BILLY BRYAN'S TALK AT ST. LOUIS

Thinks That a Vote for Free Trade Indicates a Love of Country.

HE APPEALS TO CLASS PREJUDICE

Claims to Have Been Born After the War--Insists That All Aristocratic Arrogant and Overbearing Citizens Are Against the Cause of Silver. The Suffering and Downtrodden Are on the Side of Free Coinnge.

St Louis, Oct. 4.—In the course of his address to the Democratic clubs last nish address to the Democratic cluss as right William J. Bryan said:
"My friends, if you would have government just, if you would have government to fill the ideal of a perfect government, you must have a government that is no respecter of persons, a government which deals with an apply lands." equal hand, a government which gives to none, which takes from none, and a government which in the administration of law and justice treats all alike and punishes the great villian as if does the petry scoundrel. If you ask me what is the highest ambition I will say that above all offices that human hands can give, above all honors which confidence and esteem can bestow, if I could choose the name by which I should be known, I would have it this, that I have done my best to make the government what Thomas Jefferson de-sized it should be My friends, govgovernment what Thomas Jenerson desired it should be. My friends, government has drifted away from the old landmark. In times of passion, in times of selfishness, the instrumentalities of government have been turned to private gain and government, instead of meting out equal and exact justice, and last been a refuge for those who, havhas been a refuge for those who, having obtained positions, have used it to earlich themselves out of the toil and sweat of their fellow men. Behind the sweat of their fellow men. Behind the initwarks erected by our opponents have been gathered our every public enemy who is preying upon the people. And they can call to their aid but a small portion of the unjust gains that they have wrung from the public through vicious legislation, and yet that small proportion will be a corruption fund, the like of which was never known before in any government on the face of the earth, (Applause and cheers.) A voice: "If Mark Hanna could only hear 'Il Mark Hanna could only hear Against this enemy, armed with all Against this enemy, armed with an the implements of party warfare; against this enemy, supplied with all the material that is supposed to be available in such a conflict; against this enemy, confident, arrogant and insolent, we have nothing to oppost except the consciences of seventy million of people. My friends, those who live lifty years from now, reading the page of history, will envy those who lived in this day of such wonderful opporunity. I was born after the war, I le-long to that generation which has never had an opportunity to prove its leve of country upon the battle-field, but oh, my countrymen, never in the history of this country has there been such an opportunity for the citizen to prove his love, not only of his country, but of mankind and of his God as there is today. (Great applause and cheers.) Show me a people, show me a man who has suffered from injusthe, show me a man who has been made the victim of legislation any-where and I will show you a man from chose heart goes out a silent prayer that we shall win in this conflict. (Appliance.) Show me an aristocracy anywhere that despises the common people, as built of inferior mould, show me a kind who is jealous of every right his subjects have, show me a manufacturer that has no thirst except the thirst for gold, show me an aggregation of wealth that lives by oppression of fellowmen anywhere, and I will show you people who are standing by and egging that success may those who are opposed to us. (Great applause.) As the presidential nominee of the people's alliance, I want to say to you that I do not desire the involuntary support of any citizen of this nation. We appeal to the will, we subrult our cause to the judgment of the people, and if I am elected I want to feel that behind me I have a majority of these people, and then, so help me God. I will earry out that platform to letter, (Great applause and has always been the lot of those who has always been the lot of those who fought against entrenched privileges. If you become annoyed turn back to the pages of history, and for every tame that is applied to you will find one equally severe applied to Jefferson, for every name applied to you, you will find one equally severe applied to Jefferson. find one equally severe applied to Jack-son. I may come nearer than that. That great spirit yonder (pointing to a portrait of Lincoln) was as malignant-ly attacked by the aristocracy of wealth and would be as unpopular today in New York or Boston among our finan-ciers as Jackson was, or Jefferson was there as Jackson was, or Jefferson was in his day. Do your duty as you see it. I believe that we shall triumph—aye, more than believe. As surely as to-morrow's sun shall rise, the day will come when the morning sun shall rise upon our cause; the day will come when bimetallism will be restored to this country; the day will come when the money of the constitution will again be out; the day will come when trusts the day will come when trusts the day will come when the sure; the day will come when trusts the day will come when the same trusts the day will come when the day will come wh be ours; the day will come when trusts shall cease to be greater than the gov-ernment which created them; the day will come when the people of this coun-try will be content to stand side by side. not one upon another; the day will come when, standing shoulder to shoulder, they shall march on, each one content to enjoy life and liberty and the pursuit of happiness, without attempting to deprive his neighbor of equal opportunity and equal rights.

KILLED A TRAIN ROBBER.

Plucky United States Marshal Foils a Hold-Up Attempt in New Mexico. Albuquerque, N. C., Oct. 4.—An attempt to rob the east-bound passenger train No. 2 on the Atlantic and Pacific railroad was made early last evening by a gang of outlaws at Rio Puerco, a water tank station thirty miles from this city. The train had come to a stop and Engineer Ross had stepped down and Engineer Ross had stepped down from the caboose to adjust an engine pin that was out of gear when three masked men appeared with drawn re-volvers. They compelled Ross to un-couple the engine and express car from the train. Then they made for the ex-press messenger and commanded him to open the door of his car.

Deputy United States Marshal Loomis, who happened to be on the car, heard the commotion, and rushing forward from the rear end of the train, drew his revolver and fired several shots at the robbers. The fire was returned, and for several minutes the fusilade of bul-lets was hot. One of the outlaws stag-gered toward the bridge about 100 yards, and then dropped dead with a bullet through his brain. The other two robbers became frightened and ran away. The train men had many narrow escapes, one brakeman having a lantern shot from his hands.

The passengers were terrorized dur-ing the fight, many of them seeking safety under the seats. The dead out-law was recognized as Cole Young, a noted desperado and leader of the gang. The men are believed to be members of the band of robbers who have been operating in the southern part of New Mexico for some time.

The train left the scene of the attempted hold-up immediately and arrived in this city at midnight last night. when the particulars of the affair were told by Conductor Heady. He said De-puty Marshal Loomis remained at Rio Puerco, expecting the robbers to return for the body of their dead companion. A posse of officers have gone from the Atlantic Pacific junction to search for

DEATH OF WILLIAM MORRIS.

Well-Kuown English Poet Passes Away -- His Life Work.

London, Oct. 4.—William Morris, the celebrated English poet, died at 11 o'clock yesterday forencen.
William Morris, poet, Socialist, and artist, was born at Walthamstow, near London, in 1824. His parents were well to do, and he was educated at Mariborough and at Exeter college, Oxford. He was an excellent classical scholar, but a student who worked rather too much after his own ideas to rank high with the examiners. At Oxford he met Sir Edward Burne Jones, who was at that time on the point of taking or-ders, and later, with Rosetti, came under the influence of John Ruskin. Morris, however, did not succeed as a painter. Nor did he continue his profession after having studied architec-

In 1858 he published a small volume called "The Defence of Guenevere." and this was later republished in 1875. In 1863 he started with several part-ners in London an establishment for the production of artistic household decorations, wall paper, stained glass, and other decorative objects. He was highly successful as a designer, and wrote poetry in his leisure hours. In 1867 he published "The Life and Death best known work, "The Earthly Para-ilse," appeared. It was published in separate numbers during the two years from 1868 to 1870. It is told in twentyfrom 1868 to 1870. It is fold in twenty-four romantic tales by travellers starting for an earthly Paradise. In 1873 "Love is Enough" appeared, and his subsequent works have been a translation of "The Aeneids of Virgil done in-to English verse;" "The Story of Sig-urd the Volsung," and various translations from the Icelandic as well as "The Glittering Plain," "News from Nowhere," and various lectures on art and socialism, of which he had been for a long time an earnest advocate. He was a member of the Socialistic League in London, and, although he had gaine many friends in England, his politics views prevented any prospect of hi ever getting the laureateship.

SHOT DOWN HIS RESCUER.

Saved from Death Under a Train Cervidge Pulled a Pistol.

Elizabeth, N. J., Oct. 4.—Because Frank Eckert, a mail carrier, in saying Frank Cervidge's life accidentally knocked the latter's hat off, Cervidge dree a revolver and fired three shot at Eckert. All of the bullets took ef feet, and Eckert is believed to be mor tally wounded. The shooting took plac-in the presence of fifty passengers, who were waiting for a train at the New Jersey Central railroad station here. Cervidge lives in Westfield and ha-been at Easton, Pa. He refused to pay his fare and was hustled off an ex-press train here. He ran about the platform waving his arms and shout-ing. He ran across the tracks, an Eckert grabbed him just in time to save him from an approaching cotrain. Because Eckert was not mor gentle Cervidge cursed him and sho him. He was locked up.

NOVEL PLAN TO TEACH HISTORY.

Children to Be First Taught About Their Own Locality.

Sioux City, Iowa, Oct. 4.-On the supposition that the present system of his-torical study in the public schools deals too much with the life of the ancients and with countries remote from this. and with countries remote from this, Professor Kratz of the local school de-partment has evolved a novel method, which he proposes to try here during the coming term. He will begin with a history of the locality within a radius of only a dozen or twenty miles, gradually extend the limits until the entire northwest and finally the United States is embraced. The outside countries bordering on this will next be included, and at length the whole world. In order that the children shall know as much as possible of early life in as much as possible of early life in Sioux City and the neighboring towns, the professor has engaged a number of pioneer residents to lecture during the

That Johnson will be drafted is believed by many. That he was not purchased before the drafting season began is surprising, as he is certainly more capable than many of the National league twirlers. He likes Scranton, though, is in business here and wants to stay here, and it is not at all certain that he will consent to go away. He has the privilege of remain. away. Perhaps the most popular man connected with the Park Transportation company is Captain E. C. Culver, of Gardiner. In addition to the duties of Justice of the Peace, he makes daily trips to the Park train and personally interviews every man, boy, woman and ohild who travels on it. He is a walking encyclopedia of Park information. He knows the height of every peak, the altidude of every important location, and can give you Professor peak, the attitude of every important location, and can give you Professor Haydens theory of the Park's geologi-cal formation. Besides all this he is a prince of good fellows and has a fund of humor which sometimes carries him away when touching up descriptions away when touching up descriptions and legends of the Park.

Some time ago the captain had an experience which was too good to keep, and he gave it away to a friend in town. He was going from the Springs to Chnathar, and there were three very bright young ladies on the coach. One of them asked if it were customary to have so many mosquitoes in so high an altitude. The captain assured her that it was not usual; that they were increasing year by year; that no mosquitoes were ever known in the Park until, about eight years ago, a New Jersey schoolma'am had carelessly inclosed some in her trunk and let them out at Mammoth Hot Springs, when, out at Mammoth Hot Springs, when like rabbits in Australia, they became an increasing pest. All agreed that it was remarkable

All agreed that it was remarkable, but one girl seemed to carry a smile of incredulity. As the conversation continued, Mr. Culver was asked what he considered the most remarkable thing in the Park. He said that if beauty and grandeur were to be left out of the count, he thought the most "remarkable thing" was Alum Creek, a little stream putting into the river be-tween the falls and the lake. Originally he said, the distance between the ho-tels at the lake and the falls was twenty-six miles, but when they commenced to sprinkle the road between the two places with water taken from Alum Creek, som years ago, they soon found the distance between the hotels short-ened by about eight miles. As the hotels were then only about eighteen miles apart, and the road still shrink-ing, the superintendent ordered them to use no more water from Alum creek. And then the captain told an-other little legend about the creek that was quite well authenticated. Last year he said, a Chicago party went through the park on a camping tour, and a young lady with them came into the park wearing No. 8 shoes. After camping on Alum creek twa days and bathing her feet she went home wearing a pair of No. 2 gaiters.

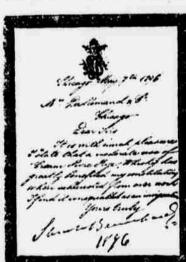

At this point the girl with the incredulous smile said to him: "Don't you think it would be a good plan to bathe your head in that creek a time or two?"
