THEY WERE VERY SLEEPY.

Two Taylorites Twice Found Sleeping on the Sidewalk.

The Lowry brothers, of Taylor, who are well known in police circles, came to this city yesterday in a very sleepy mood. About 2 o'clock Patrolman Rosen Jones found them cuddled up fast asleep on the sidewalk in front of Green's pawn shop, on Lackawanna avenue. The patrol wagon was sent for but before it arrived the sleepers, who had been given the tip by friends, got up and ambled down the avenue.

The officer was congratulating himself that he had gotten rid of them so easily when, on reaching the corner of Lackawanna and Franklin avenues, half an hour later he found the two wretchedly wrapped in each others' and Morphine's embrace, with the cold, hard lesson of a flagstone as their bed. This time they were not allowed to escape. The wagon was summoned and in a few minutes they were finishing their nap in the station house.

NEW IDEAS FOR THE COUNTY TEACHERS

Advanced in the Lectures Delivered Before Them at Yesterday's Sessions.

ANNUAL MEETING OF DIRECTORS

Was Held in the Parlors of the Y. M. C. A.—Seven Thoughtful Papers Read—Officers Elected for the Year. Addressed by Prof. George Bible Dr. Holbrook and Others—Entertainment in the Evening.

Superintendent N. T. Houser, of Dunmore, presided over the session of the county teachers yesterday, County School Directors being engaged with the directors of the county who were meeting in Young Men's Christian Association hall. After the usual drill in music by Professor Conzelli, Professor Redway delivered a lecture on "Map drawing and map reading." One of the teachers asked him if these were the only maps that the best Atlantics ever having exhibited. His reply was that it was probable that it had existed but there is no absolute proof of it. In drawing maps and reading maps the professor said it is the distribution of commercial points that should be fixed in the minds of the pupils. When this is noted the areas given to different products should be taught and other details of the map filled in. The lecture was illustrated with drawings on the blackboard.

A paper solo was given by Professor Lloyd of Piceburg, and Professor Holbrook followed with a talk on "Pedagogy." He told the teachers that when a pupil does not want to study there is something wrong for the child with a healthy mind is eager for information and wants to learn. The mind must work as all the organs of the body must. It is a mistake that is growing among teachers that everything should be made as easy as possible for the student. He advised teachers to assign lessons as if the pupils wanted something to do and if the pupil is unable to overcome any difficult point they should be given assistance.

TALK ON CHILD STUDY.

Dr. Maria L. Pratt closed the morning session with another of her talks on "Child Study." She said the best period for work in the school room is immediately after the morning session begins and if she had her way she would have the pupils at arithmetic when in almost all schools they are singing. The proper mental result can not be obtained when the physical condition is not proper. Teachers should try to be cheerful and happy and make the atmosphere of the school room optimistic. In the afternoon the session opened with the singing of two choruses by the teachers. Professor Redway followed with a talk on the "Correlation of Geography and History." He believes in teaching the two studies together. He described a number of peculiar geographical formations and made the statement that the commercial prosperity of New York over the other seaboard cities of the east is due in a great measure to the Erie canal, which gives it a direct connection with western markets. The canal was the great westward. This canal was made possible by a peculiar geographical formation in the valley drained by the Mohawk river.

Professor Cogswell said he had been asked to sing for the institute, but instead would have the graphophone reproduced for them his song, "Sweetest of Sweethearts," which he sang into it Wednesday evening. The reproduction was excellent. Several other graphophones were given. One was "Put Me Off at Buffalo," which drew a large number of the county directors from the parlor where they were meeting.

PROFESSOR BIBLE'S TALK.

Professor George Bible, principal of Strongsville normal school, was introduced at the conclusion of the graphophone exhibition. "We have heard," he said, "a great deal about reading in the past few days. I have not yet reached that high standard we wish to attain we should not be discouraged. We are making progress, and I believe that golden days for the teacher are approaching. He dwelt upon the necessity of child study, and said more thought and investigation with reference to the peculiarities of each student will result in better and more satisfactory results. Superintendent Cogswell's afternoon lecture was "Reading for Profit."

"I think," he said, "the great duty of the teacher is to form character, and I believe that the greatest teacher is the one who can stand behind his desk and best help the pupil to help himself. A great deal can be done in this direction by a wise selection of course of reading. I want to draw a distinction between learning to read and reading. Learning to read is merely a preparation for reading, and it ought to be completed at the end of the third year. How many of us succeed in getting through with this matter in three years? The teacher who gives the third reader the pupil should read for information and profit and should be encouraged to read assimilate books in fixing a teacher's salary. A good teacher along proper lines."

MEETING OF THE DIRECTORS.

They Elected Officers and Transacted Other Important Business.

In connection with the county teachers' institute the four annual meeting of the Lackawanna County Directors' association was held yesterday in one of the Young Men's Christian Association parlors. The deliberations of the directors were presided over by John W. Cure, of Greenfield, president of the association, who delivered an address on "How to Improve Our Schools." He immediately after the meeting opened at 10 a. m. A very thoughtful paper was read by D. H. Moses, secretary of the Spring Brook board of directors. "Teacher's Salaries be Graded?" He was of the opinion that experience and proved efficiency should be the main factors in fixing a teacher's salary. A good test of a teacher's ability, he thought, consists in his success in interesting the pupil in the work of the school year. The paper was discussed by Superintendent Cogswell, of Wilkes-Barre, Superintendent Taylor, of this county; J. L. Stone, of Waverly, and William H. Morgan, secretary of Dickinson city school board. The directors next listened to an address on "New School Laws," and called their attention to the necessity of having an exhaustive law on contagious diseases. In regard to the compulsory education law, he said, the best way to repeal a poor law is to have a good one. By enforcing it the defects will become obvious, therefore he urged even those opposed to it to work for its enforcement. Mr. Cough-

COMPANY G THE WINNER.

Last of the Citizens' Matches Shot at Dickinson City Range.

The last of the citizens' matches was shot yesterday afternoon at Dickinson City range, Companies B, D and G competing for the second prize. The afternoon was favorable for shooting and as this match was to decide the tie between Companies D and G there was more than the usual interest in the contest.

Company D led in the shooting at 200 yards but at the finish at 600 yards Company G of Montrose, was an easy winner by fourteen points lead. This makes Company G winners of the second prize in the match. Company A having already won the first place in the competition.

At 6:30 last evening the winning teams of A and G were dined at Hotel Jerome in company with Colonel Watson, Colonel Courson, Major Barnard and H. B. Cox, inspector of rifle practice. Lieutenant Jessup and his Montrose team remain in the city until some time today.
