fits it contained. He would therefore suggest a "gleaning committee" from each society to gather what they could of the uplifting convention. He had understood there were no omissions in the preparatory work, but the failure to arrange for "gleaning committees" he thought would be a sin of omission. The following text in the scripture reading was suggested by Dr. Moffatt, "when the day of Pentacost was fully come they were of one thought and one place." He wondered if the Endeavor-ers were in readiness of mind and spirit to receive God's answer to the prayers that have been going up for months fits it contained. He would therefore OF ENDEAVORERS

that have been going up for months for the convention's success. He did not doubt Goff's answer would be favor-able, but it would be lacking in power able, but it would be lacking in power if the Endeavorers individually were lacking in proper spirit to receive the indwelling of God's holy help. Rev. Newman Matthews spoke of the labor and gain of the occasion. There was a gain, personal and general, that came with the training and satisfaction following the labor. In the largeness of plan and scheme there has been a pro-portionate training of the workies' ives portionate training of the workers lives that would redound to the glory of God. Fellowship, too, Christian fellowship. between the members and with God had been brought about.

ATTORNEY WELLS' TALK. Atorney Wells admitted that while being one of the advisory board he would not guarantee that he could name his colleagues. The board had excould isted only in name and spleit, as the Endeavorer executives had seemed quite capable of caring for themselves and the convention. He would like to obliterate one thought, the thought that it was to be an Endeavorers' convention—and he was an Endeavorer. too. It was for everybody-it was for good, and good would not come with a restriction to any given class. Scranton had become known as the first and best convention city of the state, but no such convention ever was establish ed here as would be that of next week was a working out of God's plans was to be one of God's conventions He knew souls would be saved by it but that could not be said of any of the other numerous gatherings here. Dr. McLeod believed that his hearers had already got the benefit of the con-vention. Goldsmith said "the luxury of doing good is yours already." the huxury of doing more good was theirs for the future. The convention had been well awarded and if "plan your work and then work your plan" was suc-cessfully carried out he had no fears for the result. He would not like to see for the result. He would not true to see all societies looking forward to and working for only conventions and gen-eralities. He wanted to see each so-ciety in the city, that of his own church particularly, the best in the city, and by the "best" he meant the foremost in work suggested by the foundation of conductions. "Christian conductors" endeavorism, "christian endeavor." God's question is "what hast thou wrought;" it should be answered favorably long after the convention is over as well as now. The meeting ended with a benediction by Rev. Thomas Bell.

> PERIOD OF SOCIABILITY. Later there was a period of sociability and an illustration of how delegates would be met by reception committee squads and guided to churches where remaining caps would be distributed from headquarters today and tomorrow and that the ushers would meet Mon-day night in the association building.

It now looks very much as if the Scranton firemen will not receive the benefits of the Clarency bill. ing opinion from City Solicitor Torrey: To the Honorable, the Select Council, City of Scranton. Gentlemen: In response to your request for an opinion as to the legality of a con-current resolution now pending, providing for the payment to Firemen's Rellef as-sociation of funds received from the state on account of prendums of foreign insur-ance companies, would say: First-The act of assembly referred to, provides nothing as to the use which shall be made of the funds to be paid under it, and no understanding, or intention of those who procured the passage of the bill can in any respect alter its terms. Second-1 question the power of councils to legally appropriate money to an unin-corporated voluntary organisation with-out some warrant by act of assembly. Third-I am of opinion that no appro-priation can be made by concurrent reso-fution.

I would therefore conclude that the pro-posed resolution is not legal. Very re-spectfully yours, James H. Torrey, City Solicitor.

The only chance the firemen have of The only chance the firemen have of securing the money is that the authori-ties will shut their eyes on the legal obstacles and allow the money to come to them, upon their showing that it The Legal Fraternity was verbally understood at the time the act was passed that the revenue was for the purpose of taking care of disabled firemen, and that owing to the statute against civic pensions, the real purpose of the act could not be ex-pressed. Philadelphia has voted the money to the firemen and several other cities are pledged to do so as soon as the necessary legislation can be passed. Lost night's action of salest council Last night's action of select council however, makes it appear that this city will refuse to read between the lines of the Clarency act.

WEST MARKET STREET. West Market street came in for its usual share of consideration. First and foremost the streets and bridges committee through Chairman Chittensquads and guided to churches where members of the entertainment commit-tee would assign the delegates to homes and hotels whence they would be piloted by Juniors.
