New London, Conn., Sept. 28.-Mr. Bryan in his speech here today said: "Ladies and gentlemen: Today I leave Connecticut. J have been through the several New England states, and only one, I believe, I have not been able to visit. I came to New England to preach the cause and to defend the principles for which 1 stand at this time, (Applause.)

'I came here because there is no part "I came here because there is no part of this country where those who ad-vocate free coinage are unwilling to present their cause. There is no part of this country which is excluded from the benefits of bimetallism, there is no part of this country which we are will-ing to concede to the gold standard. (Applause and cheers.) There is no state in this Union which will be ben-efitted by the maintenance of the pres-ent financial policy and if in some por-tions of the Union the silver sentiment is not as strong as in other portions, is not as strong as in other portions, it is because those portions where the silver sentiment is weakest are the por-tions where there has been the least tions where there has been the least agitation and discussion and study of the money question. (Applause and cries of "you're right.") "Some of the Republican platforms of the eastern states have not only declared against agitation. When I find a man who is opposed to the discus-sion of a public question I find a man who would feel more at home under a monarchy than he would in a rewho would feel more at nome under-public. SHOT AT THE BANKERS.

Continuing. Mr. Bryan said: "I want to lay down this proposition that when you borrow money of a bank the banker has no business interfering with your political rights and the banker that does it ought not to be permitted to engage in the banking busi-ness, (Applause.) Is there a banker who will dispute that? If there is, then he must be a man who believes that the right to vote goes not with the citizens, but with the money lender, and the man who asserts that, as-serts that this is not a democracy, not a republic, but a plutocracy, in which nd not brains or heart, rule in Those who denied the right of the people to use the law to restore silver to its rightful place are the very ones who helped to pass a law twenty three years ago to destroy the free coinage of silver and substitute a new standard after the nations of the world had tried bimetallism, and after this nation had tried it from the beginning of the nation down to that time. (Applause and cries of "Why don't McKinley come, out and answer some of them.")

A volce-"People here have an impression that when the free coinage of silver is brought into effect they can take their silver teapots and coin them into money.

TEAPOTS CAN BE MELTED. Mr. Bryan-"The gentleman says that the people have the impression here that under free coinage, the people can take sliver teapots and their sliverware and have it converted into money. It is true, that under free coinage any man can melt up a dollar and a half's worth of spoons and have the silver coined into one dollar and twenty-nine cents, if you have a man who is fool enough to do it. (Great applause).

"Now, why will people refuse to melt up their silver plate? Because it will be worth more as silver plate than it will be worth as silver dollars under gathered. free coinage. (Applause.) That is one of the things that you can base your reasoning upon, and in that conyour reasoning upon, and in that con-nection I frequently have people ask me: 'Would not it be possible for a man to buy silver at 53 cents and have it coined into a dollar and make the difference?''' (Laughter and a voice "who is going to sell it"). The gentleman asks the question which shows that he understands it. He says who would sell it? Now, when you cannot coin silver, you can buy for 53 cents the silver that is in a dollar, but when you can have that silver coined for a dollar then you cannot find anybody who will sell you that sliver the platform by a dozen policemen and escorted to his carriage. Now, my friends, I want the business men to get into their heads this one proposiits way through the surging mass of tion, and without knowing that without understanding it, they cannot expect to reach a corerct con clusion of the money question. "Mr. Blaine in 1878, said that the destruction of silver as money and the establishment of gold as the sole unit of value must have a ruinous effect on all forms of property except those in-vestments which yield a fixed return in money, and there would be enor-mously enhanced in value and gain a disproportionate and unfair advantage er every other species of property.
