Country Club Players Have Accepted a Challege from Wilkes-Barreaus. It Was a Week of Weddings and Very Little Else---Few Future Events Are Announced--Personal Paragraphs.

The current week has been barren of any social event of any moment; that condition has been absolute, and the same state of affairs may be expected to feature the coming week. Certainly no announcement has been made concerning any prospective af-fair. The reason is plain: The Coun-try club's tennis tourney witnessed the final appearance here of quite a number of persons from out of town. When they departed, and during the week, a great many of the young people re-turned to school and college.

A team of Country club golf players will go to Wilkes-Barre to play a match with golfers of that city during the latter part of October. The Wilkes-Barreans are the challengers. A re-turn match will be played in this city. The Scranton team has not been chos-The Scranton team has not been chos-en, but a selection will be based on present scores. T. H. Watkins is cap-tain of the Country club golfers and will name the team. At present the links are daily thronged with scores of ardents and exponents of the game. In fact golf, tennis and the delights that go with a life in the open are seekices, only "attractions just now. societies' only 'attractions just now. . . .

The marriage of Miss Nellie White, of Peckville, to Edmund C. Anderson, of Scranton, was solemnized last Tuesday evening at the home of the bride. Rev. J. G. Whitmire was the officiat-ing clergyman. The ceremony took place under an arch of evergreen and roses from the centre of which was suspended an immense floral horseshoe. At 8 o'clock sharp Professor John Haydn Casino struck the first chords of Mendelssohn's wedding march and the bridal party came down the beau-tifully decorated stairway. Then came the maids of honor, Miss Marguerite Price, of Green Ridge, and Miss Amsy Wohster, of Williamsport, and then the bridesmail. Mrs William Sears the bridesmaid, Mrs. William Sears, ster of the bride, and best man, William Sears, of Peckville. The groom walked between the bridesmaid and best man and the bride followed leaning on the arm of her father. She was dressed in a gown of pearl gray lansdowne trimmed in chiffron and ribbon and carried a bouquet of bridal rose and malden hair fern. The bridesmain and maid of honor were similarly at-tired and carried white carnations, After the ceremony the friends present gathered around Mr, and Mrs, Ander-son and offered congratulations. Among those who enjoyed the wedding festivities were: Mr. and Mrs. J. D. worked, her labors have been bl in the salvation of many. Mrs. Davis has a strong voice, under excellent control, and sings with fine expression.

She both sings and preaches the gospel. She combines rare talent with devotion and consecration. Many of the papers published in places where she has la-bored pronounce her one of the best lady evangelists in the field. She is described as cultured, refined, modest, and one of the most attractive lady speakers before the public. She presents truth with such sweetness of temper and persuasiveness as to avoid being offensive and repellant. A most cordial invitation is extended to all to attend these services.
