INSTRUCTING THE COUNTY TEACHERS

Given New Ideas with Regard to Imparting Instruction to the Young.

TWO MEETINGS IN THE MORNING

Grammar Teachers Met in One Place and Primary and Intermediate Teachers in Another—Talks by Prof. Redway, Dr. Holbrook and Superintendent Coughlin in the Afternoon—The Entertainment in the Evening.

A good deal of earnest work was done at the county institute yesterday. In the morning the teachers divided, those in the grammar grades holding one meeting and those in the primary and intermediate grades another. This was done to more equally fit the instruction to the work the teachers are engaged in.
The morning session opened with music led by Professor H. E. Cogswell, who afterwards again emphasized the great need of considering the thought in words that expression and feeling may be the chief factors in song. Then the division of the teachers took place. Professor N. T. Houser, superintendent of the Dunmore schools, led the grammar teachers into one of the parlors where he presided over their meeting. A paper was read by Parke Richards on "Why Should We Educate," which drew forth a spirited discussion, participated in by F. L. Thompson, of Dalton, Superintendent Houser and Miss Mary J. McAlle, of Olyphant. "Teacher or Text Book—Which?" was the subject of a paper read by Miss Mary C. Barrett, of Carbondale. Dr. Marla L. Pratt on "United States History" closed the session.
Teachers in the primary and intermediate grades remained in Young Men's Christian Association hall, where Superintendent Coughlin, of the Wilkes-Barre schools, spoke to them regarding their study. He favored phonetic study for the young child that it may acquire an accurate and clear articulation which will be of great service in obtaining a vocabulary. Expression in reading should be carefully taught, as it is the best means of enabling the pupil to state a fact clearly, accurately and distinctly. The first step in the study of language should be to make the pupil comprehend a fact in all of its phases and its entire significance, and he advised that the first lessons be in the nature of talks, leading the child step by step to express his ideas in a clear, straightforward way. Following this the child should be directed to describe things in an orderly, systematic way, which is necessary to make a description clear and interesting.

GRADUAL PROGRESS.

Step by step the pupil can be led along this path during the first year at school and in the second year he advised the policy of having the child make an accurate copy from the printed copy. Following this the child should be directed to describe things in an orderly, systematic way, which is necessary to make a description clear and interesting.

MISS BRIGHT DISCHARGED.

Charge That She Kept a House of Ill Repute Was Dismissed.
Harriet Bright, a gray-haired and matronly looking woman of about 50 years, was yesterday arraigned before Alderman Howe on the charge of keeping a house of ill repute on the boulevard, near Third street. Her defense, however, to substantiate the base allegation, and the case was dismissed. Whether or not Miss Bright kept a house of ill repute, the character was not disclosed.
The arrest was the result of a visit of the young girl, whose disclosures to the police officer should be done without a purpose, and the compositions and copying of the children should be treated as though they were of importance. In this instance, when the child has copied something or written a composition they should not be asked to wipe it out and re-write it, for the best effort of the child by offering such discouragements. The next step should be the correction of the vocabulary of the child. To further stimulate the child he would have them recall thoughts from the written exercise. He would have the children write in simple sentences. The children should be early taught to use their own language and not the language of the books.
The teachers sang "Oh Fair Little Maiden" and the superintendent, Professor Coughlin, and Professor Redway then addressed the teachers on "Beginning Geography." He is a firm believer in the study of geography and interest in teaching and said the teacher should look at geography as the description of the abiding place of man. So long as only the shell of geography is considered by the teacher his work is a waste of time and labor. Make the study practical, bring home to the child the study of geography and you will make real progress and awaken an interest in the study of geography which you never dreamed of. "We should not be content with the economic geography into the lessons and discuss the earth as the habitation of man; the place where all man's wants are provided for."
All of the teachers again met in the main court room and listened to a talk on "Pedagogy" by R. Reber Holbrook, Ph. D., professor of pedagogy in Clarion State Normal school. The mind of the teacher has to deal with, he said, is a germ of the divine in process of conscious growth, whose unfolding and development will be largely influenced by the character of the teacher and the nature of the instruction imparted. The mind is not only a conscious growth, but a self-active growth. Some teachers go on the theory that children's minds are not active, and that they must furnish the activity. They should keep hands off the nature is all right, and human nature is all right. The heart of man is naturally right; it is a growth and it grows in the right direction. According to the nature it is a working God, and it is not the province of the teacher to improve upon the work of God, but to work with God. The teacher working outside of the teacher which the teacher should work with.

IN THE AFTERNOON.

The teachers met at 2 o'clock in the afternoon and after singing listened to a talk by Professor Redway on "The Use of the Recitation," which he prefaced by answering a number of questions that had been asked him during the noon recess. The recitation Professor Redway believes, should be used as a means of assisting the pupil to study. The questions an answer cannot all be remembered nor should they be as they are only the means to an end. The quiz exercise is very excellent and very useful because it freshens the recollection, but that it is not the main point of the recitation. The object should be to have the scholar grasp the meat of the subject under consideration and be able to demonstrate his knowledge of the questions put to him. Teachers cannot get good results unless they organize the subject in their own minds and then teach them what they are driving at. By pursuing such a course they enforce the lesson they are teaching on the pupil. It is not so much your purpose to find out if the scholar has read the printed page of the text book as to learn if he has assimilated the knowledge it contains. Professor Redway believes in conducting recitations with open books if in that way the idea of the lesson can be best impressed on the pupil's mind.
Dr. Holbrook was the next instructor, and he again spoke on "Pedagogy." He is an entertaining speaker, and succeeds in making a very dry subject decidedly interesting. He does not believe in worrying because pupils fail to remember all they are taught. They should not be expected to do so.
"You can't make a growing mind," he said, "take any more than it can take or any more than it is hungry for. It is a relief to me to come back to some line of thought that will save me from worrying because my pupils do not remember everything I teach them and because I do not teach them everything I think they ought to know. To know consists of opening up a way by which the soul may escape rather than to open a way for light that is without to enter. It is our business not to put our lives into our pupils, as some contend, but to develop that life which is within every human being."

TREASURY IS DEPLETED.

Board of Charities to Take Vigorous Steps to Raise Money.
The regular meeting of the associated board of charities was held last evening. The numerous applications for aid during the year has kept the treasury continuously depleted, and it was decided at the meeting to adopt vigorous measures for the purpose of raising more money.
A benefit will be given the associated charities at Davis' theater, on Oct. 27, and it is hoped that the public will contribute liberally. A request will be made to the daily and Sunday newspapers of Scranton to enclose a circular appeal of the organization in one edition of each paper. A donation of twenty-five dollars from Goldsmith Bros. & Co., was received with remarks of approval.
The work for the past month is as follows: Cases investigated, 29; found worthy, 11; in need and unworthy, 11; work found for 4; transportation, 4; lodging and meals, 7; sent to various institutions, 7; returned to friends, 2; sent to Lackawanna hospital, 2; cases attended by nurse, 3; referred to authorities outside city, 5.

AT THE AGE OF EIGHTY-FOUR.

Death of Mrs. Mary Brown, an Olyphant Octogenarian, Yesterday.
At the ripe age of 84 years, Mrs. Mary Brown, of Olyphant, passed away yesterday morning at 10 o'clock at Mahon hotel, where she had come to a talk by Professor Redway on "The Use of the Recitation," which he prefaced by answering a number of questions that had been asked him during the noon recess. The recitation Professor Redway believes, should be used as a means of assisting the pupil to study. The questions an answer cannot all be remembered nor should they be as they are only the means to an end. The quiz exercise is very excellent and very useful because it freshens the recollection, but that it is not the main point of the recitation. BUSINESS SESSION OF THE LUTHERANS

Reports of Officers and Elections Occur in the Morning.

PREPARING FOR THE JUBILEE

Afternoon Session's Principal Feature Was the Discussion of the Sequi-Centennial to Be Commemorated in 1898—Interesting Historical Paper by Rev. Mr. Zitzeman. Services Held in Three Churches in the Evening.

The business session of the Wilkes-Barre conference of the Evangelical Lutheran Ministerium opened in the Zion Lutheran church, Millin avenue, at 9 o'clock yesterday morning.
The devotional exercises were conducted by President Lindenstruth, the routine business of the conference was taken up. First was heard the report of the secretary, Rev. Mr. Lindenstruth in his review of the year reported very encouraging progress due to the activity of the workers in this district. He gave the financial and other reports, and made several suggestions. The report was referred to a committee with instructions to pass upon his suggestions and bring them up before the conference later in the session. Rev. J. O. Schlenker, English secretary and treasurer, reported among other things that there was $216 in hand for the maintenance of the North Scranton mission which is being supported by voluntary contributions from the members of the conference. Revs. Dr. Ritter, Kuder, Longene and Wensath, and Messrs. Swartz and Eberle, were appointed a special committee to look after the mission.
The election of officers resulted as follows: President, Rev. L. Lindenstruth, of Mauch Chunk; English secretary and treasurer, Rev. J. O. Schlenker, of Hazleton; German secretary, Rev. W. Landolph, of Petersburg.
The committee appointed to consider the matter of organizing a home and foreign missionary society, reported that such a society had been formed since the last conference. Under the head of "Sunday School Literature," there was an interesting discussion on the Sunday school lessons and lesson helps and as a result the following resolution was adopted:
Resolved, That this Wilkes-Barre conference solemnly protest against the individualism shown in the publication of the Sunday School Lessons and Lesson Helps by the General Council, and the work of its committee in supplying the church with such literature, and that it be recommended that we caution all the Sunday Schools of the conference against using lesson helps unauthorized by the General Council.
The following committee was appointed to carry out the resolution: Rev. G. M. Schreyer, of Hazleton; Rev. A. L. Ramer, both of this city, after which adjournment was had for dinner.
AFTERNOON SESSION.
The afternoon session opened with devotion by Rev. G. M. Schreyer, of Hazleton, and was presided over by Rev. A. M. Strauss, of Lehighton. The sequi-centennial of the Ministerium of Pennsylvania, the largest district of the general council, received considerable attention. The Pennsylvania ministerium consists of ten district conferences and has a membership of 120,000. It was organized in 1748 and the jubilee of the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary will be celebrated in 1898. The question of raising $100,000 for the purchase of a historical volume for the conference and ultimately a synodical one to be known as the memorial volume. The benefits of such a volume would be of great value to the church's very important and various interests.
In the discussion Rev. P. F. Zitzeman, of Zion's church, related the earlier history of Lutheranism in Northeastern Pennsylvania. In the history of the general council, he related that in 1748 a North Scranton school house, which building is yet in a good state of preservation. In 1859-60 Rev. Nathan Younger, Ministerium of Pennsylvania, held services in Scranton, Hyde Park, Providence, Archbold, Ransom and Carbondale. In 1860 Rev. H. Zitzeman came all the way from San Antonio, Tex., the war having made it unfeasible for him to remain there any longer. He, with many others, was in great danger of being lynched. Zion's congregation on Millin avenue was organized in 1860. Three German and three English congregations in the North Scranton district grew out of this organization.
PRESIDENT'S REPORT.
President Lindenstruth's report was next taken up and adopted item by item.
Resolutions on the death of the Rev. G. A. Strutz, well-known throughout the whole synod, and a most zealous Lutheran divine, were passed with a ringing assent.
The Slavonian congregation of Peckville, the Polish, of Providence, the German, of Carbondale, and the English Parish of North Scranton received due attention, and two special committees were appointed to look after them.
Decided opposition to the present incumbent of the office of missionary superintendent and the office itself was manifested. It was alleged that owing to his lack of active interest in North Scranton that mission is on the point of abandonment.
Revs. Kavalala and Tavel, both members of the Pittsburgh synod, are in attendance, the former is about to take charge of the Slavonians and the latter of the Poles. Rev. M. Eisinger will probably be elected permanent secretary at Carbondale. Several pastors expressed themselves very strongly against the practice of calling men to mission fields and then putting them upon mere starvation salaries.
The synod was asked to define the relation of the synod's missionary societies to the general council. The president, a question ignored at the last synodical convention held at Allentown, but which point shall be definitely settled at the next conference.
Revs. Ritter, Kuder and Kuntz were named as a committee on jubilee fund. Three evening services were held in as many different churches.
At Zion church Rev. C. J. Cooper spoke on education; Rev. W. H. Strauss on home missions, and Rev. E. A. Eberle on foreign missions. At Trinity church Rev. J. E. Whitaker, of Easton; Rev. Ashmead Shafer, Philadelphia, and Rev. E. F. Ritter, of Hazleton, delivered addresses at the Lutheran church, Petersburg, Rev. G. H. Trebert, of Wilkes-Barre, and others spoke.
The conference will, it is expected, close tonight.

While Settling One Theft McLaughlin Is Accused of Committing Another. Mary Jones and Lizzie Evans, two West Side women, had Patrick McLoughlin, a Scranton street man, arraigned before Alderman Millar yesterday on the charge of robbing. The allegation was that during the absence of the Jones woman, McLoughlin entered her house and stole $3 from her bureau drawer. The theft was laid at her door and he went to Mrs. Jones to effect a settlement.
Lizzie Evans was visiting Mrs. Jones when McLoughlin called. She had with her a purse containing $2.50. As she was about to go she discovered that her purse was missing.
