IMPROVEMENT IN HIS GAB

Upon the High Dollar and Advance Long-Haired Theories -- He Communes with George Fred Williams. Study the Question.

Springfield, Mass., Sept. 25.-People who saw William J. Bryan yesterday would hardly know him today. The long, flowing locks had been closely clipped and the old fashioned broadcloth coat, which made him seem older, had been superseded by a new cutaway of a modern fashion. Mr. Bryan looked nearer his real age than he has at any time since the campaign

A hundred or more people gathered at the railroad station in Hartford this morning to see Mr. Bryan leave for Springfield. They cheered him as he appeared on the platform of the special car secured by the Springfield commit-tees, and demanded a speech Mr. Brycar secured by the Springfield commit-teee, and demanded a speech. Mr. Bry-an told them something about the money question, and had just finished as the train drew out at 11.18. A small crowd assembled around the Bry-an car at Windsor, Conn. the first stop. A young man marched up to the train bearing a piece of brown paper with the names of McKinley and Hobart chalked on it. At Windsor Locks sev-eral hundred people saw Mr. Bryan. He was cheered and responded with a few was cheered and responded with a few words. Thompsonville was the last stop in Connecticut. The crowd was about equal to that at Windsor Locks. Mr. Bryan spoke briefly. In his speech he said:

Locks, Mr. Bryan spoke briefly. In his speech he said:

Our opponents want a dollar that gets higher and higher all the time. If we are going to have a gold standard, if we are going to have a gold standard, if we are going to have a gold foliar whose appetite is never satisfied, and a gold dollar which insists upon cating more of the products of toil every year we ought to change the lies at the mint and so describe that dollar that people will understand it. Let us ake off the emblems that have adorned t from the beginning and put one side the deture of the horse-leech, and under the deture let it be written as in Proverbs, Give, give, give, and on the other side in open grave and above it let us write is of the gold dollar let us put the pleture of enough. "Give, give, give," and on the other side in proverbs, "It sayeth not, it is some net gain.

An improvament is seen, no longer only in the buying of materials, which continues and stiffen prices, but also in orders for products of some industries, in money markets, and in exports of staples. Ladles and centlemen;-We are in the Ladles and gentiemen:—We are in the midst of a campaign in which great feeling is excited. It is not strange that deep feeling has been manitested on both sides. Much depends on the result. If the gold standard is a good thing then those of us who believe in himetallism are terribly wrong. On the other hand, if the gold standard is a crime against the American people we are right, I come to present one side because I have not time for any elaborate arguments. The masses, the gold men say, cannot understand. There is no question too deep for the American people orate arguments. The masses, the gold men say, cannot understand. There is no question too deep for the American people to understand. There is no question for complicated that the people cannot understand. There is no question for complicated that the people cannot understand. There is no question that must be submitted to a few to settle for the rest. The money question can and is being understood. Every day finds more advocates for bimetallism than ever before, and brings recruits to those who believe in the restoration of the constitutional money. The principle that underlies the money question is that the value of a dollar depends on the number of dollars; to make dollars scarce is to make them deart. When property falls in price, we have hard times. If you want hard times, make money scarce. When money rises, the wealth of those who have money increase. The syndicates and trusts that control the money also profit by the hard times. The greater the necessity, the greater the gain. Increase hunger and you raise the value of food. Increase the demand for money and you raise the price of money, You must sacrifice your property at any price to get the money when you want it. I read a poem written by a coal miner in Penneylvania that contained more political economy than any gold man has yet put in any speech of the campaign. He drew an iliustration from his own business. He said in his poem, "What miner would work in a mine with a single shaft?"

The gold men want us to work in a mine with a single shaft and they hold control.

art; The gold men want us to work in a mine th a single shaft and they hold control that shaft. The gold men want us to work in a mine with a single shaft and they hold control of that shaft.

If the people here depended on one spring of water and it was owned by one person, what would be the result? There would be one person who would not know what hard times were. Others would suffer, but that one would be free. He would take advantage of their necessaries and skim the cream off the milk. A cause, like a man, is known by the company it keeps. You may get some information from the fact that there is arrayed against us every trust that preys on the public. It is a sign that our cause is just. You are as well known by your enemies as by your friends, and we rejoice, in this campaign, at the certificates given by those people who deprive labor of the fruits of its toil. Our opponents appeal to the laboring men. The gold standard was never endorsed by the laborer in any nation in the world. In no country has it received the support of the laboring men and it never will, because they know what is good for them. The money changers stand by gold. The Republican party does not propose to change the present policy or to add to the volume of our money. The circulating medium has been decreased. The Republican party does not propose to stop contraction. There is no use to open the mills until the people are able to buy what the inlies can produce. You cannot make a market by destroying the prosperity of the farmer. Until the people are able to buy, the mills will be idle. There is a willingness to work just as much as ever. Stagnation, which you say is the result of tarthe mills will be idle. There is a willing-ness to work just as much as ever. Stag-nation, which you say is the result of tar-iff reform, pervades Canada and England, where they have no such reform on which to put the blame.

BISMARCK A BIMETALLIST.

Bismarck says, after twenty years of gold, he wants bimetallism. Our people out west thought of these things before you did in the east, because your legislation drove them to think. Your people would not believe our complaints. If you foreclose your mortgages you will find you cannot make as much out of the *enants as out of the owners. Free connage is stronger in Massachusetts today than ever before. The silver sentiment is wider than it is high, and when it blows over it will be higher than ever. If our forefathers intended a few to do the thinking for the many, then they would have them do the voting. But our forefathers thought all the people had a right to think and express themselves on the subject.

Your minds were given you to use. Study the question and let your ballots record your opinion. I will not advance the question to the dictation of foreign governments. BISMARCK A BIMETALLIST.

WANAMAKER AT TUNKHANNOCK.

He Is Accompanied by Homer Greene and Hon. James Codding. Special to the Scranton Tribune.

Tunkhannock, Sept. 25.—Hon, John Wanamaker, of Philadelphia, arrived here at 11.56 this morning from Towan-da. He was met at the depot by the band and a large delegation of citizens, who kept him busy for some minutes shak-ing hands. He was then driven to the hotel and at 1 o'clock in the afternoon oddressed a large meeting in Piatt's Opera house. He was well received and spoke from a business standpoint. He left the meeting in time to take the 2.40 train for Montrose, where he spoke in the evening. Homer Greene, of Honesdale, and Hon, James Cod-Quotes Bismarck and Advises All to ding, of Towanda, also addressed the

TURN OUT ALL THE PRISONERS.

Aldermen of Bellefontaine, Ohio,

Also Discharge the Policemen. Bellefontaine, Ohio, Sept. 25.-The aldermen last night ordered the release of all city prisoners held by the sheriff, because of a lack of funds to pay for their keeping. The entire police force was discharged for the same reason, and the city is now left without any protection whatever save that of the mayor and marshal.

The city has been without a saloon for nine years, but last evening the city council voted to leave the question of their return to a vote of the people. The action of the aldermen has created great indignation.

POLITICS TOO MUCH FOR JUSTICE. Omaha Court Term Postponed Until After the Election.

Omaha, Neb., Sept. 23.—As an evi-ence that local political conditions arbecoming warm, the district court has postponed the regular fall term until fter the election. The reason assigned for this is that with the present state of feeling jurors would inevitably be-come involved in heated political arguments to the exclusion of cases un-der consideration, and that justice would miscarry.

The attorneys generally coincide in this view of the situation. Cartely in

BASE BALL GAMES

The final championship games of this season by National league clubs will be played today. Unless double games are played the clubs may be expected to finish very nearly in the order named: Chicago may pass Boston, Philadelphia may pass New York, Brooklyn may pass Washington, or Louisville may pass St. Louis, but there is no probability of a change among the three leaders. However, it is remotely possible for Cincinnati to win two games and tie Cleveland for second place, provided the latter loses two games.

FAY TEMPLETON VANISHES.

She Again Performs Her Notorious Disappearing Act.

Montreal, Sept. 25.-Fay Templeton, the well-known actress who was booked as the leading character in "Excelsion," running at the Academy this week, has mysteriously disappeared, and is said to have eleped with a young man named Brown, who is said to be related to a wealthy Phila-delphia family. He has been a warm friend of hers for some time. Miss Templeton was joined by Brown at Springfield. Mass., on Saturday after noon, when she snipped her trunks to Montreal. Since then nothing has been Montreal. Since then nothing has been heard of her. It is believed Miss Templeton has
