Good Site Selected for the Hospital. Money to Pay for It Must Be Raised by Subsciptions.

The site selected for the new hospital is a perfect one. The Phillips home-stead is one of the handsomest on the West Side and the ground about it is a very acceptable feature. The building is far removed from the streets, so there can be little objection offered by the residents thereabouts.

There are thiry available rooms in four floors and the building can be entered from Bromley and Sumner avenues and from Jackson street. The $4,000 appropriated by the state cannot be used toward purchasing the building. The money will be obtained from personal subscriptions from generous COMING EISTEDDFOD. .

On New Year's day the Welsh Cal-vinistic Methodists of Bellevue Helghts will conduct its annual eisteddfod. The music committee, Henry Evans, chairman, met last Friday and arranged a part of the competitive programme. The chief choral prize will be on the chorus, "Praise Ye the Father," Gounod. The quartette selection is "Redemption," Gospel Hymn book, "Dear Heart" is the peice for tenor scholats and the baritone singers will compete on "Out of the Deep," by T. J. Davis, "I Know That My Redeemer Liveth," by Handel, will be sung by soprano solists. The prizes have not been fixed as yet. There will be two sessions in the afterneon and arranged a part of the competitive be two sessions, in the afternoon and evening. In a few days the arrange-ments will be completed.

NEW NO. 16 SCHOOL.

The new No. 16 school on Chestnut street is about completed, only the interior work remaining to be done. The building from the outside presents a pretty appearance. A nearby velw shows the beautiful material used in the construction and from a distance the building standing as it does, upon hill, is magnificent.

ARE NOT ENAGGERATED.

Anthraing Azhderin, a native Armenian, spoke last evening at the Jackson Street Baptist church on the out-rages committed in his country. He said that the newspaper reports of the massacres were not in the least exag-gerated. If anything, by are too mild. He explained the religious beliefs of his countrymen and also the beliefs of the Turks. A large attendance greeted the lecturer.

Contest in St. John's Church Won by Miss Matilda Tighe---The Picture Won by Miss Bridget Lavelle.

The contest and drawing for a crayor portrait of Rev. E. J. Melley, pastor of St. John's church, took place last night in the church basement. First there was a literary and musical entertain-ment in which parts were taken by Misses Winifred Melvin, Katle Donahoe, Katle T. Reardon, Anna L. Coyne, Mamle McTighe, Mary Murray, Winl-fred 'Durkin, and Will Jennings, of Moosic; William and Edward Murphy, of Minooka; and M. J. Coyne, the well-known comedian and singer.

The contest was started about two months ago. Misses Matilda McTighe and Margaret Roche, of Cherry street, and Maria McDonnell, of South Wash-ington avenue, were selected to act as contestants to see who could sell the greatest number of chances on a por-trait of Father Melley. Miss McTighe handed in $511.75; Miss Roche, $177.15; and Miss O'Donnell, $102.25, making a total of $791.15. This amount was far in excess of what Father Mofflit, who is in charge of the parish, Father Mel-ley being away in Europe, expected to realize, and he feels decoly grateful for the liberal result. The dentest and the proceeds of the picnic held on August 22 will amount to about $1,200.

After the contest was decided, the drawing for the portrait took place. The numbers were placed in a hat and Miss Mary McTighe, little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McTighe, of Pittston avenue, was blindfolded and the number she selected was 106, held by Miss Bridget Lavelle, of 1025 Pitts to Asyenue. What prize will be given to Miss McTighe has not been decided upon definitely by Father Moffitt. The crayon portrait cost $85 and came from the studio of Artist Dewitt, of Spruce

A drama of the romantic school, "At the Carnival," was selected by Mr. and Mrs. Grandin for their first appearancee in this city as joint stars, it was given at the Academy of Music last night before a small audience. Mrs. Grandin has justly won a wide reputa-tion for herself as an emotional ac-tress and her husband is also an actor of much ability. They are supported by an evenly balanced company, the members of which last night assisted the principals in giving a very creditable production of "At the Carnival."

Monotony, C. P. R. R.—A station and two small wooden buildings, a blank waste of prairie, a line of track, straight to the level horizon, a cloudless sky. The Ogden Express, (East-bound) is walting upon a siding. A distant whistle, a faint hum, a vibrant roar,—a pounding, rattling rush of noises, and the West-bound Chicago limited throws itself alongside the sta ton, panting and throbbing. The airbrakes settle back with a long hiss the escape-valve roars harsely, a cloud of vapour rising like the Genle emergng from the Bottle, while the locomtive drinks eagerly from the tank Dusty travellers crawl from the coacher and pace stiffly up and down the board

A young man with golf cap and ci-garette, walks leisurely down the alley between the trains, and seats himself upon the steps of a vestibule of the Ogden Express. Directly opposite him s the platform of the last Pullman of the Chicago Limited. Through the loor of this coach, enters to him a young woman,—a lady, by every proof of face, dress and bearing. She holds one hand a note-book of the Lectures of Vivekananda, and stands by the iron rail of the platform after glancing frankly at the young man. After a minute she speaks,—always in a low. dreamy, almost impersonal tone and manner. He is keenly sensitive, yet ob-viously restrained, as it uncertain of

we have ever met before? He: Why, met—I know it. You feel it too? Oh, I wonder when! Perhaps thousands of years ago;—who knows?

He: But we shall met again, shan't we? She: Ah, yes—perhaps:—thousands of years hence, may be. I wish I could feel sure of it!

He: I feel sure of it. She: Do you? I wonder how we shall know each other! If I could only give you some word to know me by! Some message for you to keep! I feel as if you were on some passing star, and to speak to you, before you were swept into space again. It's all like a dream!

I wonder if you understand why I am talking to you like this! He: I think I understand you better than you understand me. She: Why? But there is the bell, and I shall never know—till the next time. Good-bye! See, your train is moving, you must hurry! Good-bye! Oh, oh! get on your train, please! Oh, you will be left! Why don't you go? You must go!—There, the train has gone! What do you mean? You must n't fol-low me, you will spoil everything. Oh. why did I begin this! What are you going to do?

He: I am going to Ogden. I hope you will forgive me! She: But you were on the other train He: For three minutes only. I have been in this car, four seats behind you, ever since we left Chicago!

in the hour of their peril and vote to the best of their knowledge, for the best interests of the common people of the whole country. It means further that every voter wants to know, not only the doctrines of his own party, but the views of all other parties and the reason for the differences-Gold, Silver, Tariff and Free Trade. To this end we have secured a complete handbook of public political information, edited by Lawrence F.
