HIGH SCHOOL OPENING.

The Exercises Will Take Place at 2 O'clock This Afternoon. Today will witness the formal opening of Scranton's handsome new high school, and its official acceptance by the board of control, in the name of the school district.

The exercises in connection with the opening will take place at 2 o'clock in the auditorium of the new building. It is expected that many prominent educators of the state and school officers of nearby districts will be in attendance. Dr. N. C. Schaeffer, state superintendent of public instruction, has wired Superintendent Howell that he will be present, and deliver an address, as requested, on "The High School Question." The programme is as follows: Overture, "Bronze Horse," Bauer's Orchestra. Invocation, Rev. Rogers Israel. Delivery of Keys, Conrad Schroeder, builder. Presentation of building to board of control, F. L. Wormser, chairman High School Committee. Solo, "The Promise of Life," Cowen. Address, Hon. N. C. Schaeffer, state superintendent of public instruction. Acceptance of building, George Mitchell, president board of control. Medley, "A July Night," Bauer's Orchestra. Address, "The High School Question," Hon. N. C. Schaeffer, state superintendent of public instruction. (a) "Cradle Song," Seedman. (b) "In Blossom Time," Seedman. Address, J. Alfred Pennington, accompanist. Address, Howell, city superintendent of schools. Address, George W. Phillips, principal of high school, "El Capitano," Sousa. Bauer's Orchestra. Admittance to the exercises will be by card. After the exercises the school will be inspected. On Friday and Saturday the school will also be open for visitors. Invitations will not be necessary on those days.

DEATH CAME SUDDENLY.

James Hetherington, of Summit Avenue, Dropped Dead on Lackawanna Avenue—Heart Failure the Cause.

James Hetherington, of 1418 Summit avenue, North End, a stonecutter by occupation, married and 45 years old, died suddenly on the sidewalk in front of the office of the National Express company, 306 Lackawanna avenue, at 12 o'clock yesterday morning. Heart failure was the cause.

Mr. Hetherington was employed by contractor E. M. Williams, upon arriving at the building where work was working there and he went home. After changing his clothes he came to the corner of Wyoming and Lackawanna avenues he saw Mr. Williams' motor car pass by on a bicycle, and started on a run to overtake him. Down the avenue he ran until he reached the Express office and he fell forward on his face.

A crowd gathered quickly around, and Dr. E. M. Pennypacker, who happened to be passing made his way to Hetherington's side, but found his life had just passed out. There was a cut above the right eye where he struck on the stone flag. Undertaker J. H. Hetherington took the body to his undertaking establishment, and later in the day coroner Longstreet made an autopsy, and found that the deceased had been a chronic sufferer from heart trouble.

FIREMEN'S DAY A GREAT SUCCESS

Thirtieth Annual Event of the Kind in Scranton.

PARADE AND OTHER FEATURES

Thousands of Spectators Through the Route of March—Day Included an Inspection of the Police Department—Mayor Bailey Was Highly Pleased—Ball in Music Hall in the Evening. It was Firemen's Day. For the thirtieth annual time in the history of Scranton the city's fire department displayed more sincerely its enthusiasm and for inspiring the real boiled-down spirit of heart-quickening, there are few pageants that appeal to the public more than the annual dress affair of the brave men and shining apparatus that combined protect the city from that subtle foe, the flame.

Everything conspired to make the thing a success. The weather could not have been better, the department had been drilled more thoroughly into the spirit of the parade. It was just cool enough to make marching a pleasure instead of a discomfort and to comfort the thousands of persons who flanked the streets along the line of march.

AN INSPECTION ALSO.

The day witnessed not only the parade. There was an inspection of the police department by Mayor Bailey and Chief of Police Bobbing early in the afternoon, a review of the marchers from the Wyoming avenue balcony of the Wyoming house, an informal reception in Music Hall after the parade, a visit by city officials to several of the company quarters and a ball in Music Hall in the evening. All that was enough to occupy the police and firemen, to furnish a spectacle for the throngs of spectators and to quicken the pulse and engage the attention of that particular element which takes special pride in whatever has to do with public affairs.

At 12 o'clock each patrolman and ranking officer in the police department "lined-up" in the corridor where is contained the department lockers in the city hall. The doors of the lockers were open and displayed the contents to the critical eyes of Mayor Bailey and Chief of Police Bobbing. The contents of the lockers were noted and then the force was marched to the Linden street block between Washington and Adams streets, where the asphalt pavement, there was a series of evolutions and formations.

THE BOARD OF PARDONS COMMUTED HIS SENTENCE TO IMPRISONMENT FOR LIFE.

He Was to Hang on Oct. 7. The board of pardons in session at Harrisburg yesterday commuted the sentence of murderer Joseph Boschino to imprisonment for life. The argument for clemency was made yesterday by Attorney General George S. Horn and Major Everett Warren appeared in Boschino's interest, and their case was presented so that the board of pardons could decide before adjournment. The prisoner will be told of his good luck by Sheriff Clemons today.

BOSCHINO WILL NOT HANG

Board of Pardons Commuted His Sentence to Imprisonment for Life. He Was to Hang on Oct. 7. Boschino was sentenced to death by the jury at the trial of the murder of Frank Confort at Bunker Hill, Dunmore, on Sunday evening, Nov. 11, 1895. He was tried before Judge Gunster on Feb. 4, 1896, and on Feb. 13 was convicted of the first degree. The lower court refused a new trial and so did the Supreme court. The appeal for clemency before the board of pardons was based largely on the plea that Rocco Salvatore, Antonio Imbrino and John C. Ryan, the three leading witnesses for the commonwealth, were so untrustworthy that their stories should not weigh against a man's life. It was also urged that the superior court of having a hand in the murder and Ryan admitted that the story he told before the coroner's jury was false. He told a directly opposite story at the trial.

DIPHTHERIA THE CAUSE OF DEATH

Coroner Longstreet Asked to Grant a Burial Permit but Refused to Do So Until He Made an Investigation. Boy's Throat in a Terrible Condition—House Was Not Placarded.

There came to the notice of Coroner Longstreet yesterday morning a case where a 12-year-old boy was the victim of faith healers. District Attorney John R. Jones, after hearing the facts in the case, stamped it as a piece of criminal negligence, and after the coroner's jury finds its verdict, Mr. Jones may take steps to punish those responsible for the boy's death. On Tuesday night Undertaker D. D. Jones, of the North End, was called to the house of James R. Wood, 219 Hollister avenue, to prepare for burial the body of his 12-year-old son, James, who a few hours before that, had died. The undertaker had heard from the neighbors that there was something wrong, and he questioned Mr. Wood whether the boy had a doctor. The doctor, a few hours before that, had died. Mr. Wood scorned the idea of a doctor.

NOTES OF THE DAY.

John Gilibson never misses a firemen's parade. He was with the William Council company, of which he is a member.

CORONER REFUSED THE CERTIFICATE.

When Coroner Longstreet was asked to issue the certificate, he said he wanted to know something about the case first, and after learning the facts, he refused to issue the certificate. Mr. Wood set in a way that the gentleman was not at a loss to understand that his case was condemned in allowing his son to die without any help but that of a faith healer.
