

POLICE PUT A STOP TO THE BATTLE

Leonard and Judge Were Fighting Viciously When Officers Interfered.

CROWD WAS MUCH DISAPPOINTED

Their Appetite Had Been Whetted for a Real Fighting Match When Chief Robling Entered Ring and Stopped the Argument—Two Exhibitions Preceded the Go of the Evening.

About 500 persons paid a dollar or fifty cents apiece, according to the location of their seats, to see the Judge Leonard fight at Music Hall Saturday night, and but for the intervention of the police they would have gotten their money's worth. The men meant business and went at it another way, in fact, and Chief Robling's judgment told him it was not a scientific bout for points, as he had been given to understand, and after warning them once he put a stop to the slugging by threatening them with immediate arrest if it was persisted in. After a short consultation the fighters agreed to quit and for the six remaining rounds there was the worst kind of horse play, to the accompaniment of hisses, jeers and angry denunciations from the crowd.

The crowd's disappointment was all the more keen because it had been pleasantly disappointed in the character of the fight. The tip had been passed around that it was to be a battle for blood, but this announcement was taken with a grain of salt, because of the number of excuses to which the admirers of the mainly art have been treated, after the promise of really truly truth. The first round had not been on for five minutes when it was seen that the men were there to fight. Then the crowd was in great glee. They were to see what had not been promised, but never given, and when the slugging match was over, it had been seen to fairly whet their appetites. It can be readily imagined how disappointed the crowd was at the intervention of the cops.

THERE WERE TWO OBJECTS. The primary object of the meeting was to catch the coin of the holiday crowd that was in the city Saturday, secondly, each of the men wanted to prove to the sporting world that he was better than the other and thereby put themselves in the way of an invitation to do a turn before some of the metropolitan clubs. Both are candidates for the first rank among light weights, and each had to get there over the vanquished form of his opponent or not get there at all. They were therefore on hand for business, and each determined to finish off their undecided six round argument at the Frothingham, two days ago.

They entered the ring at catch weight. Judge weighed 140 pounds to Leonard's 126. The local man also had the advantage in height, standing 5 1/2 inches taller than his opponent, and 10 inches longer. It was 10:30 o'clock when the preliminaries were over. Mike Keeley was chosen referee and James J. Coleman time-keeper. Halcyon Tithill, Leonard's trainer, who is also the trainer of Griffo and a number of other light weights, handled the "beast." His manager, F. C. Albright, was also in his corner, and was first to attack which Chief Robling called them over the ropes and cautioned them against slugging.

The first round was nearly all taken up with surveillance. Each determined, however, they exchanged a few clean blows and got tangled up several times. Judge drew blood from Leonard's lip with a straight right hand blow.

Leonard forced the fighting in the second, rushing at Judge and using his forearm as a shield against his mits. Judge, however, would stop the fighting with a clinch and then lay back his shorter opponent with interest when the long arm began again. Twice Judge caught Leonard as he was closing in and gave him vicious thumps about the face.

JUDGE GETTING THE BEST OF IT. Judge was growing confident and aggressive and was clearly leading the New Yorker. As the round was drawing to a close Judge with his back almost against the ropes stopped one of Leonard's rushes and was fighting him off in good style, when Chief Robling jumped into the ring and ordered the men to quit. Both smiled at the chief as much as to say "why this is just fun," but he couldn't see it that way and told them so. On their promise to tone it down a little he agreed to let them finish the eight rounds.

The third round started out as nervously as the preceding one had ended and ended very fairly begun, when the police rushed in and stopped the fight. There was a general hubbub and after a few minutes wrangling the fight was declared off. For the remaining six rounds there was a bit of horse play, the men merely ducking and tapping each other playfully. Leonard occasionally giving the referee and Chief Robling a rap. Leonard made a speech saying he was willing to fight Judge for any amount at any time and Judge made a like announcement.

There was a curtain raiser of three rounds between Thomas Gardner and John P. Boland, two local bantams and a similar set-to between John Tighe of this city and Michael Gibson of Pittston, in which Tighe did as he liked with the Pittstonian, although the latter is a bigger man.

Outside of the stage show, there was a laughable entertainment provided by the crowd, which kept up a continual run of comical sallies, expressive of impatience or disgust at the occasion demanded. A Wilkes-Barre "buck" named Dempsey, who officiated as master of ceremonies wasn't a bit of a favorite with the crowd and he was made to feel it.

TEAM WORK WAS SUPERIOR. Scranton Business College Team Took a Game from the Reds. An exciting game of foot ball was played Saturday at Schwenks' park on the South Side between the Scranton Business College foot ball team and the South Side Reds. Over 400 persons saw the game and loudly cheered their favorites.

Though the college team was lighter than the Reds its team work was superior. The score was 4 to 0.

GOLF NOTES. Mr. Bendelow, the New York city golf expert, a professional coach, will today begin giving private golf lessons to certain members of the Country Club. A sufficient number of persons have engaged to take lessons from him the whole of the week, morning and afternoon. The engagement of Mr. Bendelow, while under club auspices, is not a club project. The fact that Scrantonians are willing to bear the expense of being coached by so great a player illustrates quite forcibly the interest being taken in the game in this city.

J. H. Brooks on Saturday won the cup offered by T. H. Watkins, the club golf captain, by scoring 108 for 18 holes. Frank Fuller was second with a score of 113. H. P. Simpson tallied 119 and Reynolds Bedford 124. Mr. Brooks lowered his record from 111.

The first match game between Scranton and Wilkes-Barre golfers will be played on the 24th. The next one will be on the 30th. There will be five players on each team.

WELL WORTH HEARING.

Three better orators than Charles Emory Smith, James H. Hoyt and D. D. Woodmansee, who will speak next Thursday evening at the grand Republican mass meeting in the Frothingham, theater, are not to be found. This meeting will be open to all and every voter will find it worth his while to be there.

BOUNDARY COMMISSION.

Considering Reports on the Venezuelan Controversy—A Number of New Documents Submitted.

Washington, Oct. 11.—The Venezuelan Boundary Commission held its first meeting yesterday since the summer adjournment. All the members were present. This session, which occupied the entire day, was devoted to the consideration of the reports presented. No final decision, however, can be arrived at until the receipt of the report of the United States government, now being prepared by Professor Burr, whose return from Europe is expected by the end of this month.

The annual volume of the case of Venezuela is $75,000, the archbishop the patron of 195 livings. In addition to his archiepiscopal residence at Lambeth place, he had a seat at Addington Park, Croydon, Surrey.
