WEST SIDE EVENTS.

Funeral Services Over Late Frederick Becker Conducted by Rev. Mr. Moffatt---Interment at Forest Hill.

Services over the remains of the late Frederick Becker were held yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the Washburn Street Presbyterian church. There was a very large attendance of the friends of the deceased. Rev. Mr. Monatt, in his sermon, paid high tribute to the departed, who was a member of his church. Mr. Monatt took his text from Corinthians, v. 1: "For we know that if our earthly house of this talernacle." dissolved we have a building with were dissolved we have a building with averaged a house not made with hands; Careternal in the heavens." Referring to ill.

e deceased, Mr. Moffatt said: "As a man he was held in the highest esteem by all who knew him. He had a sterling character which impressed itself upon all who came in contact with him. Whatever he did was done well, and this characteristic easily placed him at the head of his profession. Throughout his long sickness he manifested the grace of pati-ence and resignation, which to a man of his temperament was a hard thing to do. Genial, kind-hearted and generous, making and keeping friends easily, he will be missed by a wide

DEATH OF L. B. POTTER.

L. B. Pôtter, one of the pioneer residents on the West Side, was stricken with an apoplectic fit at 11.30 o'clock yesterday morning, while he was re-moving a basket of peaches from a buggy in front of his home on South Main avenue, and in a few minutes af-terward he breathed his last after having been taken within doors. The death was sudden, though Mr. Potter has not been in good health for several years past. He suffered from blood poisoning about a year ago, and since that misfortune has falled physically. He was one of the best known men on the West Side. The Potter mansion, 153 South Main avenue, is one of the oldest brick buildings in the city. AMUSEMENTS.

Scranton.

That very funny comedy, "Our Flat," in which Emily Bancker, the daintiest and most exquisite of comediennes, made a pronounced hit here last season, will be the attraction at the Academy of Mpusic Thursday evening. The "Comique Exquisite" and her play are both cherished in the memory of our play-goers. When last here, Miss Bancker played to the capacity of the house, and sent her audience home af-ter the performance feeling on good terms with themselves, and the world in general, and that is invariably the effect produced by witnessing a performance of "Our Flat."

"Secret Service," a play dealing with he heart and home side of war, will be the first purely dramatic offering of Metropolitan magnitude of the season at the Frothingham. It is announced for Friday and Saturday nights. This attraction must command the serious consideration of discriminating theater patrons from the fact that is the work of William Gillette, the author of such splendid successes as "Too Much John-son," "The Private Secretary," and "Held by the Enemy." It is under the management of Charles Frohman and is said to have been equipped by him with that lavish scenic investiture which the public has come to asso-clate with all of his productions. IN A SNAPPING TURTLE'S GRIP.

Fisherman Harry Shores Cuts the Monster's Throat to Get Free. Bristol, Pa., Sept. 21.—Harry Shores, a Bristol fishe man, while fishing with a set net for catfish on the marsh below Bristol, had a struggle with a monster snapping turtle, which got tangled in his net. When he hauled in the net the snapper grabbed him by his leg, and Shores and the snapper had a struggle in the boat while blood flowed from Shores' leg.

flowed from Shores' leg.

Finally he succeeded in getting out his penknife and cut the snapper's throat before the monster would let loose. The turtie weighed twenty-five
