WINTON SCHOOLS CLOSED.

A queer middle exists at present in Winton borough which has caused the closing of all but two of the public schools. The teachers became uncertain as to whether they would receive their pay and quit the school room. The school board is divided and the court is now trying to decide upon the validity of the election of a certain member. At the last election the returns were disputed and in one of the districts both Mr. Taylor and Mr. Fletcher claimed to be elected. Each adhered strenuously to his fact and the result was the board was evenly split. One known as the Barrett board, is composed of four legally elected members and Mr. Taylor, whose election is disputed. The other section, known as the McAndrew board, is similarly elected, except that the fifth man is Mr. Fletcher.

DAMAGES FOR THE DEATH OF A DOG

Harry M. Spencer, of Dunmore, Awarded $37 for a Valuable Hunter.

SAID IT WAS PURELY ACCIDENTAL.

Jury Did Not Believe That and Made Him Pay—Verdict for a Milk Bill. Verdict for Defendant in a Case Where City Was Plaintiff—A Suit Over Glass in Which Lackawanna Hardware Company Is Defendant.

The trespass suit of Maggie Rozello against J. M. Atherton, both of the North End, was not out of court yesterday in court, for the reason that an important witness living in Philadelphia could not get here, and the case went over until next term. In the case of Adam Brooks against T. L. Samsenbaugh for a milk bill, the jury found a verdict for the plaintiff in the sum of $125.00 with interest from April 1, 1894.

A case which was listened to with great interest, in which Harry M. Spencer, of Dunmore, was plaintiff, and Albert Conrad defendant. Attorney E. C. Newcomb represented Mr. Spencer and Attorney George G. Taylor Mr. Conrad. A few years ago as Mr. Spencer was reading over Sporting Life, a publication devoted to the interests of sportsmen, he saw an "ad" where a man in the west had a valuable pup for sale, one with a good pedigree and of a stock that had become noted. He bought the pup paying about $17 for it and the cost of expressing it here was about $5 more. In time the dog developed into a valuable acquisition to Mr. Spencer's kennel, both for its value as a hunter and for breeding purposes. On June 8, 1894 the dog was shot and killed by Mr. Conrad. The value of it was fixed at from $20 to $100.

THOUGHT IT MALIGNANT. Mr. Spencer alleged that the defendant killed the dog maliciously, and introduced evidence to prove that it was not the first one he had killed. In order to show that he had a vicious and reckless disposition to use his gun upon the dogs of the neighborhood if it suited his fancy to kill any of them that crossed his path.

Mr. Conrad's defense was that he had killed Mr. Spencer's dog accidentally. He said he owned a field of corn which was a repository of all the squabs of Dunmore, and to rid the place of them, he was going to go out with his shot gun and fire at them. This day he fired at a flock of birds on the fence and killed the dog, which happened to be rambling within range of the gun just at that time. The plaintiff undertook to show that Mr. Conrad did not do it accidentally by putting two witnesses on the stand, carpenters who were working near Mr. Conrad's field on that day. Both men said they saw the defendant and the dog, and from their stories the jury might infer that Mr. Conrad could see the dog because they could see him and in the same sweep of vision. More over, Mr. Conrad had not gone to see Mr. Spencer either to explain or apologize.

NEWCOMB WAS ELOQUENT. In arguing to the jury Mr. Newcomb was very eloquent in defense of dogs. Outside of the value that a man places on his dog, he wants for it for many purposes there is an attachment, almost an endearment between the creature and master which is hard to measure in dollars and cents. Next to the horse, said Mr. Newcomb, the dog comes in the scale of usefulness to man and he added, "the more I see of men the more I admire dogs."

Judge Edwards in charging the jury told them not to let the subject over which the suit was brought have any personal bias in their minds. The law of this state make a dog as much a man's property as a horse or a cow. If they believed that Mr. Conrad killed the dog willfully then he ought to pay damages, and the amount was to be fixed as near what a fair and sensible value of the dog was. The jury retired at 3 o'clock and at 4:30 brought in a verdict in favor of Mr. Spencer for $37.

ACTION IN ASSUMPSIT. Next the assumpsit suit of the B. N. McCoy Glass company against the Lackawanna Hardware company, of this city, was called for trial. Attorney Charles H. Wallis represents the plaintiff and Attorney W. A. Wilcox and R. H. Patterson represent the defendant. A jury was selected and the case will go on this morning. The Hardware company made a contract with the glass company to supply it with glass with the privilege of five and when one car load was received the price of glass went up 20 per cent, and the defendant didn't take any more of it.

FIGHT OF THE RIVAL BORDS HAS ENDED SERIOUS RESULTS.

A queer middle exists at present in Winton borough which has caused the closing of all but two of the public schools. The teachers became uncertain as to whether they would receive their pay and quit the school room. The school board is divided and the court is now trying to decide upon the validity of the election of a certain member. KNOW, THE HATTER, COMPLAINS.

Wants to Have a Deed Declared Null and Void. E. M. Knox, of New York, maker of the famous Knox hat, represented by Attorneys Jessup & Jessup, began an equity suit in court yesterday against Attorney T. V. Powderly and M. P. McCann. The bill states that on August 16, 1896, Mr. McCann transferred by deed to Mr. Powderly his interest in the property known as No. 18 Lackawanna avenue. On September 1 he made an assignment of all his property to Attorney E. J. Murray, and it was inventoried and appraised and found to be worth $2,500. Mr. Knox claims that the

ENTERTAINMENT OF THE C. E. DELEGATES

Committee Officers Met to Consider That Important Matter.

TO TAKE CHARGE OF DELEGATES

Ample Provisions Made for the Thousands Who Will Attend Next Week's Big State Convention—The Philadelphia Delegation Arrives in a Special Train Tuesday Afternoon. President McCrory Here Monday.

The Christian Endeavor entertainment committee officers met last night in the parlors of the Young Men's Christian Association. There were present W. W. Inglis, chairman; Miss Louise Williams, chairman of the West Side section; Miss Lizzie Williams, chairman of the North End section; D. J. Phillips, chairman of the Green Ridge section; J. Parkhurst, chairman of the central city section, and Chairman Charles E. Daniels, of the committee of 26. The verbal reports made at a writing one from E. A. Smith, chairman of the Dunmore section, indicated that there will be ample food and shelter for the several thousand delegates.

It will be the entertainment committee's duty to be represented by detailed squads at each of the many churches where delegates will be escorted by members of the recreation committee. From the churches the entertainment committee members will guide the delegates to the houses or hotels assigned to them. For this work a large number of juniors have been pressed into service. Word has been received by the committee of 26 that the Philadelphia delegation will arrive in a special Philadelphia and Hudson road at 2:30 o'clock on Tuesday afternoon; the Allentown delegation in a special car attached to the 2:30 Jersey Central train, and the Easton, Harrisburg and Lancaster delegates in special Pennsylvania Railroad company cars attached to the 1:30 Delaware and Hudson train.

Rev. Dr. T. McCrory, state president of the Christian Endeavor societies, will reach here Monday night, and will be escorted by a party of Pittsburg delegates. Secretary George McDonald and Mrs. McDonald, of Allentown, and Treasurer H. H. Haymer, will also arrive Monday. The North End and West Side sections of the United choir rehearsed last night in the Providence and Washington Street Presbyterian churches, respectively.

THE MAN IN THE IRON MASK.

A stage adaptation of Dumas' story, "The Man in the Iron Mask," was given at the Academy of Music last night by Donald Robertson, of this city. Brandon Douglas led the members of his company. Mr. Robertson was also the adapter. He is an actor of much cleverness, though a little too studied in his method. His work in the dual role of Louis XIV, King of France, and Gaston, the king's twin brother, the man in the iron mask, was very successful. He received frequent applause from the rather small audience. Miss Foulke in the role of Marie D'Estanges also came in for favors of the audience. Her performance in the third act stamped her as an unusual actress of much ability and the difficult scenes in the fourth she gave with much delicacy and discrimination. The support given these two artists was not all that might be desired, but the performance as a whole merited a much larger audience than saw it last night.

AMUSEMENTS.

Elmer E. Vance's triumph of stage realism, "The Limited Mail," will appear at the Academy of Music this evening, and will without doubt prove the dramatic success of the season. It is said to be so thoroughly realistic, that audiences after witnessing its highly wrought scenes have involuntarily sprung from their seats and waived handkerchiefs for minutes. The flight of the limited mail, the wonderful electrical effects, the real thrilling wreck, make a performance unrivalled.

The Academy of Music will have for its attraction Thursday and Friday the latest success of Broadway, "The Sign of the Cross," by Mr. and Mrs. Grandin, who are presenting plays of romance in a manner that is winning for them the name of the "American Shakespeare." The play is possessed of wonderful emotional power and beauty of face and figure. She is considered an artist as to costume and her acting is of the highest order. The features of her performance, Mr. Grandin is an actor possessed of wonderful ability and power, and has youth and life looks to add him.

"Wang" with a large company of sixty-two people of all creeds, sects, and drops and properties comes for one night only and its farewell visit here tomorrow evening at the Frothingham. Among the features of this charming comic opera is a banjo chorus rendered by ten of the cleverest and prettiest girls in the company, a quartet and a chorus of the merry rhymes given by several charming little boys, none of whom is over seven years old; a Siamese wedding ceremony reproduced in a most realistic manner; a royal barge floating among French men of war at anchor in the harbor of Bangkok; and a really wonderful elephant and monkey act. The grand old of a four-gallon glass of beer is a mystery to the audience.

Edward F. Hueb's new "White Crook" company will open a three days' engagement at Davis' theatre at Thursday's matinee, October 1st, appearing in two new and laughable burlesques, "Columbus' Reception," a satire of the political campaign, and "The White Crook Near Gay New York," and the following vaudeville stars: Monna and Nicholas, Arthur Bebler and Anna Yale, Dixon and Lang, Williams and Edwards, Colby and Dewitt and Lester and Patterson. All scenic and mechanical effects are carried by the company.

"The American Girl" is a most dainty comedy-drama of intense heart interest. The humorous element is of the cheeriest irresistible sort, while the features are strangely drawn but always true to life, pure and wholesome. A. O. Scammon's company of superior excellence, headed by their excellent comedian, E. E. Hild, Graham, and Ida Bell, a charmingly graceful artist, will be seen in "The American Girl" at the Frothingham next Friday night, and at the Lyceum next Saturday night, October 2 and 3.

Gilmore and Leonard will present to the patrons of the Academy of Music, Saturday matinee and night, the latest New York laughing craze, "Hogan's Alley" in three acts, with its characters taken from life. The New York Sunday World has devoted a half page colored supplement for the past six months to this subject and Messrs. Gilmore and Leonard, through the kindness of R. P. D'Amico, the artist, have made a distinct character of the Yellow Kid, who will be seen with them and their company of funny comedians. The roster of the company contains such well-known favorites as "The Shirley Sisters," Gardner Bros. Trio, Misses Rice and Halvers, Miss Gladys Hayden, Joseph Condon, Thomas Clark, Harry Fairbanks, George Kaine, Fred Ward, Cliff Meach, and others.

Must be ready to appreciate the offers made by Davidow Bros. See page 6.
