THE STORM'S HAVOC IN PENNSYLVANIA

Great Damage Is Reported from Almost Every Section.

SERIOUS LOSS IN OLD LANCASTER

The Tobacco Crop Nearly Ruined and Other Destruction Is Severe Beyond Recent Parailel -- Two Men Killed by the Collapse of a Roof.

Philadelphia, Sept. 30.—Reports re-ceived from various points today indicate that last night's storm was ex-ceedingly destructive throughout the eastern, middle and western counties of the state. Houses, barns, and bridges were blown away, crops ruined, streams and rivers are out of their banks, wash-outs and landsiides have blocked railroad tracks and in several places lives were lost. The damage to property will amount to probably two million

At Lancaster and throughout Lan-At Lancaster and throughout Lan-caster county the storm was especially severe. The covered bridge over the Susquehanna river at Columbia, used by the Frederick division of the Pena-sylvania railroad was blown away. Several men are reported to have been killed when the bridge went, but this rumor is unconfirmed. The tobacco crop in Lancaster is nearly ruined and the money damage of all kinds in the county is estimated at $1,000,000. By the collarse of the roof of the casting house of the Temple furnace, at Temple, Berks county, Edward Rissimiller and Samuel Trout were killed and Wil-liam Collar, Joseph Ruthenberger, Harry Becker, William Shadler and Wil-liam Wertz all more or less hurt. All the men were employes of the furnace The round house of the Cornwall and Lebanon railroad, at Lebanon, was blown off and eight locomotives were

IN OTHER SECTIONS.

The Juniata is out of its banks at Huntingdon and in Blair county and the valley is inundated and experiencing a flood scarcely less destructive than the memorable one of 1880. Because of washouts and landslides traffic on the middle division of the Penn-sylvania railroad is suspended, but stern trains are going around by way of Lock Haven, on the Northern Cen-At Shamokin the breaker of the Patterson Coal company, together with fourteen houses, was blown down. Thirty mules in the stable of the colliery were killed by the collapse of the building. John Chalmers was fatally in-jured and the infant of Mrs. Savineski was killed and Mrs. Savineski had her leg broken. The above instances are only a few of the destruction wrought. There is no telegraphic cormunication from this city further west in the state than Mount Joy, twenty-seven ulles from Harrisburg, and details of the damage done in that section are still lacking. The wires of the telegraph companies suffered as they never did before, and up to 9 o'clock tonight communication with points south of Baltimore was still cut off. The storm was not particularly severe in Phila-delphia and only trifling damage was

AT THE STATE CAPITAL.

Harrisburg, Pa., Sept. 30.—A hurri-cane toyed with Harrisburg in the night and when the day broke through the fast disappearing masses of gray storm cloud this morning, the city looked upon a scene of demolition and destruction that it has not witnessed in the last quarter of a century. The mark of the whiriwind that passed over this city will not be effaced in a most thrilling escape. They had just left the house when one of the walls Roofs will be restored and houses repaired, but a thousand maimed trees—many of them survivors of the time when the state capitol was but a struggling hamlet and to which citizens were in the habit of pointing with pride—will remain to show where the storm blazed its path. It had been a rainy Tuesday with It had been a rainy Tuesday with gusty drives of rain that made walk-ing uncomfortable early in the evening. But this was but a foretaste of the coming gale. By midnight the storm had begun. It hissed around corners and whined through the telegraph wires in a way utterly foreign to a September equinoctial and terrifying to the timid. It was a gale at midnight it lashed itself into sections of whirl-wind thirty minutes later, and by lo'clock and for an hour after it showed the teeth of a small cyclone. Twere scores of people in the city spent the night after twelve in cellars praying that the fateof St. Louis might not be in store for Harrisburg. There were thousands more who sat shuddering until morning waiting for the fury of the wind and rain to abate All were fearful, and, after the burri cane wearled itself out, the streets re full of people anxious to learn havor that they know must lie in

BALL OF FIRE.

At 12.40 a ball of fire, to observers as large as a September sun,, flashed out into the blackness from the southwest and hung for a full minute in the angry heavens. Those who saw it say that it died away slowly, not with the flash-ing brilliancy and sudden extinguishing of a meteor, but changing from white to red and then fading like a dying coal. After this the worst was over. The hurricane veered frequently and seemed possessed of as many whims as a school girl. It would wrench roofs from their fastenings, several houses together, and then skip skyward for two or three blocks before begin-ning its work of ruin.

On Peffer street trees were uprooted and blown down on one side of the street, while the other remained untouched. It was the same on many streets with windows, one side of the thoroughfare escaping, while the oppo site houses would be glassless. Wires were down over town, but gangs of were down over town, but gangs of men were soon busy clearing the debris away. The wires were not gotten into shape entirely all day; but Third street cars were running by 8 o'clock. There was hardly an avenue or a street that was not filled with tree limbs and wreckage.

It will be several days before the supervisors of the various districts can have the dead limbs of the trees hauled away. In Capitol park the spectacle is a pitiful one. The grounds will not regain their former appearance for a long time. Big trees that have weathered the winds of a half century were bowled down like standing nine pins. The hurricane seemed to brush them out of its path like twigs. Roots with masses of earth clinging to them as big as a room, lie upturned along the walks and throughout the park. Many small sapplings recently plant ed will have to be dug up. The storm cut them in half near the base and they will be useless. It was the same along Front street and the river bank

IN LANCASTER COUNTY.

Lancaster, Pa., Sept. 30.—Late reports received from all sections of the county show that the damage done will reach in the aggregate nearly a million dol-lars. Hundreds of farmers have los their entire tobacco crop, which was ready for the market. In addition to frame buildings, numerous brick structures were razed to the ground. The largest was that of H. Burd Casset, ev-chairman of the Republican county committee. His brick planing mill collapsed, destroying valuable machin-ery and involving a loss of about $10, 000. Deputy Auditor General Friday was a sufferer. The roof of his barn was blown a considerable distance and the upper part of the building was wrecked. Senator Quay had just comwrecked. Senator Quay had just com-pleted the erection of a large tobacco shed on his farm and the roof of it was blown off and carried a great distance. A large tobacco barn belonging to J. Hay Brown was blown from its foun-dations to the public road and the en-tire crop of tobacco was ruined. These are but a few of the hundreds of simi-lar losses. Shamokin, Pa., Sept. 30.—A terrific lar losses.

Shamokin, Pa., Sept. 30.—A terrific wind storm visited this section of the county at 1 o'clock this morning, lasting for more than an hour. Buildings ing for more than an nour. Buildings were destroyed and property of every description laid waste for miles. The heaviest losses are the Patterson Coal company, whose colliery is situated at Natalle, a mining village six miles east of this city. The breaker and fourteen houses were totally destroyed, seven by fire, and seven by the storm. The Brenker Demolished at Shamokin.
Other Losses.

fire and seven by the storm. The stables connected with the colliery were blown down and thirty mules killed outright. The breaker was almost entirely demolished, causing a loss of over $50,000 to the Patterson Coal com-pany alone. John Chalmers was fatally injured and Mrs. Savineski had her limb fractured trying to rescue her baby, which was fatally injured and has since died. In this city houses were unroofed, church spires damaged and widespread destruction resulted. At Deibler's station the United Brethren church was totally destroyed by the storm.

AT PITTSBURG.

Pittsburg, Sept. 30.—The heavy rains and high winds which are general over the western part of the state last night and early this morning played havee with the running schedules of nearly every railway entering Pittsburg. The heaviest damage seems to have been east of the Allengheny mountains and from the meagre reports received great damage has been done. Through trains on the railways are greatly delayed. The storm practically paralyzed the Baitimore and Ohio railroad system, east, west, north and south.

tem, cast, west, north and south.
Wires are down and reports are far from satisfactory. It is known, however, that road beds have been washed away, there are landslides innumerable and tracks are obstructed by fallen trees. In the vicinity of Sand Patch, where train No. 9, the New York and Chicago express, due in Pittsburg at 6.25 o'clock this morning, is supposed to be storm bound, the rain fell in torrents for several hours and mountain tayines were transferred into rivers. The freight cars on sidings and dwellings were unroofed and overturned. It is not yet known whether any fatali-ties occurred. At Sand Patch several washouts occurred near Akron, Ohio, on the Pittsburg and Western railroad and telegraph wires were prostrated. Train No. 6, Chicago express, is hemmed in by a landslide near Bakerstown, The Cannon Ball express is also delayed somewhere on the Ohio division, and the time of its arrival here cannot be

IN LEBANON VALLEY.

Lebanon, Pa., Sept. 20.—Later reports show that the damage by the storm last night was far greater than at first upposed. In addition to the round nouse of the Lebanon and Cornwall Railroad company being demolished that of the Cornwall railroad met with a similar fate. The losses sustained by these two companies will run into the s of dollars. The United church at Annville was Brethren wrecked, the Sunnyside mills were un-roofed. A part of the roof of the United Brethren church in West Lebanon was carried away as well as those of the dwellings of Joseph Strohman and Frederick Fertig.
At the Iron City brewery the boiler and engine houses were leveled to the ground. The top of the steeple of Salem Lutheran church was broken off. At Ebenezer the barn of Benjamin Blouch was unroofed as well as several new dwellings belonging to Daniel Ziegler, The old brick furnace at North Lebanon, used for storage purposes, is a mass of ruins. Hundreds of trees of all sorts were uprooted.

Wilson Christman and his family, re-left the house when one of the walls collapsed, filling their sleeping apart-ments with a mass of brick and mortar. The barn and house of D. B. Long, on the Jonestown road, were badly dam-aged. A portion of the steeple of the Reformed church at Jonestown was blown away and the steeple of the Suedburg church was twisted out of shape and must be taken down. The round house at Tremont was wrecked and several engines damaged. As far as can be learned no one was seriously injured, but the oldest people say they never experienced anything like it. It was a night of terror and many of the residents sought shelter in their cellars until the storm subsided,

MAD PREACHER

Emphasizes His Commands to Auditors by Firing a Revolver.

HE SHOOTS AT SEVERAL PEOPLE

Citizens of Abington, Mass., Are Terrorized by a Mad Preacher Who Roams the Woods, Appears at Unexpected Places and Either Compels People to Listen to Religious Exhortations or Drive Them Away at the Point of a Pistol.

Abington, Mass., Sept. 30,—Abington has a mad preacher who haunts the woods, and when he runs across a man cither compels him, at the point of a revolver, to stand and listen to a strong exhortation on the subject of relgion or else drives him away with curses, hastening his flying foot-steps with bullets that are fired to kill. This trange creature roams the woods and appears unexpectedly in various portions of the town. Nobedy is safe from his onslaughts. There is no question as to his insanity, but the authorities are at a loss to know how to protect the lives of the townsfolk.

The man's identity is not yet known. His presence was first known last week on Monday, when Mrs. Emma Sampson and Mr. Warren Webster overheard loud exhortation in the woods behind their houses. They investigated and came upon a man gesticulating wildly and apparently addressing his remarks to a tree. He turned as they approached and shouted: "Vandals, you are dis-turbing my meeting!" He then launched into the most horrible style of profanity extant. Suddenly he raised his arm and two pistol shots rang out, the bullets whizzing near the heads of his congregation.

COMPELLED TO LISTEN. Again on Thursday the preaching was heard by Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Joy, Mrs. John Reed, Mrs. Sampson and Warren Webster. They did not ap-proach close enough to be seen by the man, as they recalled the previous ex-

While Samuel Shebard was at work While Samuel Shebard was at work on his farm Friday afternoon, he saw the man preaching in the woods adjoining his farm. The maniac had a revolver in his hand and, by threatening gestures, compelled Mr. Shepard to remain until the sermon was finished. Then he pronounced benediction and immediately laugehed into to remain until the sermon was insished. Then he pronounced benediction, and immediately launched into a torrent of profanity.

Saturday afternoon Gideon L. Joy came across the man. He was preaching in his usual style, but when he found that he had an auditor he at once launched into his usual profane tirade, and running toward the Joy house fired a revolver twice. One of house, fired a revolver twice. One of the windows in the lower part of the house was broken.

On Sunday night the crazy individual made an unsuccessful attempt upon the life of Lawrence Belcher, of West Abington, at whom he fired twice. Just ahead of Mr. Belcher, Charles Lynde was standing against a transfer of the bullets entered the tree. One of the bullets entered the tree but three inches from his head, and the other struck a limb just above

FAILED TO CAPTURE HIM. Today a searching party, led by Constable Mace, tried to capture the dangerous lunatic. They heard him preaching and cursing in the woods near the Shepard farm, but the man evidently took fright at the approach of so many men and escaped.

No one answering his description is missing, and it is thought that he may have escaped from some asylum. As he is armed with a revolver, which he does not hesitate to use on every some trouble in effecting his capture.

WINFREY WON A BRIDE.

But He Got in Jail for a Foul Murder.

Memphis, Tenn., Sept. 30 .- Late last night J. H. Winfrey, jr., and Miss Sal-lie Weatherly were married a few miles out from Somerville, Tenn., and an hour thereafter the groom was lodged in fail on a charge of murder. It was an elopement, and the crime was committed in furtherance of the young man's desperate resolve to se-cure the girl against all rivals. The victim was an uncle of the girl. Miss Weatherly and Louis Burton were en-gaged to marry October 6, and last night Burton called upon his adianced bride Later Winfrey, who was an old suitor also called. Soon thereafter Furton left. Very soon after he had gone the girl rushed into her mother's room with a hasty farewell, explaining that she and Winfrey were going to run off and marry.

The mother attempted to restrain her, but in vain, and as the girl ded she called to Peter Crawford, the girl's uncle. Crawford was in the yard, and intercepted the couple at the gate.

A moment later Winfrey fired two shots from a pistol through Crawford's heart. He and the girl jumped into a waiting buggy and dashed away in the darkness. The sheriff and a posse took the trail at once, but failed to locate them until after the marriage cer-mony had been performed.

LOCKJAW PATIENT'S LIFE SAVED.

Successful Experiment with Tetanu Antitoxine.

New York, Sept. 30.-John Hard-grove was removed to the Seney hospital, in Brooklyn, on Sunday last, suffering from lockjaw. On the previous Sunday he fell from a ladder and received a severe cut on the left ear, The physicians treated him with the new tetanus antitoxine. Today they reported that he was stendly recover-ing, and that they expected him to be out of danker soon. Dr. Tedex, who has charge of the pa-tient, said: "Since the first injection there has been a little stiffening of the jaws and a slight pain in the head, but no indications of the return of the con-vulsions. I consider the case a success, and it is the first I have heard of
