WEST SIDE EVENTS.

Richard Hall, of South Main Avenue, Unearths a Relic of a Boiler Explosion of June 9, 1866.

Richard Hall, of South Main avenue, is one of the few men living who have passed through a boiler explosion and passed through a boller explosion and lives to tell of it. A few days ago Mr. Hall unearthed from the land around his property on Hampton street a piece of bell which was a part of Engine No. 17, "Lehigh," the one which so suddenly lost its vitals on June 9, 1866, thirty years ago. The metal had been buried in the ground for ten years and when found it still had patches of been buried in the ground for ten years and, when found, it still had patches of shining nickel on its interior. This relic is the only tangible evidence of the explosion which Mr. Hall has retained if the scar upon the fortunate engineer's forehead be not considered. The explosion happened at Washington, N. J. Mr. Hall was in his first year as engineer. His train, a "conl," was standing on the line about a half mile this side of Washington. The fireman, William G. Bortree, now on the Winton branch, had left the cab and Engineer Hall was alone. Without warning there was a roar and the out warning there was a roar and the rear end of the boiler blew out, the force of the concussion hurling the engineer a distance of six cars down the track. He was stunned and appeared as if dead. A message to that effect was sent to Scranton and was printed in the newspapers. After an hour's unconsciousness Mr. Hall showed signs of life and he afterward fully recovered after a long illness. Had the fireman been on the engine at the time he would surely have been killed as his side of the cab was even more badly shattered than the right side. The old engine is still in existence as No. 147. The cause of the explosion was a heated boiler and no water.

Rev. J. L. Race Presented with a Silver

Society---Sam Sarsoski Hurt.

As a fitting sequel to the golden jubilee celebration of Rev. J. L. Race, pastor of Cedar Avenue Methodist Episcopal church, the members of the Ladies' Aid society met at the parsonage last night and presented him with a silver tea service. He was not made aware of the nature of the visit by the ladies until they were all seated in the parlors. Then the gift was brought in and presented to Rev. and Mrs. Race with appropriate remarks.

He responded in cloquent style, and after a brief period of congratulatory addresses, a repast was served and all enjoyed it. Quite a few of the men of the congregation were present. The pastor was the recipient also of the wishes of all for many more years of usefulness in the pulpit.
