COMMONERS AND THE TURNPIKE MUDDLE

They Do Not Concur in All of the Selectmen's Ideas.

HOT SHOT FOR THE ATTORNEYS

Both the City Solicitor and the Special Attorney Came in for Criticism and Something That Probably Deserves a Harsher Name .- A "Jolly" for the Firemen .- Much Routine Business Transacted Despite the Wind.

Common council was called together in special session last night for general business, but particularly to coneral business, but particularly to con-cur in the resolution bearing upon the turnpike difficulty passed at Thursday night's session of the upper branch. Council did concur in two of the resolutions, the one for condemning the road and the other for the pre-venting of the company's workmen making repairs; but the third, which provides that the city valicity shall provides that the city solicitor shall take charge of the fight and that S. B. Price, the special attorney in the case. e dismissed, was not agreed to. There was a warm debate on the last two measures and particularly the one referring to the dismissal of Mr. Price. Mr. Sweeney moved to refer the resolution to its proper committee. Captain Moir spoke against this, advising immediate concurrence. He couldn't see the wisdom of hiring extra legal functionaries. Mr. Torrey had assured him that he was free to not for the city in the turnile case. act for the city in the turnplke case now and has been for eighteen months since his connection with the Turnpike company as attorney ceased.

Mr. Sweeney advised keeping Mr.

Price in the city's employ until the case had come to a final conclusion, if it was only to find out whether or not the city's special attorney has been an obstacle to the adjustment of the difficulty. Mr. Flanaghan also thought it would be wrong to discharge Mr. Price at this juncture. He be-lieved he should at least be associated with the city solicitor.

THAT DETECTIVE BILL

Mr. Nealis, in speaking for Mr. Price's retention, took occasion to ring in his old-time hobby, the famous detective bill, insinuating that the city solicitor had not made as energ tic a fight against it as he should have made. For this reason he doubted whether or not it would be wholly in-advisable to associate somebody with the city solicitor in a fight against a corporation, with which the city so-licitor was at one time connected. This descent to innuendo led Captain Moir, who was espousing the city solicitor's cause, to take to personalities and as may be believed by those who know the captain's plain spoken manner, he did not mince words in dealing with his subject. He severely criticised Mr. Price for appealing the award of the lower court, and said "if he had taken the advice of the judiciary committee, which knew more about the case and law bearing on it than he did not bear made. than he did, he would not have made a fool of us before the Supreme court. He was bound to make that appeal and promised to overturn all the rulings of the lower court. He lost every point.

While favoring the dismissal of the special attorney, Mr. Noone took exceptions to Captain Moir's judgment and said he believed Mr. Price won a victory. He also believed in standing by that victory and not allowing the Turnpike company or any other cor-poration to bulldoze the city. This brought a very extended smile to the countenance of President H. E. Paine and Attorney W. W. Watson, of the Turnpike company, who were interest-

Mr. Flanaghan made a final protest against the dismissal of the special at-torney arguing that inasmuch as Mr. Torrey had but rece-tly served the Turnpike company it was better to allow Mr. Price to continue to look after the city's side of the case. MR. SEAMAN'S MOTION.

Mr. Seamans made an amendment to Mr. Sweeney's motion, that the select council resolution dismissing Mr. Price be concurred in. Mr. Keller, in sec-onding the amendment, said there was nothing now to prevent Mr. Torrey from serving and consequently did not believe in having an extra attorney He also took occasion to say a word in favor of the condemnation of the bothersome road and its purchase by the city and county acting in conjunction. This he thought would be far better than throwing money away in further litigation. He did not want to be litigation. understood, he said as intimating that it was throwing away money to appeal at cause. Had the appeal not been taken councils would never have been satisfied. After some more discussion, in which all these points were rehashed several times a vote was taken on the amend-ment to concur in the resolution dis-missing Mr. Price. It was lost by a vote of 12 to 6:

Ayes-Simon Thomas, R. E. Thomas, Moir, Philip Wirth, Seamans, Keller-6. Nays-Loftus, Gordon, Regan, Flan-aghan, Sweeney, Nealls, Zeidler, Noone-George Wirth, McGrail, Norton, Grier

The motion to refer to committee then passed without opposition.

The resolution to arrest all but city employes found working on West Market street next came up as a target for the Bryanic batteries of the prosent

Mr. Noone started the battle with a motion to concur. Mr. Keller followed with a motion to refer to committee. with a motion to refer to committee.

Mr. Sweeney moved to lay the amendment on the table. The Sweeney metion prevailed, and while Captain Moir and Mr. Keller were causing an uproar in an effort to convince anybody and everybody that the tabling of an amendment tabled the original motion, the original motion passed.

the original motion, the original motion, the original motion passed.

Captain Moir insisted that he was right and the chair was wrong, and both he and Mr. Keller were not a little wroth that the chair had decided that their contention was wrong.

REFERRED TO THE PAST. Messrs. Noone and Nealis were un-kind enough to call to the captain's mind the recent payement fight, when the chair and a majority, of which the captain was a component part, did certain acts, the regularity of which, according to parliamentary rules, had been questioned in court. They also taunted the captain with references to his off quoted saying "law—give me eleven votes." The captain looked and acted the admission that the shoe was an the other foot. on the other foot, but was very good natured withal.

After the lighting had come to an end all hands got together for a little grand stand work. It had been bruited about the city that common council was antagonistic to the firemen's convention coming here in 1897 or at least was not heart and soul in the movement to bring it here. To disabuse the world of this idea, Mr. Nealis presented a resolution directing the clerk to advertise the firemen's entertainment and tise the firmen's entertainment and ball at Music hall tomorrow night in all the daily papers, and charge the expense thereof to the appropriation for printing.
