o'clock yesterday morning after an illness of two weeks. He was attacked with inflammation of the bowels and was unable to perform his surgical operation on him. The indications pointed to his recovery, but he presumed too much on his recuperating strength and a relapse occurred. From Friday his physician, Dr. S. P. Longstreet, had no hopes of him.
Mr. Robb was well known in Scranton as a hotelkeeper. He conducted the Crystal Palace for several years. At 4 o'clock this afternoon services will be conducted at the late residence by Rev. Rogers Israel, rector of St. Luke's Episcopal church, and the remains will be taken on the 3 o'clock Delaware, Lackawanna and Western train tomorrow morning to Philadelphia for interment.

BIG MEETING OF THE CAR MAKERS

Was Addressed by William Connell and Major Everett Warren.

AN ABUNDANCE OF ENTHUSIASM

Meeting of the Republican County Committee Saturday—Washington's Farewell Address Read Before the Bryan and Sewall Club, Republican and Democratic Primaries—What the Prohibitionists Are Doing This Campaign.
If any doubt had existed as to the attitude of the employes in the Lackawanna and Western shops on the present great national issue that doubt was dispelled during the noon hour on Saturday when about 1,000 of them gathered in the construction shop and were addressed by William Connell, the Republican candidate for congress, and Major Everett Warren, to give the men an opportunity to eat their dinner the meeting was not called until 12:25 o'clock at which hour hundreds of oil and dirt-begrimed mechanics and laborers were gathered in front of the construction shop on South Washington avenue.
Inside the big structure a space had been cleared and a stand erected for the speakers and officers and seats arranged for the listeners. The accommodations for the latter were, however, far from sufficient and fully as many were standing as were seated. Their apparent interest, quietness and alertness to observe and hear everything during the meeting; their wrapt attention to the speakers, and their applause as were seated. HIS HEAD SQUEEZED BETWEEN CARS.

Timothy Costello, of Charles Street, Perhaps Fatally Injured.
Timothy Costello, of Charles street, was very seriously injured Saturday in the Marine shaft and he may die as the result. He is a young man and was employed as runner.
While trying to couple two cars that were in motion his hand was squeezed between the top frames, and it is a wonder that it was not mashed. He cried for help immediately and was rescued in quick time, but the impact of the cars was of such force that he is in a very dangerous condition.

FORGER LASALLE CAUGHT

He Operated Here Less Than a Year Ago. Came to the End of His Rope in New York.
Less than a year ago Claude R. Lasalle came to Scranton and secured a position as advertising manager on the journal issued by the Young Men's Christian association. After ingratiating himself into the confidence of several business people, he secured a number of worthless checks on them, none of them being of a large amount, but the aggregate was quite large, and then he left town.
He was arrested last Friday night in New York by detectives, and with him in custody a companion named Samuel Hage, both engaged in the same kind of business and wanted by the police of more than fifty cities of the United States. The offense upon which he was arrested was obtaining money on a $150 forged check from R. G. Duval, a real estate dealer of Scranton. Hage is a New England states and he worked all the summer resorts from New York to Boston. He never stayed more than a day in one city and it was difficult to keep track of him. He was drunk in a saloon at the corner of Third avenue and Third street when he was discovered by all officers of his family and friends. It is estimated that he has made $250,000 by his swindling operations, but that he has very little of it left.

AMUSEMENTS.

At the Academy of Music tonight "Cleopatra" will be the attraction. Edmund Collier and Mary Emerson will be the principals. There is no doubt but what Shakespeare embellished with beautiful scenery, costumes, the various light effects, such as caelestic electric and gas effects known to the modern stage, is more entertaining than he is without these adjuncts. Music of an oriental character, sung by a well drilled chorus, dance of an Egyptian nature, danced by beautiful ballerinas, vari-colored lights, a realism in the storm scene not excelled by anything, not even the modern drama, are used to illustrate the action of the drama.

Millinery Opening

WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 23. THURSDAY, SEPT. 24.
Our Thursday evening, Sept. 24, the pretty and accomplished comedienne, Emily Bancker, and a company especially selected, will present the amusing farce comedy, "Our Flat," in which she has so successfully starred the last two seasons. Young, ambitious and hopeful, with a rare endowment of keen perception for all that is artistic, refined and graceful in connection with her art, she has quickly but surely reached a position of positive prominence seldom vouchsafed to one so young. The play, "Our Flat," is by Mrs. Musgrave, who must be credited with having written one of the cleverest comedies of recent times. It is no wonder that the play is rapidly going to the front as one of the most popular in the line of farce. It is full of unexpected situations that fairly crowd each other, and is one continual roar of laughter and applause from the rise to the final fall of the curtain. "Our Flat" ran over 700 nights in London, and 100 nights at Daniel Frohman's fashionable Lyceum theatre, New York. The cast includes Miss Willard, Philip H. Ryley, George W. Parsons, H. D. James and other prominent players.

COMPANY HAS NOT YET BROUGHT SUIT

Its Workmen on Abington Turpike Will Again Be Arrested.

WHAT THE COUNCIL HAS DONE

Wanted to Fight the Matter Out to a Finish Once and for All—Special Meeting of Common Council Will Be Held Tonight to Consider Resolutions—Condemnation Proceedings Are Talked Of.
The arrangement entered into by the attorneys of the city and the Providence and Abington Turpike company before Alderman Millar Thursday, has fallen through. The company agreed to file a suit against the city Friday or Saturday that a case stated might be submitted as a means of amicably adjusting the existing differences, but the company failed to keep its part of the agreement and now the city proposes to have the troubles adjusted otherwise than amicably.
The first step decided upon is to re-arrest the gang of workmen now engaged in repairing the road and to keep on arresting them as long as they continue to defy the street commissioner's orders. This course must invariably bring about an official interpretation of the recent decision of Justice Williams, of the Supreme court, which one side reads one way and the other another.
It will also prevent the piling up of a big bill for repairs which the city would be called upon to pay if it should be the loser in the suit. S. B. Price, the attorney for the city, was so certain that the city would win that he agreed to allow the company to continue the repairing. The company is building a macadam roadway, and as this will, it is estimated, cost $70,000, councils felt that it was too much to risk on the uncertain outcome of a law suit.

ACTION OF COUNCILS.

That councils did not approve of the "amicable" business was attested by the action of the select branch, Thursday night, when resolutions were passed dismissing Mr. Price, the special attorney, directing the street commissioner to arrest all but city workmen found repairing the road, and instructing the city solicitor to go before the grand jury and ask for the condemnation of the turpike.
That the condemnation proceedings may be instituted before the adjournment of the sessions of the present grand jury, a special meeting of common council has been called for tonight to concur in the action of the upper branch. The common council have been canvassed and are almost a unit in favoring the resolutions. Mayor Bailey has indicated that his signature will not be withheld any great length of time after the measures come before him. It is therefore confidently expected that the petition for the condemnation of the road will go before the grand jury tomorrow.

NOT A DISMISSAL

To correct any false impression that might arise, it might be stated parenthetically that the only reason for Mr. Price's dismissal is that City Solicitor Torrey, who was formerly attorney for the Turpike company, is now free to act for the city, and it is deemed unnecessary now to continue the extra expense of a special attorney.

ATTRACTION MUCH ATTENTION.

Many Watch the Operations in the St. Cloud Window Kitchens.
One of the most metropolitan sights that Scranton presents to the view of strangers is the window kitchen in the St. Cloud, corner of Wyoming avenue and Linden street. At almost any time of the day or fore part of the night a crowd can be seen intently watching the operation of the cooks at one or the other of the new quick cooking contrivances which Proprietor P. P. Jordan has recently added to his culinary department.
One of these and probably the most interesting of all is an apparatus which enables a customer to have an oyster stew served up thirty seconds after the order is given.
